BARE WAR LOAN TO BRITAIN

Truman's Labor Parley Ends in Row

NOTHING ACCOMPLISHED; 'ADVANCES' ARE CLAIMED

Union Chiefs Attack Business and One Another

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The national labor-management conference adjourned tonight without setting up the hoped for machinery to handle post-war labor disputes.

The conferees were in complete disagreement on such major issues as wage policies and collective bargaining, but leaders insisted the meeting had achieved "substantial advances toward industrial peace."

Strife Breaks Into Open

The closing session of the 25 day meeting called by President Truman to devise means of curbing industrial strife flared into open attacks on management by ranking labor leaders, and a vigorous exchange between the heads of the rival CIO and AFL unions.

Toward the end, John L. Lewis arose to scold fellow labor leaders for inability to agree among themselves. He called on them to witness management's "precise and efficient functioning" at the conference and to put their "own house in order" by unifying their policies.

Little business was transacted today, other than the defeat, by voice vote, of each proposal submitted by either labor or management. Each side voted as a bloc.

Deadlock was Certain

Failure of the executive committee to iron out long standing disagreements at a four-hour session before the general meeting had made the final deadlock a foregone conclusion.

The highlight was a dispute over wage resolutions carried to the floor by Philip Murray, CIO president. In a 40-minute address he urged the conference to go on record as stating the "imperative need of granting substantial wage increases now."

He asserted a wage resolution had been killed in a subcommittee, headed by William Green, AFL president, but that "this conference will not fully discharge its obligations to the people" without expressing its views on the question.

Denounces Management

Murray also accused industry of reducing the earnings of labor by $10.75 a week since V-E day and declared that collective bargaining thruout the country had broken down because management had failed to "accept its responsibility." He named the General Motors corporation and the United States Steel corporation specifically as examples of industries which were refusing to bargain collectively with their workers.

Green, after a hastily called caucus with AFL delegates; John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and representatives of the railroad brotherhoods, declared Murray had changed his position as to injecting wage questions into the conference. In light of this development, he said, he was offering an amendment to the Murray resolution, changing it to read:

"It is of the first and utmost importance that wage increases be granted immediately."

Green said Murray, altho a mem-

G. M. REQUESTS CIO'S STRIKERS TO MAKE PARTS

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—The strike idle General Motors corporation proposed to the CIO's United Auto Workers tonight that work in G. M.'s parts and accessories division be resumed for the benefit of other automobile manufacturers.

The proposal was made in a letter from C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, to R. J. Thomas, president of the striking union, which has tied up G. M. production since Nov. 21 in a strike affecting 225,000 workers.

Restoring the Flow

Wilson said the proposal, for which he suggested "acceptance by your union," was made with the thought of restoring the flow of auto parts and accessories from G. M.'s factories for other reconverting plants of the industry.

The union was notified informally of General Motors' proposal, but made no comment. A spokesman at UAW-CIO headquarters said a reply probably would not be forthcoming before tomorrow.

"We are willing," Wilson said, "to ship any materials which are ready for shipment to other manufacturers. We also are willing and offer to operate all of our parts and accessory divisions during the period of this strike exclusively on outside work—that is, on material required by manufacturers other than General Motors car, truck, and body divisions."

For Outsiders Only

If the union accepts, Wilson said, men would be called back to work with the understanding that no work would be done except for outside manufacturers.

When the General Motors strike began, authorities in the industry expressed fear that it might force all other automobile manufacturers except the Ford Motor company to quit production for lack of parts from General Motors.

Tonight's offer from General Motors came shortly after the corporation and the UAW-CIO had failed to reach an agreement in a dispute over picketing of G. M.'s plants. General Motors charged the union with "illegal picketing."

Another Next Week

Today's conference on the subject, had it been successful, would have removed one obstacle against a resumption of strike negotiations. Vice President Harry W. Anderson of General Motors left the meeting room to announce "no progress," but he said a second meeting would be held next Wednesday.

In refusing provisionally to negotiate further with the union, General Motors demanded modification of the UAW wage demand and an end to picketing which, it charged, has kept thousands of supervisory and office workers from plants.

The union has refused to budge from its demand for a 30 per cent wage rate increase within General Motors' present price structure unless General Motors can prove from its books that such an increase is impossible.

Chief Federal Conciliator Edgar L. Warren will consult next Tuesday at Washington, D. C., with Anderson. Warren, who met earlier this week with UAW-CIO leaders, said he hoped to get negotiations resumed "as soon as possible."

A Ford Mystery

Union heads declined to disclose significance behind their request of the Ford Motor company today to delay until Monday further consideration of their 30 per cent wage boost demand on that company.

Richard Leonard, director of the UAW-CIO Ford department, said an "important development" had influenced the union to ask the delay. He refused to elaborate.

Chrysler corporation announced extension of its contract with the UAW-CIO to midnight Dec. 4 from its expiration time of midnight tonight.

The union and Chrysler were in negotiation today, and the session was recessed until Dec. 4. The UAW-CIO also has made its 30 per cent demand on Chrysler.

FORGOTTEN LAND

4 Children Die in Home Fire; Baby Rescued

Four small children of a McHenry county soldier were burned to death and a fifth was rescued last night when fire destroyed their home in Gardner subdivision of Fox River Grove. The child saved and the soldier's wife, who attempted to take them from the burning bungalow, were burned.

The dead were Frederick Lynn, 6; Janet, 5; Richard, 4, and Judith, 2, children of Frederick Lynn Ertmann, 28, and his wife, Hildur, 27. Mrs. Ertman and the surviving child, Sharon, 1, were taken to Sherman hospital in Elgin.

Neighbor Goes to Rescue

Lee Logan, a neighbor, said he heard cries for help about 9 p. m., and looking from his home, saw the Ertmann home enveloped in fire.

When he arrived there Logan said he found Mrs. Ertmann attempting to enter the kitchen door. She had suffered burns on the face and arms and he prevented her from rushing into the building.

Logan said he saw Sharon in a crib in a bedroom. He broke the window, reached in, and pulled the baby to safety.

Others Trapped in Bunks

The fire prevented him from reaching the other children who apparently had been trapped in double deck bunks in the same room.

Neighbors told Deputy Coroner Harry C. Shales of Crystal Lake that they heard what they believed was an explosion. The fire appeared to center in the living room in which there was a new coal heater.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Ertmann complained to neighbors that she had been having difficulty in regulating the stove. She said gas fumes were noticeable.

The father of the family was drafted about a year ago. He is at Camp Crowder, Mo. Red Cross officials were attempting to notify him about the fire.

PEORIA PILOT FLIES AROUND WORLD; 97 HOURS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—A twin engined A-26 attack bomber has completed a 24,859 mile flight around the world in 96 hours and 50 minutes flying time.

The war department announced today that the plane piloted by Col. Joseph R. Holzapple of Peoria, Ill., landed yesterday at National airport here. Holzapple said in a statement that the flight indicated squadrons of new light bombers could be dispatched quickly from the United States to any point in the world.

The A-26 flew westward by way of Hawaii, the Marianas, Okinawa, the Philippines, India, North Africa, the Azores and Bermuda.

OPA HIKES HARD COAL PRICE 19 CTS. A TON, EFFECTIVE TODAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Hard coal price increases averaging 19 cents a ton, effective tomorrow, were announced by the OPA tonight.

Householders and other users of anthracite will pay higher prices as a result of increases of the same average amount granted to Pennsylvania producers.

The price boost is necessary, OPA said, to provide the industry with the equivalent of its 1942 profit margin, which was 19.9 cents a ton. This minimum margin was established some time ago by the office of economic stabilization.

MICHIGAN AV. FACTORY FIRE LOSS IS $50,000

Dolls and other toys intended for the Christmas market were destroyed last night when fire swept the interior of a three story building at 1331-1333 Michigan av., occupied by the Four Stars Manufacturing company. An adjoining three story building at 1335 Michigan av. was damaged.

Chief Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney estimated the loss at $50,000. He said the fire apparently was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Hundreds of spectators watched firemen fight the blaze, for which a 4-11 alarm was sounded. Michigan av. traffic was tied up between Roosevelt and Cermak rds. Altho a fire engine company is stationed only half a block away at 14th st. and Michigan av., the blaze spread quickly.

400 AUSSIE GI WIVES TOLD THEY CAN'T TAKE SHIP

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 30—Lt. Col. R. G. Jacobs, chief United States transport officer in Australia, told 400 American soldiers' wives and fiancees today that there was no possibility of wives getting transport to the United States in the near future.

Now classed as commercial passengers, wives and fiancees must secure their own transport at their own expense.

Teaching Pay for 8,000 to Increase $150

An annual salary increase of about $150 for the 8,000 teachers in Chicago public grade schools will be written into the 1946 budget by the school board, which has $4,124,000 more available for its educational fund next year, it was learned last night.

The teachers' raise, predicted by THE TRIBUNE last July, will take only part of the funds available for such purposes. The board has instructed its auditor to include raises for building trades craftsmen in the budget, and the board will study all salary rates "with special attention to those in the lower brackets."

Provide for Expanded Work

A report by John Howatt, business manager for the board, which board members will receive today, discloses that the additional funds available will be used to operate schools formerly leased to the navy, to reopen and expand the junior colleges, to provide positions for returning war veterans, to meet new union scales, and provide increases for other employes.

The increase for teachers will be applied on all levels in the grade schools, where the starting salary now is $1,625 and the maximum is $2,625 after eight years service.

Employe Groups to Be Heard

Beginning Dec. 12, the board will give all employe groups opportunity to present their pleas for higher salaries. The tentative budget will be drawn up Dec. 24 and will be adopted early in January.

Howatt's report of estimated resources shows the educational fund has $1,170,000 more thru an increase in the pegged levy; $1,660,000 more thru increased payments from the state distributive fund; $890,000 allowed by the state for excess cost of educating handicapped children, and $304,000 by "additional salvage in 1945."

He recommended total tax levies for 1946 of $72,456,000, compared with $69,248,000 in 1945. Altho the board has $4,124,000 more available in the educational fund in 1946, the tax levy for that fund will be increased by only $1,300,000.

Approximately $1,400,000 additional is available for the building fund in 1946, bringing to $4,083,000 the total potential for new buildings, Howatt's report stated.

One Hamlet Swept Away by Indian Tidal Waves

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 30 (AP)—Reports today said four tidal waves swept the Makran coast, near Karachi, on Wednesday after a severe earthquake. One hamlet was washed away. Pasni and Ormara, small towns, still were under water.

LOWER POINTS FOR DOCTORS AND DENTISTS

20,000 Expected to Be Released

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The war department announced today modification of the discharge requirements for doctors and dentists which it said would release an additional 15,000 physicians and 5,000 dentists.

The critical score for doctors and dentists was reduced from 80 to 70, effective immediately. The 70 score for doctors is 3 points below the new score for officers in other branches of the army which becomes effective tomorrow.

The army also amended the time factor for computing eligibility. Instead of requiring service prior to Pearl Harbor medical personnel now will be eligible for release after 42 months of honorable service. Any doctor or dentist who is 48 years of age is eligible for release.

Doesn't Affect All

The new standards apply to all medical corps officers except certain scarce categories.

For plastic surgeons, eye, ear, and nose specialists, orthopedic surgeons, and internal medicine specialists, discharge requirement will be 80 points or continuous service since Pearl Harbor. A requirement of 70 points or 45 months' service is fixed for gastroenterologists, cardiologists, urologists, and other specialists.

The point score for nurses has been cut from 35 to 25 and the age factor from 35 to 30. Nurses will be eligible for discharge after two years' service.

Reduce Time of Service

The score for the medical administrative corps has been dropped from 70 to 60, the pre-Pearl Harbor service requirement eliminated, and the time of service cut to 42 months. The age requirement remains at 42 years.

The score for physiotherapists has been reduced from 40 to 25 and the age requirement from 40 to 30. They will be eligible for discharge after two years' service. About 500 women officers are affected by these provisions. The score for dietitians was cut from 40 to 30 and the age requirement from 40 to 35.

Sanitary corps officers henceforth will need 60 instead of 70 points, 42 months of service or 42 years of age for discharge.

DEMAND END OF DRAFT

BY WILLIAM MOORE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—Republican senators, with Democratic support, called on congress today to end the draft. The Republicans sternly reprimanded the administration for its failure to stop the induction of men now that voluntary enlistments are far exceeding the 50,000 inductions a month that President Truman has said are necessary to furnish replacements.

Chairman George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee gave the Republicans his blessing in their demand that the senate military affairs committee act Tuesday on two proposals to override the administration's continuation of the draft.

Enlistments Heavy

One would stop the drafting of men who have children. The other would suspend the draft at once.

The attack on the administration was started by Sen. Revercomb [R., W. V.] with a report on the success of legislation recently enacted to end the need for the draft by encouragement of voluntary enlistments.

Revercomb said the army alone had 65,000 voluntary enlistments in October and 81,094 from Nov. 1 to 14 and that the navy was getting 500 enlistments a day when it last reported.

"Delay Return of Vets"

Revercomb charged that replacements are being received at a rate three times the services' needs, and that the return of veterans is nevertheless being delayed. He announced his intention of asking prompt action by the military affairs committee on legislation to take the matter from the administration's hands.

"We can do nothing more important," said Sen. Taft [R., O.] "than prevent the taking of boys from their homes when it is not necessary to do so."

Dead Widow's $40,000 Gone; Query Police

(Picture on page 8)

Don M. Peebles, attorney for the public administrator, yesterday sought the aid of the Probate court in tracing an estimated $40,000 believed to have been secreted in the home of Mrs. Huldah Sittig, 81, of 2247 Armitage av., who burned to death Oct. 13. Only $39.46 and several pieces of inexpensive jewelry were turned over to the coroner's office by Shakespeare av. police, Peebles said.

Testimony indicating the widow's treasure trove may have contained as much as $50,000 was offered at a hearing yesterday before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The court said that he would cite members of the Shakespeare station to appear before him at a hearing Jan. 8.

$6,000 Found in Home

Peebles said that the public administrator's office has been able to unearth only about $8,000 of Mrs. Sittig's estate. Of this, $6,000 in securities and gold coins and gold certificates were found in a locked safe in her second floor apartment. The remainder was in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Mrs. Richard Upton of 4043 Washington blvd. testified that she had been Mrs. Sittig's friend for many years and that she knew the widow kept between $40,000 and $50,000 in currency and securities hidden in her home.

Ronald Elliston, 12, who lives in the apartment immediately below that occupied by Mrs. Sittig, and who turned in the alarm when the fire broke out, testified to finding numerous envelopes filled with bills of $10, $20, and $100 denominations, which were turned over to police.

Saw a Lot of Money

Firemen, Ronald said, had hurled furniture, clothing, and mattresses out the window into a passage way between the building and an adjoining structure.

"I found a lady's pink slip," he said, "with a lot of envelopes pinned to it. One envelope had broken open and I saw a lot of $10 and $20 bills."

The boy said he gave the slip with its attached envelopes to his father, Edward. Elliston testified that he took them upstairs and gave them to the policemen in Mrs. Sittig's apartment.

Ordered from Room

He said the police ordered him from the room as they started counting the money.

Ronald was recalled and testified to finding another paper packet, bound with a rubber band, in the articles strewn in the passage way. He peeked inside, he said, and saw "lots of $100 bills." He handed the packet to a policeman who came thru the passage way, the boy added, and the policeman put it in his pocket.

Ronald's brother, Robert, 9, testified that he had witnessed this transaction.

Promises to Investigate

Informed of the Probate court inquiry, Supervising Capt. Joseph Goldberg said that he knew nothing of the matter, but promised to investigate.

"I don't know what this is all

425 MILLIONS HANDED OUT BY F. D. R. IN 1941

Vast Profit in U. S. Holdings Shown

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—The inside story of a 425 million dollar loan made to the British by the late President Roosevelt in July, 1941, was made public tonight by Sen. Moore [R., Okla.].

Sen. Moore

It disclosed that the British government, now veering to the left under the Labor party, owns vast holdings in 80 of the largest American industrial corporations. Among them are corporations controling vital American natural resources, particularly oil.

Moore charged that the circumstances surrounding the loan leave the British with a dollar balance of over half a billion dollars in this country while they are concluding arrangements for another loan of 3½ to 4 billion dollars of American taxpayers' money.

Liquidation Demanded

He urged that the British be required to liquidate their hitherto little known loan of 1941, now reduced in principal to 252 million dollars, sell their American holdings to Americans, and reduce their new loan demands by the half billion dollars they now have as an equity.

The 1941 loan, financed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, then headed by Jesse Jones, long has been a mystery in the capital. Few members of congress could even recall it, when inquiries were made of them, altho the RFC asserts it made the loan under provisions of an act of congress.

Moore asked that the British be required to liquidate the loan in a letter to Assistant Secretary of State Clayton, in charge of foreign economic affairs.

Put Up Collateral, Then

In their early days of American borrowing, as Moore tells the story, the British were willing to post collateral. The excellent American stocks they put up rose in value under American prosperity, so that the original 500 million dollar collateral is now estimated by Moore to be worth 775 million dollars.

There are two fundamental reasons, Moore wrote Clayton, why the United States should insist on liquidation of the 1941 loan as a condition of loaning the British more money:

"First, the British loan is being made for the express purpose of affording the British empire exchange in American dollars. It is grossly unfair to the American people to burden them with an additional financial obligation of 3½ or 4 billion dollars for this purpose when the British government has a dollar equity in this country of over half a billion dollars.

Business Principle Cited

"It is entirely proper that if the British are now in need of a 3½ billion dollar exchange in this country the amount should be reduced by the half billion dollars. If it is good business for the United States to bank the British loan, good business principle demands that the British first use their dollar assets in this country to mitigate the amount of the loan and thus relieve to whatever extent possible our already financially overburdened treasury.

"Second, liquidation of the RFC loan at this time would operate to return the shares held by the British government in American industrial concerns to American investors. It is unhealthy economically and contrary to our philosophy of free private enterprise for any government to be interested directly in a financial way in American enterprise.

"Stocks owned by the British and pledged to RFC represent 80 of the largest industrial organizations in America, including our large oil and gas companies, automobile manufacturing, chemicals, steel, utilities, radio, telephone and telegraph, locomotives, newspapers, banking and financial corporations, and numerous other businesses which would startle and amaze the American public.

As an example of British government ownership in American industry, the following companies and the number of shares owned are listed as follows:

General Motors, common	434,000
Radio Corp. of Am., common	177,000
Amerada Pet. Corp., common	133,000
Chrysler Corp., common	36,000
Stand. Oil [N. J.], capital	198,000
Stand. Oil [Ind.], capital	315,000
Soc.-Vacuum Oil, capital	130,000
Am. Tel. & Tel., capital	70,000
United States Steel, preferred	21,000

"Few, if any, large representative American industrial corporations are not represented in this list of British government ownership."

Stocks Deposited

Telling of all the securities posted as collateral by the British, Moore said:

"There was deposited as security for the loan listed common and preferred stocks of 80 representative American companies, having a market value at that time of 205 million dollars; unlisted securities consisting of common and preferred stocks and first and second mortgage bonds of 68 companies in which British ownership is substantial or controling, in the sum of 115 million dollars; capital stock of British owned United States insurance companies having an approximate net worth of 180 million dollars, and assignment of earnings of the United States branches of 41 British insurance companies.

"The market value of the listed securities at present is in excess of 350 million dollars. A market analyst advises me the unlisted securities have a reasonable market value of 215 million dollars. The net worth of the capital stock of the British owned United States insurance companies held as security is estimated to be 210 million dollars."

Added Burden Opposed

Moore emphasized that he does not oppose any loan to the British which is necessary for British and American economic well being. But he said it would be improper to burden the United States further with a greater loan than the British need. And, he said significantly:

"It would not be unfair or unreasonable to request the British to liquidate their loan by the sale of the securities. The American stock market is high. A better time probably could not be found to liquidate them."

BETTE DAVIS, 37, NERVOUS AT HER THIRD WEDDING

Riverside, Cal., Nov. 30 (AP)—Bette Davis, 37, was married today to William Grant Sherry, 30, at historic Mission Inn. It was Bette's third marriage.

The actress confessed she was nervous when she started up the aisle with her new stepfather, Robert Woodbury Palmer of Boston, Mass., who wed Bette's mother in near-by Palm Springs last week.

Sherry is a sea and landscape painter and a former navy pharmacist's mate. He met Miss Davis in September.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Francis C. Ellis of the Riverside Congregational church. The bride's uncle, the Rev. Paul Gordon Favor, who originally was scheduled to officiate before Bishop W. Bertrand Stevens of Los Angeles banned the rites in an Episcopal church at Laguna, was present but did not assist.

HURLEY READY FOR QUIZ; BARS SECRET TALKS

Storm Over His Charges Rages in Congress

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—The storm of criticism of United States policies in the far east which broke on Tuesday with the resignation of Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley as ambassador to China continued unabated in congress today.

Meanwhile, plans were being made for Hurley's appearance before at least two congressional committees next week where he will be questioned in detail regarding his charges that American career diplomats are sabotaging the nation's foreign policies to further the schemes of Communists and colonial imperialism.

Spurns Secret Hearings

He served notice today that he will have no part of secret committee hearings, explaining:

"I believe that the American people are entitled to have the basic information to enable them to form intelligent opinions on American foreign policy."

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] of the senate foreign relations committee had announced earlier that the colorful ex-diplomat would be asked to appear before the committee next Wednesday. It had not been decided whether the session would be open to newspaper men and the public or closed, said Connally.

Comment on Marshall

Hurley, who has been replaced as envoy to Chungking by Gen. Marshall, said he is anxious to see his successor succeed. He added that there should be an early public statement of American foreign policy in China.

"I will appear at any public hearing that is afforded me by congress," Hurley said.

The house committee on un-American activities voted this morning to ask Hurley to appear before that group on Monday or at any time convenient to him. He will be invited to tell the congressmen "what he knows about pro-Communists in the state department," it was announced.

Willis Is Aroused

On the floor of the senate, Hurley's explosive charges brought from Sen. Willis [R., Ind.] a blistering denunciation of American far eastern policy, including the retention of United States troops in the path of China's civil war.

"If the state department believes we can unite with other nations to prevent war, then why is it necessary to conscript millions of American boys each year and to keep hundreds of thousands of our troops stationed in China?" he demanded. "The statements by Hurley certainly do nothing to dispel our doubts about the efficiency of our foreign service.

"Many intelligent persons are wondering whether the state department is not trying to use the army both in Europe and in Asia to cover up its own serious blunders."

The charges made by the former ambassador to China, said the Indiana senator, call for "some explaining and house cleaning by the state department."

Field Marshal Wilson is scheduled to be the principal speaker tonight at the 100th anniversary celebration of the Illinois St. Andrew society, oldest philanthropic organization of the state, in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

More than 1,500 persons of Scottish birth or ancestry and their guests will assemble to hear the British military leader and to see kilted highland dancers and bagpipers participating in the traditional feast of the haggis.

The Rev. George G. D. Kilpatrick, Canada's director of army education, and Dr. William A. Irwin, economist and educational director of the American Bankers institute, will deliver the traditional addresses, "The Land We Left" and "The Land We Live In."

SENATE DELAYS VOTE ON USE OF TROOPS BY UNO

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—With only a few members present, the senate today put off a decision on legislation setting out the obligations of the United States as a member of the united nations organization.

Senator Donnell [R., Mo.], who held the floor most of yesterday, talked again today to an audience which dwindled at times to half a dozen members.

By mid-afternoon Acting Majority Leader Hill [Ala.] perceived there was no chance for a vote today on Donnell's amendment, not to speak of the bill itself, and asked a recess. Donnell said he wanted to talk again Monday.

Administration leaders hope to dispose then of the Missourian's amendment, which calls for ratification by two-thirds senate vote of any agreement made by the President to furnish troops to the international security force. The bill as written provides that the agreements require only majority approval of the two houses. Even after the Donnell matter is disposed of—the senate must pass on several other suggested changes, including one offered by Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.] to require the President to come to congress before military forces are used under UNO policies—in each specific instance.

Harrison Street Bridge Reopened; Work Finished

Repairs to the Harrison st. bridge, started last June 26, were completed yesterday at a cost of $90,000 and the bridge was reopened for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic. Stephen J. Michuda, city bridge engineer, said the work was necessary because the 40 year old structure has been called upon in recent years to handle nearly double the traffic load for which it was designed.

HOUSE PASSES SPENDING BILL OF 1½ BILLIONS

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—Amid shouted protests by economy advocates in congress, the house today added 303 million dollars to an appropriation bill already carrying more than 1 billion dollars in supplemental funds for 35 federal agencies for the current year.

In voting the additional funds, some of which were denounced on the floor as "pork barrel" money, the membership over-rode its own appropriations committee, which had sharply cut spending requests and demanded wholesale economies.

The bill, as passed by voice vote and sent to the senate, carries a total of 1 billion 434¾ millions. The President's budget bureau originally recommended 1 billion 707½ millions, and the committee slashed this to a billion 131 millions.

Restore Flood Control

The items restored by the house are: $122,275,000 for flood control and rivers and harbors projects scattered throughout the country; $158,320,000 for veterans' hospitals, and $24,500,000 for temporary veterans' housing.

The house in four instances voted reductions from committee recommendations, but the savings amounted to only $1,775,000.

Today's floor fight centered on the more than 150 river and flood control projects which Rep. Snyder [R., Pa.] moved be restored as a whole, without a seperate vote on the merits of each item.

Chairman Cannon [D., Mo.] of the appropriations group pleaded with the house to reject the proposal until the need for the funds could be studied by a special house subcommittee. He was joined by a minority, including Rep. Smith [R., O.], which assailed the "pork barrell" nature of the projects.

Lose Fight for Record Vote

The Snyder amendment was approved, however, by a standing vote of 137 to 83, and later by 168 to 53. Those opposing the additional funds sought to put each member on record by demanding a roll call vote, but could not get sufficient backing [one-fifth of those present] to assent to a record vote. Attempts for a roll call on the veterans' hospital item also failed.

After the final vote, Smith denounced the house majority for approving "unconscionable" spending, which, he declared will eventually cause a "greater financial flood" than any inundation to be averted by the flood control projects.

"Many members think they can get reflected by voting funds for their districts," Smith said, "but they are only adding to the nation's financial grief. Unless spending beyond our means is stopped, the nation faces disaster."

Rep. May [D., Ky.] demanded that Smith withdraw his "attack" on house members, but Smith declined.

FLOATING RIBS MAKE THUMBS FOR SAILORS INJURED IN BATTLE

Use of the floating rib to construct new thumbs for American sailors who lost part of their hands as the result of battle injuries was described yesterday by Comdr. Paul W. Greeley, Chicago and Winnetka plastic surgeon. He explained the method of the United States Naval hospital at Oakland, Cal., where he is now stationed while on leave from the staffs of St. Luke's and the University of Illinois Research and Education hospitals here.

Comdr. P. W. Greeley

Comdr. Greeley, who spoke at the 53d annual meeting of the Western Surgical association in the Drake hotel, said that the floating rib seems to be immune from absorption such as affects parts of the skin and pelvic bones previously used in similar operations.

He explained that the injured hand is immobilized while a tube of skin, taken from the abdomen, is grown to the thumb stump. After several weeks, the floating rib, properly shaped, is notched to fit a mortise cut into what remains of the thumb bone and then is covered by the tube of abdominal skin.

WARNS A-BOMBS MIGHT DESTROY U. S. PRODUCTION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of research for General Electric, told the senate atomic committee today that Americans might be reduced to fighting atomic bombs with pitchforks if an agressor nation gets the jump on us again.

Dr. Langmuir testifying

He said the first thing an enemy would do would be to destroy the centers of production and administration. He said if the attack succeeded we would be forced "to go back to the living pattern of colonial days."

He told the group, which is studying measures to control the use of atomic energy, he favored outlawing the atomic bomb as a war weapon. He said he believes Russia will produce its first atomic bomb in about three years.

MARINE CORPS CUTS ITS PERIOD OF ENLISTMENT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The marine corps today lowered its period of enlistment to two years, effective immediately.

Previously enlistments had been for three or four years. Men will also continue to be accepted for three and four year terms, the corps said. Two year enlistments were last accepted in 1919 and 1920.

UNRRA PLEDGES FAIR DELIVERY OF SCHOOL AID

Canned goods taken to Chicago public schools in a campaign for overseas relief in behalf of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration will be distributed in all war devastated countries without restriction, James B. McCahey, school board president, was informed yesterday by UNRRA officials.

The school board had given its conditional approval of use of the schools, but Bernard Majewski, a board member, protested that the soviets would not permit distribution in Poland.

McCahey said he was assured that an agency would distribute the goods in Poland as well as in other countries. Date for the school campaign may be set next week.

BRITAIN ORDERS PAN-AM. FLIGHTS CUT TO 2 A WEEK

Air Line Claims Fight Over Fare Is Cause

BY WARD WALKER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 30—The British government today ordered Pan American World Airways to cut its transatlantic schedule from five to two flights a week. The order left more than 300 passengers, mostly Americans, high and dry.

A statement by Pan American said the action was in "retaliation for the low rates established by Pan American for transatlantic air travel." The company's fare is $275 for flights between New York and London.

Meanwhile, the American Overseas Airlines, with its prices fixed at the British overseas airways level of $572, continued with five flights weekly, and prepared to increase the number soon.

Predicts Cut in Flights

"Before his departure from London, Mr. J. E. Slater [chairman of American Overseas Airlines] revealed in an exclusive interview that his company had made arrangements with the British government for the operation of a daily service between New York and London with the promise of additional schedules. He also stated that Pan American Airways was going to be put back to two schedules a week. The orders received by Pan American World Airways today confirms this arrangement."

The ministry of civil aviation in comment on the statement said five flights weekly had been permitted only on a temporary basis and that a 1937 agreement restricting Pan American to two flights was still in force. Talks between the British and United States governments concerning a new agreement are under way, the ministry said.

"We should be delighted to have cheaper air travel for every one," an official said. "We are not trying to put the fares up, as some reports suggest, but we will not allow uneconomic rates merely to have some one else's throat cut."

Secrecy Cloaks Deals

Since foreign air rights are negotiated at the state department level, secrecy cloaked past deals until Oct. 24, when Pan Am filed its intention to set the $275 fare, a price it claimed allows a fair profit. The English agitated for revision upward, and urged that the Pan Am price be set at their level. Pan Am refused, and the price became effective Nov. 24.

Pan Am, the pioneer trahsoceanic air line, had whittled the New York-London price to $375 before the war, even using slow, costly flying boats. During the war, because of risks and increased costs, all air lines boosted the price to $572.

But after the war Pan Am started using C-54 four motored land planes, and reduced costs until $275 allowed a profit. British Overseas Airways, still using flying boats, is not considered a competitor by either American line. It must fly the southern route in winter, and charges $800 for this flight. It flies the shorter northern route in summer at a fare of $572. Land planes fly the northern route the year round.

Resent Rate Slashing

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—British and American officials in explaining today Britain's cutback in Pan-American trans-Atlantic flights said that the United Kingdom did not oppose lower fares if all air line operators serving a route agreed, but that it resented Pan-American's slashing the rate without consultation when it had joined in establishing machinery for setting minimum charges.

With the cutback of Pan-American's schedules, American Overseas Airlines was permitted to increase its flights from five to seven.

A British official said that a provisional limit of 14 weekly round trips by United States carriers had been fixed during negotiations between the two governments for a new commercial air agreement. He said that the British were willing to accept any economically feasible rate agreed upon by the operators and that it appeared this fare would be $375 one way.

Want Rate Agreement

He added that the British did not care how the United States allocated the flights among its carriers so long as they charged the agreed rates.

If the operators cannot agree on minimum fares thru the international air transport association rate conference which meets in New York in January the governments may have to set minimums.

Many operators commented privately that the action threatened to "torpedo" their attempt for orderly establishment of world air charges. They were generally agreed that the $275 rate could not be offered profitably with the equipment now available.

Expect Flights to Australia

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 30—American authorities have been informed they may operate a trans-Pacific air service to Australia, it was understood today, and according to present plans Pan-American Airways will begin service in March or April. The outstanding matter is negotiation of a formal agreement on loading rights, in accordance with the understanding at the international air conference at Chicago last year.

Service to Poland Soon

LONDON, Nov. 30 [Reuters]—Air service between Poland, Britain, and France will be opened within the next few days, the Warsaw radio reported today. The Polish air lines already have a regular air service between Warsaw and Moscow.

CHANGED MIND ABOUT MERGER, SAYS ADMIRAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The senate military committee was told today that two events in the spring of 1945 brought about "a general change of feeling" among navy officers in the Pacific about the feasibility of a single department of national defense.

Rear Adm. Forrest Sherman, who was deputy chief of staff to Fleet Adm. Nimitz, listed the events as:

1. "The establishment within the war department structure of the 20th air force to be based in the Marianas for attacks on Japan, but with its commander located in the Pentagon building 8,600 miles away.

2. "The directive issued by the joint chiefs of staff at the instance of the chief of staff of the army, which transfered to the control of Gen. MacArthur all the army resources, except air, in the Pacific ocean areas."

Sherman, testifying against proposals to merge the services, said "These two events disrupted unified command in the Pacific."

GEN. MacARTHUR IS 'EXPECTED' AT ARMY-NAVY DUEL

New York, Nov. 30 [Special]—Despite the army's insistence that it knows nothing of any plans of Gen. MacArthur to attend the army-navy football game at Philadelphia's municipal stadium tomorrow, J. P. Hoenig, manager of the Warwick hotel in Philadelphia, tonight said Gen. MacArthur "and party" were expected to arrive early Saturday.

Hoenig asserted the suite for Gen. MacArthur had been reserved by an unidentified spokesman who telephoned instructions from West Point.

ELLIOTT'S DOG PAYS WITH LIFE FOR BITING FALA

New York, Nov. 30 [Special]—The career of Blaze, Elliott Roosevelt's bull mastiff, was disclosed today to have ended ingloriously Sunday when he was put to death for whipping Fala, the late President Roosevelt's pet Scottie, in a fight at the family's Hyde Park estate.

Blaze, who became the talk of the nation last January when three service men were "bumped" off a plane to permit him to ride, was destroyed by a veterinarian at the request of Elliott. His head was examined by state health authorities who reported today that he did not have rabies.

The two pets' ill fated encounter took place Saturday. Blaze had been brought east from Hollywood by the Roosevelts several weeks ago—this time by automobile. His mistress, Elliott's actress wife, Faye Emerson, decided the 135 pound mastiff and Fala should meet and become friendly if both were going to live on the Roosevelt estate.

Fala Pulled Away

Fala had been brought to the estate for a visit by Miss Margaret Suckley, the late President's cousin, who cares for him most of the time.

Faye, leading Fala on a leash, was reported to have approached an automobile in which Elliott held Blaze on a leash. Blaze leaped out and attacked the Scottie, but was pulled away.

The next morning the two dogs met again when no one was close by. This time Fala's back and sides were torn and his right eye lacerated. Blaze, who was uninjured in the battle, probably would have killed the smaller dog, it was said, except for the intervention of an unidentified passerby who put him out of action by pounding him on the head with a rock.

Fala was placed under the care of Dr. Thomas Sheldon, veterinarian at Rhinebeck, N. Y., and was reported recovering from his wounds. Dr. Sheldon also took charge of Blaze after the fight and, upon Elliott's instruction, destroyed the big dog.

Rebuffs Reporter

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the President, appeared upset when questioned about the incident.

"I don't see that this is any one's business except the family's," she snapped to a questioning reporter. "Furthermore, I don't know what you're talking about. I don't see how you even heard about it. Who told you? The Associated Press? Go back to your office and telephone them to mind their own business."

Blaze was brought from England nearly a year ago by Elliott, then an army air officer, as a present for his bride. The dog was sent across the Atlantic in an army transport plane and given a priority to cross the continent by plane. His displacing of the front line veterans at Memphis, Tenn., brought caustic comments on the floor of congress.

Wins Divorce

[TRIBUNE Photo]

MRS. PAULA PICKERING

Mrs. Paula Pickering, 27, of 1400 Lake Shore dr., yesterday was granted a divorce by Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court from Richard Pickering, 45. It was the third divorce for Pickering, who is a brother of Hugh Parker Pickering, second husband of Merry Fahrney, patent medicine heiress. Mrs. Pickering testified that her husband struck her with a telephone Oct. 16. Pickering's attorney, Chares A. Boyle, said Pickering would pay his divorced wife $125 a month alimony.

FRANCE OFFERS RENT SUBSIDY TO U.S. WRITERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 30—The Hotel Scribe, which has housed foreign correspondents since the liberation of Paris more than a year ago, will revert to civilian management at midnight tonight. The United States army, which has used it in requisition, will pull out and leave the newspapermen more or less on their own.

The French ministers of information and finance decided today, however, to extend to the press a financial subsidy in view of the inflated franc. Correspondents retaining rooms in the Scribe will have 200 francs [$4] of their daily rent paid by the French government unless they reject the subsidy, as the Tribune bureau has done.

Most correspondents are expected to accept because room rents will be almost tripled after the United States army gives up its rights.

Circus Lions Escape in Wreck, Kill Two in Italy

ROME, Nov. 30 (AP)—Eight circus lions roaming the Reggio Emilia countryside in northern Italy last night killed two men and injured two, including an allied soldier. In addition to the lions, one hyena, one boa constrictor and a number of monkeys broke loose when three freight cars overturned as the locomotive jumped the tracks. One lion and the boa constrictor were still at large tonight.

INTERNEES TRY MASS SUICIDE, FEAR RUSSIANS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 30 (AP)—About 600 German military internees, including 100 who attempted suicide, were hospitalized tonight after a day of violence as the Swedish government started extradition of 2,700 former wehrmacht soldiers to soviet territory.

Swedish authorities said that two succeeded in taking their own lives in wild struggles with Swedish military forces and police who had the task of transporting the internees to a waiting Russian ship at Tralleborg. Many attempted self-multilation.

About 500 were hospitalized because of weakness from a hunger strike begun a week ago in protest against the order turning them over to the Russians.

Moved from Four Camps

Wild and bloody scenes, in which club swinging Swedish police and soldiers tried to halt repeated acts of violence were enacted in two of four camps from which the Germans were being removed.

Most of the internees held in the four camps are Germans. The rest are Austrians, Poles, Lithuanians, Estonians, and Latvians. Details of the camps scenes as reported in Stockholm included:

One group of 60 Germans formed a tightly packed ring as their leader, a Capt. Kuhn, plunged a knife into his breast. Several others followed suit. In one group, Germans shouted: "Stab me. Stab me here."

At one time more than 70 Germans from several barracks lay on the ground bleeding. Others tore their clothes and were bundled half naked into waiting transports.

Officers Slash Selves

At another camp at Backamo, 100 German officers barricaded themselves in barracks. When police finally broke in, the place was splashed with blood spurting from severed arm and leg arteries. Five ambulances raced back and forth from the camp to a near-by hospital.

Swedish officials announced that the Russians had turned down a request that all 2,700 be sent to Lubeck, in the British zone. Instead, only a few who fled to Sweden before May 1, 1945, will be sent to the western occupied area, with the remainder going to the soviet zone where they had served as soldiers.

This morning the Germans were granted 10 minutes to decide whether they would move off voluntarily or by force as Swedish units surrounded the camps.

Two Russian minesweepers carrying Russian guards who will supervise the prisoners' sea trip were expected at Tralleborg late today. The Kuban was expected to start loading tonight, and sail either tomorrow or Sunday.

FINED FOR OPA VIOLATION

Albert O'Neill was fined $210 and placed on six months' probation yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes on charges of operating an unlicensed slaughterhouse in his home at 111th st. and Lake Calumet in violation of office of price administration regulations.

Brazil President Ends Iron Curb on Liberties

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 30 (AP)—President Jose Linhares today revoked Brazil's state of emergency imposed by the 1937 constitution. The law had allowed the president to detain or banish citizens, censor correspondence, prevent public meetings, search and seize homes, and otherwise limit civil rights. A dispatch from Belo Horizante said 14 persons had been wounded in the gold mining town of Novo Lima when rival political factions clashed. Brazil will vote Dec. 2 on a new president and congress.

SANTA FLEES 'HARD PEACE' OF YANK ZONE

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 30—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's demand for a "hard peace" has driven Santa Claus out of Germany.

Plans were being made among military units here to give Berlin children a Christmas tree topped by a miniature statue of liberty, and groups of soldiers had begun to collect candy from their weekly rations to distribute to the Germans. Higher levels had expressed a hope that a special holiday food ration would be issued for the fete.

All preparations were abandoned today as higher-ups took their cue from the statement made by McNarney, who has succeeded Gen. Eisenhower as occupation forces chief, and warned that it would be illegal to give the Germans a speck of army food or a stick of chewing gum from the post exchange.

Some GIs, regardless of the military authorities' refusal to permit any government property to be used, said a way may might be found to hold clandestine parties for neighborhood children.

Catch Jap Torturer in Manhunt of Four Months

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 30 [Reuters]—A four months' manhunt thru Manchuria, Korea, Japan, and central China ended in Shanghai today with the arrest of Tohou Miki, former Japanese officer who is alleged to have tortured and mistreated hundreds of American prisoners of war as executive officer of Hoten prison camp in Manchuria.

SHORT NOT TOLD; ARMY 'THOUGHT HE KNEW' PERIL

Miles Says Washington Kept Facts Secret

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—The army's top command in Washington sent not a single word of warning to Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short at Hawaii in the 10 day period preceding the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, the congressional committee investigating that disaster was informed today.

After Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, had sent a message to Short on Nov. 27, stating that hostile action was possible at any moment but advising that defensive measures should not alarm the public, any further warning would have been "redundant," Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, chief of army intelligence at that time, asserted.

Alert Only for Sabotage

In those 10 days, however, questioning of the witness disclosed, these developments occurred:

1. On Nov. 28, Short reported that an alert against sabotage only had been put into force. He received no reply from Washington indicating this alert was inadequate.

2. The navy sent at least three messages to Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, naval commander at Pearl Harbor, warning of the increasing danger of the situation, without adding instructions to pass the information on to Short.

3. A small group of Washington authorities, headed by President Roosevelt, were given the contents of decoded Japanese messages telling of the destruction of codes by Jap diplomatic agents in obvious anticipation of war; of Japan's warnings to its envoys in Washington that peace negotiations were "de facto ruptured," and of a Tokyo notice to Hitler in Berlin that "war may come quicker than any one dreams."

4. The navy lost track of a large portion of the Japanese fleet, including several aircraft carriers.

Attack Possibility "Evident"

Having these developments in mind, Gerhard Gesell, assistant committee counsel, asked Gen. Miles why no further consideration was given to additional warnings to Short of the possibility of immediate warfare.

"The message on Nov. 27 by Gen. Marshall to Short was fully adequate and held right up to Dec. 7," Miles insisted. "Anything else would have been redundant. It was not necessary to emphasize the possibility of a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor. It was quite evident to all experienced officers that such an attack was inherent in the enemy plans."

This last remark was apparently directed at Gen. Short who, dressed in civilian clothes, sat near-by. Short's face flushed and he smiled grimly. It was the first bit of testimony indirectly criticizing either of the commanding officers at Pearl Harbor who were made the goats in the Roberts commission report.

Neither has yet been permitted to testify publicly in his own defense.

"Winds" Solution Delayed

There was a flurry of excitement a moment later when the deep mystery surrounding the "winds" code messages appeared about to be pierced. But after brief testimony, Gesell announced Gen. Miles would be recalled later for presentation of the "winds" evidence as a separate chapter in the investigation.

According to the fragmentary evidence so far disclosed, Japan sent a message to its diplomatic agents thruout the world in November, 1941, that a code signifying opening of warfare with the United States, Great Britain, or Russia would be sent out as part of the regular Tokyo weather broadcast.

On Dec. 4 and 5 the code signifying war with the United States and Britain was sent. In the case of the United States, it was "east wind, rain." It was intercepted and decoded by American intelligence units but what was done with this information has not been disclosed.

Has "Vague Recollection"

"Don't you recall any discussions or conferences between Nov. 27 and Dec. 7 regarding the advisability of added warnings to Gen. Short?" Gesell had asked Gen. Miles.

"I've been trying to recall that specific point," said Miles. "I have a vague recollection of a meeting between Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow [chief of the war plans division], Col. R. S. Bratton [supervisor of the decoded Jap messages], and myself regarding the implementing message of the winds code ——."

Gesell interrupted to state that complete testimony on the "winds" code would be offered at a later date together with testimony concerning the Jap reply on Dec. 6, which specified White House delivery at 1 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 7, the hour when bombs were falling on the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Decoding to Be Described

It also was revealed that Brig. Gen. Carter Clark of the army's intelligence staff would present at that time a complete report on the decoding process. Technical portions of this report, it was indicated, telling how the United States broke the code, may be suppressed in the discretion of the committee.

Gesell noted that three messages sent by Washington to Gen. Short in late November, 1941, stressed the dangers of sabotage and subversive activities in Hawaii. Did not these three messages, he inquired, unduly emphasize the danger of sabotage in the mind of Gen. Short while failing to make him properly realize the danger of a surprise attack?

"That never entered my mind," said Miles.

Skip Hawaii in Danger List

Miles admitted that formal estimates of the military situation made by him on Dec. 5, two days before the attack, had omitted the possibility of an attack upon Pearl Harbor.

"I was strongly persuaded," he said, "that a Japanese advance to the southward was indicated and that was the direction of the main Japanese advance afterwards. It is true Hawaii was not mentioned. It was not considered necessary to mention it. It was inherent in the situation that Pearl Harbor was extremely liable to attack."

The witness said he thought Short was receiving all the information received in the navy warnings to Kimmel between Nov. 27 and Dec. 7. Closed liaison between the army and the navy at Pearl Harbor was assumed, he said.

Miles was still on the stand when the hearing was adjourned until Monday.

TIP HELD 'INCONCEIVABLE'

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—Summaries of intercepted Japanese code messages relating to Pearl Harbor defenses were not sent to Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, naval commander at Hawaii, after July, 1941, because the army and navy had adopted a policy of "closing in" on the secret, the congressional committee investigating Pearl Harbor learned today.

The information was given at the morning session by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, chief of army intelligence in 1941. It showed that for more than four months prior to Japan's surprise attack on the Pacific outpost, Kimmel was unaware that Jap espionage agents were giving particular attention to the movements of his fleet.

Short Not Told, Either

Miles also testified that Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander at Hawaii, never had been given summaries of the intercepted messages.

"Were you aware that in July, 1941, the navy stopped sending summaries of the intercepts to Adm. Kimmel?" Gerhard Gesell, assistant committee counsel, asked Miles.

"Yes," Miles replied.

"Were you consulted about it?"

"I don't remember, but I do remember clearly that in that summer a joint policy was developed of closing in on the secret."

Facts Known by Few

Kimmel and Short were not advised of the policy, Miles said. It restricted circulation of the highly significant intercepted messages among a handful of high officials, headed by the late President Roosevelt.

"Had a message been intercepted stating that the Japanese would attack Pearl Harbor at dawn on Dec. 7, 1941, would it have been passed on to Kimmel and Short?" Gesell asked.

"It would have been passed on by Gen. Marshall [chief of staff] just as the message of Dec. 7 was passed on to Gen. Short," Miles declared. [The message referred to, warning Short that the Japanese envoys were about to deliver an ultimatum to the United States, was sent by commercial cable and did not reach Short until several hours after the attack.]

"Possibility" Recognized

Miles testified he had known for many years that a surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was "an inherent possibility." Oahu Island was a fortress, he said, built against one sole enemy—Japan. During the three years he spent as operations officer in Hawaii—1929 to 1932—and his four years in the war plans division from 1934 to 1938, he said he had planned maneuvers in which a surprise attack on Oahu was a basic consideration.

Yet, in January, 1941, Miles said, he had discounted a message from Joseph C. Grew, American ambassador in Tokyo, reporting the Peruvian minister had told him a Japanese source had said a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor would open the war with the United States. Miles said he had believed it "inconceivable" that a Japanese would give such information to a Peruvian.

Miles said there was "interesting correspondence" in the files of the army's war plans division about maneuvers in 1935 and 1936 in which plans for defense against surprise attacks on Hawaii by carrier planes were discussed. Gesell said the committee would obtain the correspondence.

Routes Studied

Miles said the plans took into account the "vacant sea"—the vast stretch of the Pacific between the trade routes between Honolulu and the far east and the great circle routes from America's west coast which pass near the Aleutians. Enemy fleets could rendezvous in that area with little chance of detection, he indicated.

Despite his early studies of Japanese attacks on Pearl Harbor, Miles said that in 1941 he was considering "a much bigger picture"—the European war—which, he said, held possibilities affecting the security of the United States. He admitted the far eastern section of the army intelligence division rated the possibility of war with Japan higher than he or the divisions as a whole did.

"It was perfectly natural for them to think their particular devil was more dangerous," Miles said. "My estimate in mid-November, 1941, was that Japan was facing a crisis. The military clique was losing face altho gaining in power, and possible action could take one of many forms: southward to Hong Kong, to Thailand, or greater activity in China. I placed last the possibility of attacks on the two great naval powers [the United States and Britain]."

Assail Politics

A joint committee on tuberculosis control composed of a dozen women's clubs, parent-teacher groups, home owners and other civic groups and representing tens of thousands of taxpayers, yesterday agreed to ask their organizations to demand that Mayor Kelly remove the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium from political control. The committee met in the Woman's City club.

The joint committee, formed to clean up the sanitarium which is supported by 3 million dollars a year in taxes, said it would recommend to its organizations that the mayor replace the board of directors of the sanitarium as a step toward eliminating this control.

It was voted at the meeting to broaden the scope of the committee's work. A subcommittee will coordinate and recapitulate all tuberculosis programs and surveys and report back to the committee on Jan. 18, it was announced.

CHARGE 2 UNRRA EMPLOYES WITH COUNTERFEITING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Chief Frank Wilson of the secret service said tonight two men had been charged with printing counterfeit $5 and $10 bills on equipment of the UNRRA, where they had been employed.

Wilson said in a statement that Manuel Gonzalez had admitted making the plates and printing the notes on equipment of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration here. Gonzalez has been charged with manufacture of the counterfeit notes, and a part time employe in the UNRRA office, Daniel Jacob Bennington, 19, has been charged with being an accessory.

MONTY SILENCES ZHUKOV IN ROW OVER NAZI ARMY

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 30—The British lion clawed up the Russian bear in the first open clash in the four power control council today when Marshal Zhukov, chairman, asked an explanation why the German army is not entirely disbanded in the British zone, as it is in the soviet and American areas.

Field Marshal Montgomery tartly replied that his majesty's government and armed forces needed no outside suggestions regarding total disintegration of the enemy's military establishment, as the United Kingdom and the British empire had suffered just as heavily from nazi aggression during the war as any other belligerent.

Parades Prohibited

Zhukov appeared mollified at Monty's brusque statement, and agreed to add a clause to the law prohibiting and eliminating German military training the provision, "not to apply to German military units not yet disbanded and who may retain their uniforms and discipline."

This law prohibits parades, veterans' organizations, propaganda inculcating the military spirit, and such sports as the daring young man on the flying trapeze, but permits Boy Scouts without knives or whistles.

Bars Use of Electricity

Another law passed provides penalties for Germans exceeding electricity and gas rations by using heaters, with three months in jail for repeated offenders, but as the prisons will be heated the punishment may be regarded as a sinecure by some violators.

Zhukov, Montgomery, and French Gen. Koenig warmly greeted Gen. McNarney on his first appearance replacing Gen. Eisenhower.

France Short of Coal; Rations Electricity Soon

PARIS, Nov. 30—There isn't much more than a week's supply of coal on hand in France today so beginning next week, all factories engaged in nonpriority output will be allowed to work only three days a week. Domestic electric current will be cut off between 8 a. m. and noon, and between 1 and 5 p. m., except on Sundays. Paris subway trains will run fewer hours and store lighting will be reduced.

Wins Support

MRS. JOANNA DE LORDO

Anthony J. De Lordo, 38, of 6753 S. Wood st., who was acquitted of the murder of Martin [Sonny Boy] Quirk in a south side gambling war, yesterday was ordered by Judge Peter H. Schwaba in Superior court to pay his wife, Joanna, 21, $25 a week support for their son, Randall Anthony, 1. Mrs. De Lordo has a suit for separate maintenance pending.

Her action was a cross complaint filed after her husband instituted a divorce suit against her, charging she deserted him one day after their marriage on July 24, 1944. Her bill denied the desertion charge and characterized De Lordo as a "shrewd gambler" in a lucrative business.

De Lordo's attorney, John J. Simpson, told Judge Schwaba De Lordo was unable to pay $25 a week because he was unemployed.

47 Saipan Japs Give Up; Held Out for 18 Months

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 30 (AP)—A diehard Japanese garrison of one captain, one lieutenant and 45 army and navy men formally surrendered today on Saipan to Lt. Col. Howard G. Kurgis of Beloit, Kas., after being holed up in the hills for 18 months. Capt. Sakae Oba, the group's senior officer, said there were 10 other Japanese soldiers in the hills. Marines hope to corral them within a week.

ITALIAN PRINCE TO FORM CABINET ASKS DE GASPERI

ROME, Dec. 1 [Saturday]—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert today asked Foreign Minister Alcide de Gasperi to attempt to form an Italian government to succeed that of Ferruccio Parri, whose six party coalition cabinet fell last week. De Gasperi is secretary general of the Italian Christian Democratic party and was foreign minister in the Parri cabinet.

Seeks Armistice Revision

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Michael J. McDermott, special assistant to State Secretary Byrnes, said today that Byrnes now is carrying on discussions with Great Britain and Russia looking to revision of the Italian armistice terms, which he contends are harsh and obsolete. McDermott said the United States believes the Italian political situation is grave enough to warrant all parties there subordinating party aims to the national interest.

SELECT 2 SITES FOR EMERGENCY VETS' HOUSING

500 Demountable Houses to Be Put Up

Selection of the first two sites for emergency housing colonies for war veterans, one on the far southwest side and one in a northwest side forest preserve, was approved yesterday by Mayor Kelly. At the same time, Ald. Moss [5th] reported that 500 demountable houses had been found and would be placed on the sites soon after the first of the year.

The southwest site consists of 40 acres, belonging to the park district, bounded by 77th and 79th streets and Keeler and Kostner avs. The other location is 19 acres lying between Foster av. and the river and Kostner av. and the Chicago and North Western tracks. Both have utilities and transportation.

Houses Are Good

Ald. Moss, who is chairman of the council committee on emergency housing, said the houses to be used are of the type known as demountable, which the national housing administration has classed as suitable for permanent use.

"We still intend that these projects shall be only temporary," he said, "but we were pleased to learn these houses are that good. They have electric refrigeration, bathrooms, and central heating. They are superior to the panel type houses we found at the Seneca shipyard and will cost the city no more."

Gets Building Code Report

The two sites announced yesterday were selected by Moss' committee and the Chicago housing authority, which will operate the projects, and were submitted to the mayor yesterday on his return to the city hall from his air trip to London. He discussed housing from what he had observed in England and also took up the Chicago Association of Commerce's report on the building code, which had been laid on his desk the day before he left.

He said he would hand the report, which condemns the code as obsolete and recommends complete revision, to the city council next Monday.

Welcomes Interest Shown

"If the aldermen believe the recommended revisions should be made, they should say so," the mayor said. "I am much pleased with this evidence of helpful interest outside the city hall. I welcome this report. It may be that some of the changes advised are not practical, but at least we have a working basis."

Altho London's housing crisis is more serious, as a result of bombing, the mayor said he was convinced that Chicago and other American cities are in the same situation in respect to the need of help from the central government.

JUVENILE COURT TO PROBE FIGHT OF GIRL PUPILS

The fight of two girl grade school pupils, after which one was sent to a hospital, was taken under investigation by the Juvenile court yesterday after a three hour closed hearing before Miss Irene McMahon, a court official.

Miss McMahon said she had talked to 20 persons, including "every one involved" in the fight in which the principals were Barbara Bisch, 10, of 716 W. 60th pl., and Maxine Sutton, 11, of 6201 Green st. Barbara was sent to Woodlawn hospital a week ago in critical condition with cerebral hemorrhages as a result of three fights between the two girls. Her condition was reported good yesterday and she was expected to return home in a few days.

Miss McMahon's report said the fight was caused by "mob psychology." Homer Sutton and Everett Bisch, fathers of the two girls, both maintained the quarrel would not have occurred if monitors had been stationed at proper places in the school.

HOSPITALS GET SHORT SUPPLIES OF PENICILLIN

Investigation yesterday disclosed that supplies of penicillin in the Chicago area have become so critically short during the last six weeks that many hospitals here have been compelled to ration the drug among only their neediest patients.

Dr. James H. Hutton, public relations chairman of the Chicago Medical society, said the shortage has been variously attributed to a price war among pharmaceutical manufacturers, to increased use of the drug by mouth, and to enlargement of exports to Europe and South America.

Chicago hospitals, Dr. Hutton said, have been cautioned to husband their supplies. One hospital pharmacist said his hospital was being supplied with only 25 per cent of the penicillin needed.

BARRETT JOLT MEETS SILENCE IN G.O.P. RANKS

The rock cast by Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett at county party leadership fell into a pool of official Republican silence yesterday.

Barrett resigned his job as member of the Cook county central committee with the charge that disloyal, dishonest or "buffleheaded" leadership had placed Mayor Kelly in virtual charge of the Republican party. Republican leaders said they had no comment and stood on the statement of George M. Fisher, G. O. P. Cook county committee head, that he was amazed and shocked.

Mayor Kelly asked: "Who the hell is Barrett? Do you mean the secretary of state? [Edward J. Barrett]."

"No," reporters told him, "George F. Barrett, attorney general."

"This fellow Barrett has his own ideas and his own ambitions," the mayor said. "I don't want any part of the Republicans. We have to fight them all on election day, whether they are together or apart. We've been doing a pretty good job of that."

REPUBLICANS MOLD POLICIES HERE ON DEC. 7

Policy discussions, aimed at perfecting 1946 campaign machinery, will be held at the Dec. 7 Chicago meeting of the Republican national committee, Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman, said yesterday.

As senate and house G. O. P. steering committees met in search of a policy in Washington, D. C., indications were that the Chicago meeting would not be without internal tiffs. From the capital came word that 39 house members whose service started with the last congress served notice they intend to do their own thinking.

A formal statement from the group said they intend to express their own views and not rely upon party leaders to speak for them. Reports were that differences had developed between the younger and older Republicans.

BIGAMIST LOSES LENIENCY PLEA; GETS 1-15 YEARS

Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court yesterday denied a motion for probation for Anton Brindack, 38, and sentenced him to one to five years in prison for bigamy. A probation report showed Brindack not only had two wives, but also a third common law wife.

Wife No. 1, Mrs. Mary Brindack, 2929 25th pl., mother of six children, said she learned of Brindack's marital activities after wife No. 2, Estelle Smogier, 2244 S. Whipple st., called on the telephone asking for Anton.

Further evidence disclosed that Brindack had sent his first wife and six children to a farm at Oregon, Ogle county, with funds borrowed from his common law wife. In court yesterday neither of the wives evidenced much interest as Brindack was sent to prison.

November Outdoes June for Marriage Licenses

For the first time in the county's history, more marriage licenses were issued in November than in June, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn said yesterday. In June 4,402 couples obtained licenses and in November there were 4,405. Flynn attributed some of the increase to the large number of returning war veterans. Increases also are shown in the total number of licenses issued. Thus far 39,405 licenses have been taken out while for the corresponding period of 1944 the figure was 35,882.

KELLY RETAINS HIS 'H' TO TELL VIEWS OF LONDON

Mayor Kelly showed up in his office in the city hall yesterday for the first time since he left by plane for London 10 days ago and, without dropping an "h," delivered a vivid and not too enthusiastic account of his impressions of the British capital.

A palpable aura of dejection, Mayor Kelly said, hangs over England and the city of London.

"It is as thick as the pea soup fog and permeates everywhere," he said. "Even the best people there wish they were right here in Chicago, or almost any place in the good old U. S. A. I tell you Chicago is a paradise. If you don't believe it, try London for a while."

Chicago is certain to be chosen as headquarters for the united nation organization, the mayor asserted, if the group decides to locate its capital in the United States. But that, he said, is no certainty.

"I had lunch with Prof. Harold J. Laski, chairman of the British Labor party," the mayor said, "and he contends the capital should go to Vienna."

TAUBERY STARTS SENTENCE FOR FATAL STABBING

John [Jinks] Taubery, 18, was among 16 prisoners taken from the county jail yesterday to start serving their terms in the Joliet penitentiary.

Taubery is under a 10 to 14 year sentence for manslaughter in connection with the fatal stabbing last June 30 of Charles Dryden, 14, of 2919 Quinn st., in a fight over the affections of Betty Albrecht, 16, of 1837 S. Loomis st. Taubery previously had served 9 months in the Illinois State Training School for Boys for tampering with an automobile.

Another prisoner who was taken to the women's reformatory at Dwight was Minnie Bailey, 27, "the perfect maid," who pleaded guilty to forging $2,800 in checks in the name of her employer. She is under a one to three year term.

3,469,415 ARMY, NAVY VETS BACK FROM OVERSEAS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Secretary Forrestal reported today that 3,469,415 army and navy personnel had been returned to the United States from overseas.

The total included 2,251,338 from the Atlantic, 1,147,744 from the Pacific, and 70,333 from the China-Burma-India area.

GLASS FOILS ROBBER'S HAMMER

Swinging a sledge hammer, a Negro yesterday tried to break the bulletproof glass partition in the Dayton Currency exchange, 1173 E. 55th st. He fled, leaving his hammer, as Mrs. Julia McCarthy, 6310 Blackstone av., the cashier, was telephoning police.

JUDGE DISMISSES LOVE BALM SUIT OF LEGLESS YANK

Holding that affection is an intangible which "cannot be sold, bartered, or exchanged," Judge Francis B. Alligretti in Superior court yesterday dismissed the $50,000 alienation of affections suit which Corp. Stanley Heck, 30, legless veteran, had brought against Alvin C. Schupp, 49, western division meat merchandiser for a national grocery chain.

Heck, who formerly was a patient in a Texas hospital, had accused Schupp of stealing the love of his wife, Henrietta, 26, of 8808 Hermitage av., whom he divorced last month. She was a stenographer for the grocery chain.

In granting Atty. Andrew Farrell's motion to dismiss the suit, Judge Alligretti said:

"Affections . . . are an intangible, indescribable something . . . which cannot be sold, bartered or exchanged. Thus they are not property in the sense that under the law the injury to which creates a right of action." He ruled that alienation of affections suits were outlawed under a 1935 Illinois statute. Two other Superior court judges have held the law unconstitutional, in one instance approving a jury verdict awarding a plaintiff $15,000 damages.

STEPMOTHER HELD IN FATAL BEATING OF BOY

Golden, Colo., Nov. 30 (AP)—A 27 year old expectant mother was charged with murder today as the result of the death of her 3 year old stepson from injuries she was accused of inflicting while beating him.

Trs woman is Mrs. Viola Elliot, wife of a Denver mint employe.

Sheriff George Koch said: "She says she didn't intend to do anything like that." He quoted her as adding, "I only wanted to punish him for not obeying me."

The stepson, Robert Elliot, died of "lacerations of the brain, three cerebral hemorrhages, and bodily injuries," an autopsy report stated.

The sheriff said Mrs. Elliot admitted striking and kicking the boy into unconsciousness Tuesday because "he was slow in reacting to things." Deputy Sheriff Carl Enlow said, "There apparently was constant antagonism on the part of Mrs. Elliot toward Robert because, being overweight, the child could not walk as easily as most children of his age."

HESS ADMITS HE FAKED INSANITY; READY FOR TRIAL

'Memory Again in Order,' Court Is Told

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 30—Rudolf Hess, in his first public statement since he parachuted into Scotland in May of 1941, today told the international military tribunal that he has been faking a loss of memory for "tactical" reasons. He asked dismissal of a motion for his withdrawal from the war crimes trial of 20 high Nazis.

Hess' impromptu speech from the prisoner's dock heightened the mystery surrounding his unexplained flight to the British Isles on a mission which is still a secret and raised the question whether his asking to remain in jeopardy with his comrades was a further manifestation of a mental quirk or whether he had bamboozled seven psychiatrists of five nations.

The confession of the former No. 2 Nazi ended an eventful 9th day of the trial. The first witness to appear before the four nation tribunal was former Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen of the German army intelligence.

Tells of Intrigue

He told of anti-nazi intrigue within the German army and pinned upon the high command and the foreign office responsibility for atrocities and murders of prisoners of war. He also charged the high command with ordering the assassinations of French Field Marshals Maxime Weygand and Henri Giraud.

Hess, gaunt and hollow eyed, sat in the prisoners' dock cleared of his co-defendants, sometimes chuckling, sometimes listening attentively, and sometimes gesturing his impatience while lawyers debated psychiatric opinion on whether he was mentally fit for trial.

A motion for his severance had been filed without his approval by his counsel, Gunther von Rohrscheidt of Berlin. While the defense lawyer was addressing the court he received a note from Hess. It read: "For the purpose of abbreviating the proceedings will it not be possible for me to interject my declaration?"

Psychiatric Report Read

The attorney read the opinion from the psychiatric board consisting of Col. Paul L. Schroeder of Oak Park, Ill.; D. Ewen Cameron of McGill university, Toronto, Ont.; Nolan D. C. Lewis of Columbia university, New York City, and Jean De Lay of the University of Paris. It held that Hess' mental condition was such that he could comprehend the proceedings but would interfere with his defense.

The tribunal exchanged whispers and announced that it would like to hear from the prisoner. Hess jumped to his feet and waited impatiently while a microphone was brought.

Claims Full Responsibility

"Right at the start of this hearing I sent a note to my attorney saying that I could shorten the session," he began, pulling an old envelope with scribbled notations from his pocket. "In order to prevent any possibility of my being declared incapable of standing trial—I want to remain with my comrades and to receive judgment with them—I am now giving the following statement:

"Originally I had intended making this statement later in the trial, but here it is: As of now my memory is again in order.

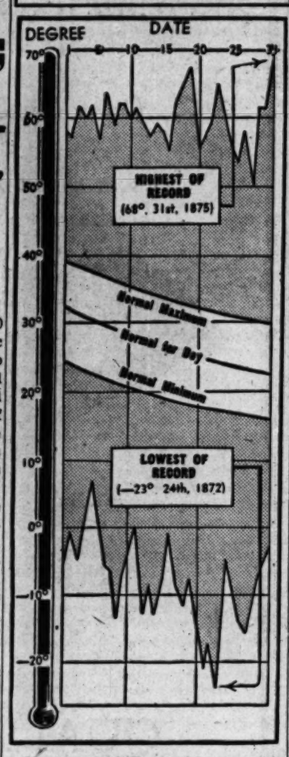
"The reasons I simulated loss of memory were of a tactical nature." He continued glancing at his notes. "Actually, it is only my power of concentration which has been somewhat diminished. But not affected is my ability to follow the proceedings, to defend myself, and to put questions to witnesses and to answer questions put to me.

"I emphasize that I carry the full responsibility for what I have done, signed, or consigned. My fundamental contention that this tribunal lacks jurisdiction is not affected by this statement.

"I have, up to now, upheld this pretense of a lack of memory even with my attorney, and he has represented me in good faith."

Lord Justice Geoffffrey Lawrence, president of the tribunal, adjourned the tribunal until tomorrow without announcing a decision on the motion.

December Weather



Vagaries of December weather in Chicago.

Last month was milder, wetter, and darker than the average November, O. T. Lay, chief government meteorlogist, reported yesterday. He said the temperature averaged 39.9 degrees, an increase of 2.2 degrees above normal. The temperatures ranged from a high of 74 degrees on Nov. 7 to 15 degrees on Nov. 22.

Precipitation for the month amounted to 2.88 inches as compared to the average of 2.51 inches. Snow amounted to .7 inches. The month only had 41 per cent sunshine, 6 per cent below normal.

The month also experienced an 80 mile an hour gust of wind on Nov. 12 for one minute, the weatherman said. Temperatures for December average 26.9 degrees.

ALLIED TRIBUNAL TO TRY 100 JAPS FOR WAR GUILT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—Joseph B. Keenan, chief of counsel on major Japanese war crimes, said today that at least 100 Japanese will be charged with committing war crimes between July, 1937, and the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor [Dec. 7, 1941].

[This period would be confined largely to the fighting in China and perhaps the incursions in Indo-China and Siam in 1941.]

They will be tried before an international tribunal on charges of precipitating a war of aggression in violation of international law and treaty commitments, Keenan told a news conference.

A decision on trying Emperor Hirohito "has not been determined, as far as I know," Keenan said.

Judges of the international court will be nominated by the united nations organization and selected by Gen. MacArthur, Keenan said.

Bayoneted to Death

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 30 (AP)—Evidence that Japanese troops bound an American and three Australian flyers to crosses and stabbed them to death with bayonets was presented today in the opening at Morotai, New Guinea, of the first war crimes trial by Australians.

Capt. Tokio Iwasa, Japanese officer on trial for complicity in the killings last March 23 on Talbaud Island of the Celebes, was quoted as having told an Australian officer:

"The men behaved very bravely. They did not utter a word."

Jap Colonel Testifies

KWAJALEIN, Marshall Islands, Nov. 30 (AP)—A Japanese colonel testified today that imperial army discipline was so strict that if his men had disobeyed his orders to behead American flyers they would have been executed.

The prosecution drew that statement from small, 54 year old Col. Chisato Oishi, senior army officer on Mili atoll, where five Yank flyers were executed after their bomber was shot down. He and nine other officers are charged with complicity in the beheadings.

BRITAIN BACKS AWAY FROM 2 'SNOOP' LAWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 30 — Opposition from business and right wing political circles to the far reaching socialist controls on the private affairs of individuals forced two concessions from the Labor government today.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton decided to amend the Bank of England nationalization bill to prevent burocrats from investigating private banking accounts. Originally the bill empowered the Bank of England, when owned by the state, to demand information and make recommendations to other banks. The amendment specified that "no such request shall be made with respect to the affairs of any particular customer of the bank."

Meanwhile, the health ministry withdrew for redrafting the so-called "snoop" clause in the building restrictions bill. This would empower health inspectors to enter any home on 24 hours' notice.

3 U. S. DIPLOMATS SENT TO PROBE IRAN DISORDERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The United States has sent a diplomatic mission to northern Iran to obtain an on-the-ground report on the Russia-Iran tension there, the state department disclosed today.

The department dispatched three attaches from its Tehran embassy by plane and jeep to the trouble spot, Tabriz, in Azerbaijan province.

This news, announced by Michael J. McDermott, special assistant to Secretary of State Byrnes, coincided with these other international developments:

1. Publication by the Iranian ambassador, Hussein Ala, of Moscow's note refusing passage of Iranian government troops to the northern Iranian area where a separatist movement is reported. Ala said the note flatly rejected all 10 points in his government's protest against the Russian action.

2. The United States is still awaiting a reply from Russia and Great Britain to its proposal that troops of all three countries be withdrawn from Iran by Jan. 1.

George Finke, 19, of 864 S. Hermitage av., a truck driver, who left his baby daughter in a cafe at 1587 Milwaukee av. and forgot her, was freed by Judge John Gutknecht in Municipal court yesterday on a charge of contributing to the dependency of a minor.

"Look, George—the attendant forgot to take the hose out of your gas tank."

FOES OF WAR IN JAP DIET MAY SHARE BLAME

TOKYO, Dec. 1 [Saturday]—(AP)—Diet members "who failed to cooperate in the war effort during hostilities, thereby causing the nation to be defeated" may share the blame for the war, Kyodo news agency reported today.

Both Liberal and Progressive party members declared the blame should be extended to "those responsible for defeat," the agency said.

The house of representatives bogged down today on the ticklish question of war responsibility. This controversy was one factor in delaying introduction of war blame resolutions, which may reach the house floor later today. It appeared to Kyodo that all diet members would be involved in one way or another.

COURT REJECTS PLEA TO ACQUIT GEN. YAMASHITA

Rebuttal Testimony Is Begun by U. S.

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, Dec. 1 [Saturday]—The military commission trying Lt. Gen. Yamashita as a war criminal today rejected a "not guilty" motion which defense counsel asked on concluding its case.

The prosecution then began a rebuttal of the evidence of the first two defense witnesses, Swedish and Swiss nationals who told of the extreme difficulty of getting food or clothing to prison and internee camps either thru the Y.M.C.A. or the Red Cross.

Yamashita's definition of when a commanding officer is criminally responsible for atrocities committed by his subordinates was read into the record this morning. Because of translation difficulties, Yamashita, yesterday, was authorized to write an answer which later was translated.

Gives His Definition

The statement read:

"As regards the crime of a subordinate, his commanding officer should receive either criminal or administrative punishment in accordance with the nature of the crime, that is to say:

"1. If the commanding officer ordered the subordinate or condoned the crime committed then the commanding officer should also receive punishment.

"2. If, in spite of the fact that the commanding officer took all possible means to prevent the crime of his subordinate beforehand but the crime was committed by the subordinate at a time and place unknown to the commanding officer, then the commanding officer bears the administrative responsibility to his superior officer only."

Makes 45 Minute Speech

Since Yamashita already has pleaded ignorance of any atrocities and says he neither permitted nor condoned them, he would, under his own definition, not be criminally responsible.

For 45 minutes yesterday he gave a dramatic speech in his own behalf.

Vigorously and skillfully, with numerous halts for translation, Yamashita, "tiger of Malaya," pleaded innocence of any intention to harm any one or do anything contrary to the laws of war. His oration, addressed to the military commission, which holds his life in its hands, included a high moment when he said:

"I swear by heaven and earth I did not order or condone these crimes, and if the present situation permits I will punish those responsible to the fullest extent of military law."

Points to Wall Map

Maj. Robert Kerr, prosecutor who had cross examined the accused Japanese commander for two days, finally ended his inquisition this afternoon. As his voice died away he pointed a menacing finger at a huge map of Manila and the Philippines, studded with red discs. He said:

"Yamashita, look at that map behind you. Each red disc indicates major atrocities committed by your troops. Explain to this commission, if you can, how it happens that 60,000 men, women, and children could be massacred, and you not know about it."

The burly figure, with a uniform laden with oddly incongruous ribbons, answered simply: "I did not order them."

When the young prosecutor repeated the statement, Yamashita leaned forward, considered for a minute, then began, slowly and thoughtfully.

"I was under attack by large American forces from the beginning to the end of the Philippines campaign," he said. "I was under pressure day and night. I had to plan, study, and carry out those plans to combat the Americans. It took all my time and effort.

"Please remember that at the time of my arrival [last October] I was unfamiliar with the Philippines, and only nine days after I arrived I was confronted by the Americans. As a result of the lack of efficiency of the Japanese army, it was impossible to unify my command, and my difficulties were extremely complicated.

"I believe that under these conditions I did the best possible job. My plan and my strength were not sufficient, and if these things happened they were unavoidable. They were beyond anything I could have expected."

As he reached the end of his perorations Kerr demanded:

"Do you admit that you failed to control your troops?"

Since Kerr's question was simply an abbreviated form of the entire charge against Yamashita, his answer was very important and he must have realized it. He said:

"Other people might have been able to do more, but I feel that I have done my very best. I believe I did control my troops."

CHINESE RIVALS TRADE CHARGES OF USING JAPS

CHUNGKING, China, Nov. 30 (AP)—Chinese Communists and Nationalists accused each other today of using Japanese troops in the continuing civil strife.

A Nationalist dispatch said Japanese artillerymen commanded by a Japanese officer were aiding the Communists in a new attack on Kweisui, capital of Suiyuan province, Inner Mongolia, where a Nationalist force has been beseiged for weeks.

The Communists issued a statement asserting that more than 1,000 Japanese troops with armored cars had been sent by the Nationalists to reenforce Miyun, on the Peiping-Jehol railway 35 miles northeast of Peiping.

Silk Stocking Slayer of Wife Denied Retrial

Paul Albert Peters, 34, confessed slayer of his "Lovely Hearts club" bride, Helen Hansen Peters, 19, in their Elgin apartment, Oct. 31, 1943, lost his court fight for a new trial yesterday. Circuit Judge Charles A. O'Connor in Geneva granted a motion of State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel of Kane county to deny and dismiss Peter's plea. Peters said in his petition that he confessed choking his wife with a silk stocking after he had been intimidated by police questioners. He is serving a life term in Joliet prison.

ICKES 'SLANDER' PROTESTED BY HONOLULU HEAD

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 30 (AP)—Manuel C. Pacheco, acting mayor of the city and county of Honolulu, last night sent to President Truman "a protest against this slander" of Hawaii by Secretary Ickes.

The secretary of the interior commented in Washington, D. C., yesterday on Hawaii's hopes of achieving statehood: "The only thing that disturbs me is the economic control that five families exert over there. I'd feel better about it if it really were a democratic institution instead of an oligarchy."

Pacheco's message to Truman stated: "To my personal knowledge, no such control exists. . . . It is an outrage against the people of Hawaii. . . . It is significant that during more than 12 years which Mr. Ickes has occupied his present cabinet post he not once visited this territory to learn the facts about it first hand."

GEN. BENNETT'S TACTICS PRAISED AT ESCAPE TRIAL

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 30 [Reuters] — Tactical methods brought back from Malaya by Maj. Gen. Gordon Bennett were successfully used against the Japanese in Bougainville, in the Solomons, Maj. J. A. Blanch said today at the inquiry into the escape from Singapore in February, 1942, of Gen. Bennett, Australian commander in Malaya.

Maj. Blanch, who was assistant director of supply and transport in the 8th division, escaped from Singapore and was afterwards chief instructor at a training center in western Australia, where training was based on Bennett's methods, he said.

Maj. J. G. Fairley of the 22d brigade said that when he received the "cease fire" order at 8:30 p. m. on Feb. 15, 1942, he had not expected a cessation of hostilities.

REVEALS LINDY'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM JAP PLANE

North Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 30 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh, who was stationed on Biak as a technician, narrowly escaped being shot down when he accompanied a fighter mission over Truk, Capt. Robert D. Haven, 23, disclosed today.

Dr. Haven said Lindbergh was with three flyers of the 475th fighter group when:

"They encountered Zeros and Lindbergh's guns jammed. Col. [Charles A.] MacDonald shot down a Nip who was drawing a bead on Lindbergh's tail. It was after this that Gen. George C. Keney, far eastern air forces commander, ordered that Lindbergh not be permitted to fly combat missions."

Capt. Haven said that in a flight over Halmahera earlier "Lindbergh shot down a Nip."

Arabs Reported Studying Boycott Against Zionism

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 30 [Reuters]—The Arab league council today accepted the idea of boycotting Zionism and appointed a commission to find ways and means of carrying it out, it was reported here. Two Palestine Arab leaders were expected to arrive here tomorrow to discuss means of preventing Jews from buying land in Palestine.

BRITISH PLANES BLAST INDONESE GUN POSITIONS

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 30 (AP)—Ten British planes struck with rockets and bombs today to silence Indonesian artillery which shelled internment camps and British positions at Ambarawa in Central Java.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said the Indonesian guns had killed 30 persons and wounded 60 in the last few days. British reports said 13 persons, including five British artillerymen, were killed and 34 wounded by the shelling yesterday. About 10,000 former civilian internees and war prisoners have been concentrated at Ambarawa.

Four Mosquito bombers, four Mosquito rocket carriers and two Thunderbolts attacked the Indonesian positions on a lake adjoining Ambarawa. The Indonesians fired at least 100 shells yesterday.

Begin Ground Attack

Immediately after the air assault, British Indian troops began a ground offensive which was reported proceeding well at the outset. The Indonesians had reinforced their positions on the south and east banks of the lake.

Semarang, 25 miles north of Ambarawa, was reported quiet, and Indian troops occupied Oenegaran, troublesome village between Semarang and Ambarawa where Indonesians had massed in sizeable force last week.

Fighting flared again yesterday in Bandoeng, summer capital of Java 75 miles southeast of Batavia, and a British statement said the Dutch and Indonesians exchanged shots on Juliana boulevard.

The fighting began at noon, the hour set by the British in an ultimatum ordering all Indonesians to quit the northern half of Bandoeng. At least six casualties were reported.

Clear North Part of City

Aneta said the British had cleared the northern half of the city, and with strong air cover had opened the Batavia-Bandoeng highway as far as Soekaboemi, about midway between the two cities, for a food and supply convoy of 70 trucks.

Indian troops escorting the convoy along a 28 mile stretch from Buitenzorg to Soekaboemi suffered six casualties from snipers, Aneta added.

Aneta said that 1,850 former allied internees who had been evacuated by sea from Semarang began disembarking in Batavia from the steamship Ecra.

MOUNTBATTEN GETS TERAUCHI SWORDS IN FORMAL SURRENDER

Field Marshal Terauchi

RANGOON, Burma, Nov. 30 (AP)—Field Marshal Count Juichi Terauchi, 67, invalid supreme commander of Japanese expeditionary forces in the southern regions of Asia, formally surrendered to Adm. Mountbatten today. Terauchi turned over his long and short swords, dating back to the 13th and the 15th centuries, in a ceremony outside the palace of the governor general of Cochin-China.

Leaning on a cane, Terauchi walked with his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Takaso Numata, about 50 feet to the surrender site. Aides carried the blades in wooden boxes.

"I am now going to accept the sword of Field Marshal Count Terauchi as a symbol of the final act of surrender of the supreme commander of the Japanese expeditionary forces of the southern regions to the supreme commander of the southeast Asia command," Mountbatten said. They exchanged salutes and Terauchi trudged away.

VETERAN SLAIN, WOMAN SHOT; HUNT HUSBAND

Wife Says She Planned to Wed Ex-Soldier

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 30 (AP)—Leslie Martin Klaus, 38, Davenport, former service man, is dead, and Mrs. Agnes Hedden, 35, of Peoria, Ill., is in a hospital as the result of a shooting in downtown Davenport today. Mrs. Hedden has a wound in her right elbow.

The shooting took place near the Orpheum theater. Klaus with two .38 caliber bullet wounds in his chest, died upon arrival at a hospital.

Police Chief Reed Phillips said that when questioned at the hospital, Mrs. Hedden said her husband did the shooting.

Met Them on Street

"Leslie and I were walking east on 3d st. when we met my husband," Phillips quoted her. "He asked us where we were going, and then suddenly pulled out a revolver and started shooting."

Phillips said Raymond Hedden, the husband, came to police headquarters earlier in the day to seek aid in locating his wife. He showed the desk sergeant a telegram, which he claimed his wife had received from Klaus. The telegram, Sgt. W. H. Behm said, asked Mrs. Hedden "to come to Davenport as everything is O. K." It was signed "Bunny," Klaus' nickname, the officer said. He said Hedden claimed his wife was being held by Klaus against her will. He was advised to confer with the county attorney.

Plan to Be Married

Chief Phillips said Mrs. Hedden told officers she had known Klaus for a number of years before he entered the service three years ago. She said that several days ago Klaus came to Peoria to visit her and that she accompanied him to Davenport. The chief quoted her as saying they planned to be married. Two wedding rings were found in Klaus' pocket, the chief said.

Phillips said officers were looking for Hedden for questioning.

BOY SENTENCED FOR MURDER OF HIS COUSIN, 3

Greenville, Ill., Nov. 30 (AP)—Tears streamed down the face of Alfred Franklin Bryson Jr., 17, in Bond county Circuit court here yesterday as he heard Judge Ralph L. Maxwell sentence him to 25 years in Illinois state prison after the court convicted him of murdering a cousin, Connie Janet Rench, 3, on Oct. 3.

Sheriff John S. Brown planned to escort the boy to the state prison at Menard where he may be released 15 years hence with a record of good behavior.

Dr. A. M. Keith, coroner, reported after the slaying that the boy signed a confession that he killed the girl and attempted to kill her brother, Joie, 5, with a single bullet to "get even" with their father, Homer Rench. Dr. Keith said the boy, who lived on the Rench farm, said that he stood the girl in front of her taller brother and fired a bullet into Connie's chest. The spent slug pierced Joie's coat and shirt but only slightly punctured the abdomen. The boy fled but was apprehended the next day near Mulberry Grove.

Alfred pleaded guilty to the slaying and cried when sentence was imposed.

Report Mrs. Eisenhower to Leave Hospital Soon

Boone, Ia., Nov. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will be released from the hospital here the first of next week, hospital attendants said today. She has been suffering from bronchial pneumonia since Nov. 17 when she and the general came here to visit with her relatives.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Dec. 1—Americans Enter Germany

THE American army crossed the Sauer and Moselle rivers into Germany on Dec. 1, 1918. To the 200,000 soldiers who were participating in the triumphant movement toward the Rhine, this crossing of the frontier was the first great climax of the march which had started two weeks before from the Mouzon-Fresnes area of northeastern France.

But it was more even than that. The fields and towns that lay ahead belonged to that mighty and arrogant nation toward whose conquest these soldiers' weary months of training and terrible experiences of battle had all been directed.

To march thru these fields and into these towns in the cold clear autumn weather was to receive visible, tangible evidence that the powerful enemy had indeed been defeated.

No chances were taken, however. The army's front line, held by the 1st, 2d, 3d and 32d divisions, moved in battle order and with all arms. Yet the occupation was peaceable. The German armies were withdrawing in front of the allied advance in compliance with the terms of the armistice of Nov. 11. Civilians, stunned by the final, irrefutable evidence of their country's defeat, watched the occupation in silence.

Trier was the first large German town reached by the Americans. Gen. Pershing's advance headquarters were set up there. As the advance continued and the population came to understand the willingness of the Americans to allow civilian life to continue almost undisturbed, silence and sullenness gave way to volubility and friendliness.

The townspeople talked much to the soldiers about the relatives they had in America. Many of the soldiers, the sons of recent emigrants, spoke German fluently.

During the period from Dec. 1 to Dec. 16 the Americans completed the occupation of the zone to which they had been assigned. It centered at Coblenz, on the Rhine, where headquarters were established.

about," he said, "but we'll get to the bottom of it."

Capt. William O'Malley of the Shakespeare station also said he was unaware of the matter. He said he would aid Capt. Goldberg's investigation.

Turned In All They Say

Records at the station showed that three members of a 5th division patrol wagon squad, attached to Shakespeare station, responded to the call to the Sittig apartment, and two detectives, Lawrence O'Keefe and Harvey Jensen. The wagon crew was composed of Vincent Donohue, Sheridan Darling, and Carl Koehler. They turned in everything they found, they said.

This, according to the inventory at the station, was:

One yellow gold watch, valued at $5; one yellow gold ring with two small diamonds, $10; one gold necklace with one diamond, $50; one yellow gold ring, $10; 12 keys, 60 cents; one cemetery deed, value unknown; currency, $39.46.

SON OF FORMER LAWMAKER PUT IN DETROIT JAIL

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—Malcolm McLeod, 18, was lodged in a police cell here tonight as authorities planned to question him and two co-eds about their three day spree which was financed by part of the more than $20,000 McLeod took from his father's home.

Police filed a formal charge of investigation of grand larceny against the youth, but indicated it would not be pressed unless his father, former Rep. Clarence J. McLeod, requested it.

GENERAL UPSETS EX-GRID STAR'S RAPE CONVICTION

A sentence of 15 years at hard labor imposed by a court martial upon Sgt. John Andretich, 24, former football star at Mount Carmel High school and Purdue university, on a charge of assault to commit rape was disapproved yesterday by Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., commanding officer of the 6th service command. Sgt. Andretich's home is at 9228 Baltimore av.

Gen. McCoach ordered Sgt. Andretich released from confinement and restored to duty. The football player had been tried on complaint of a deaf mute, 25, that he raped her in an automobile last Sept. 7 after they had met in a tavern.

An appeal to Gen. McCoach was taken by Atty. John Coghlan, who asserted there had been no rape. In his ruling, Gen. McCoach held there was not sufficient evidence to uphold the finding of the court martial.

DROP DISORDERLY HOUSE CHARGE

Mrs. Ruth M. Browne, 50, was freed yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Women's court of a charge of being the keeper of a disorderly house. Police admitted they lacked search warrants when they raided the place at 2925 Pine Grove av.

CHICAGO MAKES PLEA FOR WORLD CAPITAL TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 30—Eight American delegations, including a group from Chicago, will appear before the united nations preparatory commission tomorrow to plead their cases for establishing the new world order in their home localities. The commission is preparing recommendations for the general assembly of the new world order here in January.

Called in alphabetical order the eight civic boosters include the following: Atlantic City, N. J.; Black Hills, S. D.; Boston, Mass.; Chicago; Denver, Colo.; Newport, R. I.; Philadelphia, Pa., and San Francisco, Cal. In addition, 13 other cities in the United States have sent elaborate brochures and other material urging that the global machinery be settled in their parts.

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, chairman of the Chicago delegation, said tonight that each member would tell a story of the city's availability and advantages. The other members are William McFetridge, a Labor leader; James Cleary, an advertising executive, and Leverett Lyon, executive director of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

$21,000 AWARDED TO WOMAN HURT IN CAR COLLISION

A jury in the Superior court of Judge John F. Haas yesterday awarded Mrs. Gaetona Costanzo, 49, of 3315 Sheffield av., $21,000 damages for injuries suffered Aug. 9 when a north bound Halsted st. car in which she was riding collided with a truck at Evergreen st. Her attorney, James Dooley, told the court and jury that Mrs. Costanzo received a fractured spine. The verdict was returned against the Chicago Surface Lines.

BRING BACK DAD CLUB IS FORMED BY 200 MOTHERS

The Bring Back Daddy club, devoted to the immediate demobilization for every father still in service, was formed last night by 200 wives of service men, all of them mothers, who met at 64 W. Randolph st.

The club sprouted from a meeting last Monday of five mothers, including Mrs. Fred Aune, 605 N. Kedvale av., and Mrs. Harold Macy, 7522 Essex av. A letter which members were urged to send to senators and representatives said:

"Every case where a father is separated from his family is an extreme hardship case. Besides the economic struggle confronting fatherless families, there is harm where children are deprived of their fathers. The sound logic used in deferment of fathers should be used to insure their speedy return."

CAB DRIVER ROBBED

SCIENCE brings you SAFER LONGER WEARING COOLER RUNNING EASIER RIDING

RAYON CORD TIRES

Scientists contributed many things to the winning of the war. Most of these had to be destructive, dictated by the demands of war. But one outstanding development—rayon cord for tires—while it served a vital war purpose in keeping our Armed Forces rolling when Victory was at stake, will soon perform its miracles in the civilian tires of motoring America.

And what fine performance you can expect! The same high strength rayon that was a "must" for the Army, will be giving you the same advantages. Whether your tires are made of natural rubber, synthetic rubber or combinations of both, you can look forward to:

1. GREATER SAFETY—Army experts and bus and truck fleet operators agree that blowouts and road failures are greatly reduced with rayon cord tires. The prime reason is that rayon licks the worst enemy of tires—HEAT. Rayon cord tires run cooler and the cord actually gets stronger as tire temperature rises.

2. GREATER MILEAGE—These same big users of rayon cord tires find that they give far greater mileage—so much more that driving on the same set of tires as long as you keep your car is definitely in the picture.

3. GREATER COMFORT—Rayon cord is stronger per unit of weight and for that reason a rayon tire requires less rubber and less cord. Therefore, it's a lighter tire, flexes easier, and offers less rolling resistance. You'll enjoy a more comfortable ride and actually save on gas into the bargain.

Rayon's superiority is a result of the fact that it is man-made in one continuous strand, subject to rigid laboratory controls throughout its production, and can be made to exacting specifications. Tyron, Industrial Rayon's tire cord, in addition to the characteristics it holds in common with all tire rayon, is made by our exclusive Continuous Process. This assures tire makers of the highest degree of uniformity throughout a tire and any number of tires.

CIO TO WIND UP STRIKE AGAINST WARD'S TONIGHT

Company's Wage Boosts Likely to Be Accepted

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Claiming that the week-long strike demonstration at Montgomery Ward & Co. has forced the company to grant wage increases to its Chicago employes and reduced the work week in other cities for Ward workers with no loss of pay, Samuel Wolchok, president of the striking union, the United Retail, Wholesale, and Department Store Employes' union [CIO], announced the strike would wind up on schedule tonight.

The company has contended the strike had little effect on Ward's business. A certified list of employes released by the company yesterday showed that 74 per cent of the company's employes were at work Thursday compared with 73 per cent Wednesday.

Likely to Accept Offer

Wolchok's statement was taken as an indication that local 20 of the CIO union, which has been conducting the strike in Chicago, would accept Ward's offer of at least 5 cents an hour for all 7,000 hourly, rated employes to take effect Dec. 13.

This would include acceptance of Ward's offer to raise the minimum hiring rate from 52½ cents an hour, established by the company when the strike began, to 60 cents effective Dec. 13. Previous to Monday the hiring rate had been 45 cents. The union had been demanding it be 65 cents, with a general wage increase of 15 cents an hour for all employes the union represents.

Meeting Monday Night

The union will meet Monday night with John A. Barr, Ward manager of labor relations, to receive the company's offer. Strikers will meet at union headquarters, 518 Chicago av., this morning to discuss the wage increase offer.

For 30 minutes during the picketing in front of the Ward retail store and administration building at 519 Chicago av. and at the mail order house at 518 Chicago av., a score of soldiers and sailors in uniform joined the pickets of the union and carried signs which said: "GIs Don't Want to Sell Apples."

"I always had plenty of boy friends. I didn't go around with nothing but studies on my mind."

MORE TRUCKERS JOIN STRIKE OF 40,000 DRIVERS

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 30 (AP)—Some 300 drivers for the Burlington Transportation company were idle today when company drivers east of the Mississippi joined in a sympathy strike with drivers in the western states. From 30,000 to 40,000 AFL drivers and handlers employed by more than 100 operators have been on strike in eight states west of the Mississippi for more than a week in a dispute over wages. The Burlington company signed a contract with its eastern drivers Nov. 16.

Western Union Vote

New York, Nov. 30 [Special]—A strike against the Western Union Telegraph company was favored by 5,277 of the 7,850 employes eligible to vote, Mrs. Marjorie Himes, examiner of the regional office of the national labor relations board, announced today after a tabulation of votes cast yesterday under NLRB supervision. She said 478 voted against the strike and 13 ballots were voided among the 5,768 ballots cast. Officials of the CIO American Communications association declined to say when the strike might be called.

Steel Workers Balloting

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP)—The tally on the steel strike vote today showed 400,977 workers voting in favor of a strike and 83,990 opposing it as a measure to enforce the CIO United Steel Workers' demands for a $2 a day wage increase. Final returns from Michigan, announced by the union there, gave 10,749 "yes" votes and 1,779 "no" votes.

NAVY WILL GIVE VETS SENIORITY IN ARMS PLANT

Veterans will be given job preference when the navy takes over the big plant of the Amertop corporation, 7500 W. Roosevelt rd., Forest Park, and transforms it into an ordnance factory within the next two weeks, Lt. Willard L. Hemsworth, personnel selection officer, announced yesterday.

He had been told that veterans who went to work in the plant while the war was on were fearful that civilian workers who had been there from the beginning would be given preference.

"There's absolutely nothing to that," Lt. Hemsworth said.

"Every hour any man was in the army or navy is going to count when he applies for his job, and count towards seniority just as if he'd had a deferment, stayed at home, and worked in the war plant. That's only fair—all contracts or model union clauses to the contrary notwithstanding."

CIO INVOKING GI BILL TO GET PAY IN G. M. WALKOUT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 30 (AP)—The CIO United Automobile Workers, seeking unemployment compensation for war veterans idle in the General Motors strike, contended today the strike was not a "labor dispute" within the meaning of the GI bill of rights.

Atty. Ernest C. Goodman, counsel for the union, voiced its contention at a hearing before the Michigan unemployment compensation commission and Cyril Smith, administrator here of the GI bill of rights. Goodman said the strike resulted from General Motors' "refusal to comply with the labor relations act's collective bargaining obligations."

The union asserted that 14,000 G. M.-employed Michigan veterans will lose unemployment benefits under a ruling of the state commission that they are ineligible because they have a "direct" interest in the strike.

JANITOR DIES OF HEART ATTACK

William Mahan, 46, of 6920 Parnell av., a janitor, died of a heart attack in his home yesterday.

COURT ORDERS FOUR UNIONS TO GIVE UP PLANT

The strike bound Austin-Western company of Aurora, makers of road building machinery, filed a one million dollar damage suit yesterday against the American Federation of Labor and four of its unions, and obtained a temporary injunction ousting members of the union from their control of the company's factory on Farnsworth av. in Aurora.

The suit, filed in Kane county Circuit court at Geneva, named as defendants the AFL; lodge 1202, district 108, International Association of Machinists; local 239, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers, and Helpers; local 423, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers of America, and local 62, International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers.

Judge Harry W. McEwen of Sycamore, sitting in Kane county Circuit court, signed the temporary injunction restraining the unions from violence or threats against employes or their families; from interfering with the company's customers or contractors working on the expansion of the plant, and from persisting in possession of the plant.

ODT SEIZES 2 TOWING FIRMS; STRIKE ENDED

Seizure by the office of defense transportation of the Great Lakes Towing company and the Dunham Towing and Wrecking company, which operate tugboats on the Great Lakes, has caused the end of a three month strike of two affiliates of the International Longshoremen's association [AFL] it was learned yesterday.

The ODT took over at noon Thursday. Yesterday, a Dunham official said, the tug crews returned to work.

The strike started in the Buffalo area, where two crews were discharged for insubordination. A month ago, the strike spread to Chicago and tied up at least two large towing jobs, the former lake ship Fred W. Sargent, which had been bought by the Chilean government, and a car ferry launched at South Chicago.

THREE GET LIFE FOR MURDER OF BAR MANAGER

Three Negroes yesterday were found guilty by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court of the murder last Aug. 16 of Carl H. Dahlquist, 36, manager of the Town Casino, 6 N. Clark st. They were sentenced to life imprisonment.

The men are Joseph Gilmore, 19, of 6111 Calumet av., who had worked in the tavern as a porter; James L. Jones Jr., 18, also of 6111 Calumet av., and Robert White, 19, of 1922 Archer av.

Dahlquist was shot to death in his office in the basement of the tavern when he resisted a robbery attempt. Gilmore disappeared shortly after the slaying but later was arrested and implicated the others. White, a paroled burglar, was accused of firing the fatal shot.

Boy, 10, Hurt Slightly in Accidental Shooting

Frank Zarnow, 10, of 1913 Kimball av., suffered a flesh wound in his left hand late yesterday when a .32 caliber revolver being shown him by Richard Neumann, 11, of 1907 Kimball av., discharged accidentally in the Neumann apartment. The boy was treated in a physicians office.

North Side Laundry Fire Causes Loss of $10,000

Damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by fire shortly before midnight last night in the Lincoln-Paragon Laundries building at 5439 Broadway. A 4-11 alarm was sounded when the fire threatened to spread to adjacent buildings. Street car and automobile traffic in Broadway was halted for a time.

Gandhi to Attend Party Policy Shaping Confab

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 30 [Reuters]—Mohandas K. Gandhi left for Calcutta today on a tour of Bengal and Assam. In Calcutta he will attend a meeting of the policy making committee of the Congress party. The committee, which will meet on Dec. 6, is expected to order the drafting of a manifesto that may define the Congress program for the next five years.

FIND WOMAN'S BODY BURIED IN CELLAR OF HOME

Believed That of Missing Mrs. Roessler

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 30 (AP)—A body believed to be that of missing Mrs. Clara Roessler, 42, was found buried today in the cellar of her home in suburban Essex.

Baltimore county Police Lt. George Hohman said Mrs. Roessler had been the object of a search since Nov. 6, when the state's attorney's office was advised by the woman's mother that she was missing.

The mother, Mrs. Joseph Fabing, wrote from Cazenovia, N. Y., expressing concern for Mrs. Roessler.

Quis Husband

Hohman said that before leading a searching party to the Roessler home, officers questioned Frederick Emil Roessler, identified by Hohman as the missing woman's husband. There is no charge against Roessler.

Reaching the cellar, Hohman related, the searching party found the entire floor was laid in concrete except for one small portion.

That spot, he said, was boarded over, and near-by stood a pile of bricks.

Recover Body

At Hohman's direction, the officer said, his colleagues removed the boards and found the body buried under a foot of soft earth.

In Syracuse, N. Y., Atty. Lloyd M. Withers reported he had initiated an inquiry on behalf of Mrs. Fabing about a month ago when she became worried when she failed to hear from her daughter.

WOMAN DOCTOR WINNING STRIKE FOR SANITATION

Force, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP)—It wasn't all down in black and white yet, but indications were tonight that Dr. Elizabeth Hayes' five month strike—against what she called "intolerable" sanitary conditions in three northwestern Pennsylvania mining towns—has achieved its purpose.

The former receiver of Shawmut Mining company, who, Dr. Hayes said, had refused to talk sanitation with her, was out by federal court order and today two new receivers met with the miners. After the session William Agosti, member of the miners' committee, said, "They agreed to do everything within reason."

Tomorrow the miners will begin cleaning the pits for expected resumption of operations next week and the company will begin repairing Dr. Hayes' office, from which she was evicted by company order two weeks ago. Next Wednesday the mine local will meet to study plans for cleaning up the village and to vote on ending the strike. Maybe they will accept a proposal from the new receivers to buy the houses they live in and run the mining villages—Force, Byrnedale, and Hollywood—to suit themselves.

HUNT FOR JURY IN NISCHT TRIAL COMES TO HALT

Both sides in the trial of Joseph W. Nischt, former south side janitor, on a charge of murdering Mrs. Rose Michaelis, 58, and destroying her body in a furnace, abandoned efforts to get a jury in Criminal court yesterday and decided to make a new start Monday with another set of talesmen.

The session ended with the first panel of four jurors chosen Thursday still in the box. Half a dozen more veniremen were questioned, but all were excused for cause: Conscientious objection to the death penalty or unshakable opinions as to Nischt's guilt. Ten others of the venire had failed to appear because of illness.

Prosecutors Clement Cody and Blair Varnes and Atty. James M. Burke for the defense conferred with Judge Charles E. Byrnes and agreed that it was useless to proceed.

LUDER OPERETTA TO BE GIVEN ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Marion Claire and Angelo Raffaelli, Chicago tenor, will be co-starred when the Chicago Theater of the Air presents Gustav Luder's operetta, "The Prince of Pilsen," over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight before 4,500 guests in the Medinah Temple auditorium.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Luder's operetta recounts the story of a Cincinnati brewer who is mistaken for a prince of Pilsen while visiting the French Riviera. His daughter, Nell, who is with him, falls in love with Karl Otto, a young nobleman. The leading romantic roles will be sung by Miss Claire and Raffaelli.

Radio listeners interested in witnessing a Theater of the Air broadcast should phone or write to the W-G-N ticket department. Tickets are free.

Citizens of Tomorrow to Salute Phillips High

Wendell Phillips High school will receive the salute of the Citizens of Tomorrow program over W-G-N at 9:30 a. m. today. Principal Maudelle B. Bousfield will speak. Philip Maxwell, conductor, will name to the roll of honor Florence Cunningham of Phillips and Bradley M. Allen, Kalamazoo, Mich.

NIEMOTH GETS LIFE TERM FOR VAULT LOOTING

Willie Niemoth, 51, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Julius H. Miner in Criminal court to life imprisonment under the habitual criminal act for his part in the 2 million dollar looting of the safe deposit vaults of the E. H. Rumbold Real Estate company, 624 W. 119th st., last Jan. 19. A motion for a new trial was denied.

Niemoth was convicted on burglary charges by a jury after he had been acquitted in a previous trial by a jury on a charge of burglarizing the vault. Judge Frank M. Padden who heard the first trial, criticized the jury which acquitted Niemoth. Attorneys for Niemoth yesterday argued prejudicial evidence had been introduced at the second trial.

Atty. George Crane assailed what he termed a "growing tendency among judges in Cook county to insult jurors who return not guilty verdicts and congratulate those that return guilty verdicts." Two other members of the looting gang have been sent to prison. Thomas Leahy and Michael Kosar, state's witnesses who confessed their part in the robbery, will appear Dec. 20 before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward for sentencing.

U. S. TO MAKE JAP PAPER

TOKYO, Nov. 30 (AP)—High grade paper, a product of Japan, may in the future be manufactured in the United States, the natural resources section of allied headquarters suggested today. It advised increasing the production of raw materials here but exporting them to America for final manufacture.

B. & O. SPEEDS DIESEL TRAINS' RUNS TO CAPITAL

Faster and more convenient schedules will become effective tomorrow on Baltimore and Ohio diesel locomotive trains operating between Chicago and Washington, D. C.

The Capital Limited will leave Chicago at 4:10 p. m. and arrive in Washington at 9 a. m. the next day under the new schedule, cutting 25 minutes off the run. The same amount of time will be saved on the Columbian, which will leave at 3:45 p. m. and arrive at 8:45 a. m. Thirty-five minutes will be saved in the running time of the Washington Express, which will leave at 10:15 a. m. and arrive at 7:05 a. m.

The Shenandoah's time between Chicago and Washington will remain unchanged, but 23 minutes will be cut off the run between Washington and New York. Westbound, the new schedules will provide more convenient connections with the Burlington, North Western, and Milwaukee roads in Chicago.

CHICAGO YANK BECOMES BERLIN ICE CREAM KING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Nov. 30—Lt. William Fulljames, 6607 Racine av., Chicago, is the ice cream king of Berlin. He found five mixing machines and freezers at the Wannsee Yacht club after the United States 2d armored division pulled out. With the assistance of Pvt. John Rush, Indianapolis, Ind., Fulljames repaired the apparatus and is supplying 500 gallons daily to Berlin district command ice cream bars and soldiers' clubs, and a weekly ration to 78th division messes.

LOTS OF EXCITEMENT...
PLENTY OF APPLAUSE FOR THE NEW ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS!

Like bees around honey . . . Chicagoans are swarming to the Electric Appliance and Radio Show . . . in the Edison Building

There's a big buzz of excitement around the electric refrigerator exhibits at the Postwar Electric Appliance and Radio Show! And no wonder—for here at this amazing show is your long-awaited opportunity to actually see the new postwar refrigerators!

And when you see them—you'll agree they're roomier than you ever dreamed they could be! Lots of extra storage space for meats. Bigger vegetable crispers. More shelves. And joy of joys—enough height for tall bottles—deep dishes. Extra space, too, for storing staples that used to take up precious cabinet space. All the ice cubes you want—when you want them. Automatic temperature controls insure the exact degrees of cold for all types of food . . . keeps them healthful and deliciously tempting in appearance.

Many of the new refrigerators boast frozen food compartments—where you can safely freeze your own meats, vegetables and desserts...or store the frozen foods you buy at your grocers. Think how much shopping time you'll save!

Yes, you'll find a dozen reasons why you'll want to own a new electric refrigerator. Easy-operating, easy on the budget. Electric refrigerators get along for years without mechanical difficulties, expensive repairs. So be sure if you haven't been down to see the new refrigerators that you reserve some time right now—to visit the amazing Postwar Electric Appliance and Radio Show in the Edison Building.

IT'S FUN! IT'S FREE!

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY

TESTIFIES HE PAID $3,100 TO CURLEY'S FIRM

Tells of Dealing with Congressman

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—A Worcester, Mass., contractor testified today he paid $3,100 to Engineers Group, Inc., a day after meeting Rep. Curley [D., Mass.] in a Boston hotel lobby.

Frank M. Gifford, president and general manager of J. W. Bishop company, Worcester, said he paid the money and signed an agreement with Engineers Group for which he was to obtain a contract to build houses in Alexandria, Va. He said he never built the houses.

Curley is one of five defendants, associates in the contract firm, who are being tried on mail fraud charges.

Boston's Mayor

Gifford said he was introduced to Curley, Boston's mayor-elect, by David E. Desmond, who was indicted with the other five defendants but whose case has been severed from the present trial. The meeting, he said, was on Aug. 11, 1941.

He said that Curley asked him whether his company was capable of handling more construction work. During the conversation, he said, Curley went to a public telephone and after returning, told him that James G. Fuller, the contract firm's man in Washington and one of the defendants, was about to leave for New York. Curley then asked the contractor if he could go to New York that evening. Gifford said he did.

On the next day, Aug. 12, Gifford said, he signed the agreement and turned over the $3,100 as partial payment of a fee of $5,400 which was to be paid by him if he received the contract specified in the agreement.

Check Dishonored

Asked if he consumated the contract, Gifford said he did not because the project did not have federal housing administration's approval.

Gifford later said he asked Engineers Group to return his $3,100 and that he received a check dated Jan. 15, 1942, signed by Donald Wakefield Smith of Washington and Pittsburgh, another defendant.

He said that when he deposited the check it was "dishonored." Gifford said he never received back any part of the $3,100.

The contractor signed another agreement with the contracts firm by which he paid $2,500, partial payment of a $25,000 fee, but got this money back.

On trial, in addition to Curley and Fuller, are Donald Wakefield Smith of Washington and Pittsburgh; James Barton Underwood, formerly of Washington, and Bert Hall of Dallas, Texas, and Tulsa, Okla.

SEAMAN'S BODY SENT HOME NUDE, FATHER CHARGES

Rodney Sanborn

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 30 [Special]—Gov. Andrew Schoeppel today was investigating a protest by Guy F. Sanborn of Wichita that the body of his son, Rodney, 23, a merchant seaman, was sent home nude, mutilated, and unattended, and that his parents had been denied information concerning the circumstances of fatal injuries the young man received aboard ship.

Letters to the governor from the father and a sworn statement from a Wichita mortuary gave this account of the case:

Rodney died on Oct. 13 in a Washington, D. C., hospital to which he had been admitted on Aug. 28, 1944. The father was told that the nature of the ship accident in which he was injured was a military secret, that he died of infection in his knees, that he succumbed from infection in his arm, and also that he died of heart disease. An autopsy, however, was performed mainly on the head. The parents had to pay expenses of shipping the body home.

Bids Opened on Oak Ties for Dearborn St. Tube

Dick Van Gorp, chief engineer for the city department of subways and super-highways, announced yesterday that bids had been opened for 605,000 board feet of oak ties to be used in the Dearborn st. subway. The low bid, he said, was $101,646 by the Koppers company. Bids on construction work of the subway will be received Dec. 27.

THE QUESTION

Do you think there should be an operator and a conductor on each street car and bus?

WHERE ASKED

Various locations.

THE ANSWERS

C. E. Stephani, salesman, Warrenville, Du Page county—Unless some new method of fare collection is used there definitely should be a second operator on the bus. Driving in the loop in itself is difficult enough. It's too much to expect one man to drive, make change, give transfers, open and close doors, and answer questions.

Joanne Walker, student, 1962 E. 73d pl.—During rush hours, at least, there should be a second man on each bus to assist the driver, see to it that people get on and off the bus and to see to it that the bus is not carrying any more passengers than is legal. There isn't room for a sardine on some of these buses.

Evelyn Gubin, typist, 1508 S. Karlov av.—Most of the street cars have a conductor and an operator, but there's more room on a street car. Where would you put a second man on a bus? They're so overcrowded now that one more would take needed space. But I do feel sorry for the poor bus driver.

M. E. Ferrari, superintendent, 910 S. Michigan av.—It has always been my opinion that for safety in operation there should be a conductor on all street cars and buses. Operating either one of these vehicles in city traffic is a full time job and the operator should have the least amount of distraction possible.

Jacqueline Luts, student, 7045 Elizabeth st.—There should be one man to drive and one man to take fares, answer questions, and keep order on the bus. Many accidents could have been avoided if there hadn't been so much confusion on the bus. It isn't possible to do a good job of driving under present conditions.

Mrs. Jean Ostrom, secretary, 4858 Warner av.—Transportation under present conditions is dangerous. It is unfair to passengers, drivers, and to pedestrians. Of course there's a shortage of buses, and street cars aren't what they might be, but a second man on each of these transport vehicles might ease the situation considerably.

3 GIANT SNAILS ARE ADDED TO BROOKFIELD ZOO

Three giant snails, each the size of a man's fist, yesterday joined the population at Brookfield zoo. They

REPORT MANY PUPILS HOME IN WAVE OF COLDS

Absenteeism running as high as 50 per cent in some Chicago public school rooms was reported yesterday by school officials as a wave of colds and other respiratory ailments hit school children and adults alike.

Don C. Rogers, assistant superintendent of schools, reported a "substantial" number of pupils out of schools, but said no check would be available on the causes until all pupils had returned. The wave of colds is scattered thruout the city, and in some classrooms half the pupils are absent, he said. Dr. Edward A. Pisczek reported 20 pneumonia cases in the county, many originating in influenza.

Closing of the schools is not considered necessary, Supt. William H. Johnson said. He said the situation is not expected to become much worse before the two weeks' Christmas vacation begins Dec. 21. Schools in Hammond, Gary, La Grange, Harvey, Flossmoor, and Homewood reported many pupils absent because of colds.

GREEN ASSAILS U.S. DESERTION OF LITHUANIA

America will be false to the ideals of its founders and the teachings of Lincoln if the nation silently condones the crimes now being perpetrated against the small nations of Europe and the subject peoples of Asia, Gov. Green declared last night in an address before the Lithuanian-American congress in the Congress hotel.

The governor asserted that, from the record of events before and since the end of hostilities, "it is clear that the fine words of the Atlantic Charter, of two Presidents, and their secretaries of state are mocked by the meek subservience with which we have yielded to the imperial ambitions of our various allies."

He pointed out that while the United States government recognizes the Lithuanian minister and has refused to approve the puppet government set up by the soviets, "it has failed to make any effective protest against the crushing of liberty, the mass executions, the exiles to Siberia, the interference with Lithuanian churchmen, and the manifold indignities and sufferings inflicted upon the men and women of Lithuania."

Col. Povilas Zadeikis, Lithuanian minister to the United States, who also spoke, declared that in the fake election conducted by the soviets in Lithuania in July, 1940, which the communists claimed with 99.19 per cent for union with Russia, only about 17 per cent actually voted—that most of the people of Lithuania oppoxed annexation.

THE ADVANTAGE THAT WAS WASTED

The testimony given before the Pearl Harbor investigating committee by Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles, chief of army intelligence in 1941, was extraordinarily illuminating. Intelligence had scored an astounding coup in breaking the Japanese secret code. Then, by Gen. Miles' account, Mr. Roosevelt, his cabinet officers, and his high command, altho in full possession of everything that the Japs were saying, and doing, and planning, were unable to make anything of the information at all.

They couldn't read the Japs' own words that a state of undeclared war existed from Dec. 4 on and give them the value of their literal meaning. They couldn't understand that the first act of hostilities against the United States would come at Pearl Harbor, altho the Jap spies were directed to report on the position of the fleet there and no place else. When Japan's emissaries in Washington were ordered to break off relations at 1 p. m. eastern standard time, the chief of staff acknowledged that "just what significance the hour set may have we do not know." Altho a naval intelligence officer pointed out that at that hour it was dark night in Asia, midnight in the Philippines, and sunrise—the hour for surprise air attack—at Hawaii, no one paid any attention to him. No one could tie up the decoded information pointing to the day, the hour, and the place of attack.

This is the story which the American people are asked to accept. At its own face value it is an appalling confession of stupidity and blundering. On Dec. 7, 1941, Mr. Roosevelt's war policy was approaching the pay-off. We were getting into the war, not against Germany alone, or Japan alone, or Italy alone, but against all three of them. In sports terms, we were going into the world series.

We were later told often enough that we had an all-star team. "Murderers' row" on the Yankees never had anything on Hull, batting in lead-off position, followed by Stimson and Knox, with Roosevelt hitting in the clean-up spot. And then, in the very first inning of the first game, all of these peerless leaders, these infallible statesmen, these great brains, commit a bloomer that makes the historic world series errors of Fred Merkle and Heinie Zimmerman pale into insignificance. They allow Pearl Harbor to happen.

Gen. Miles told who received the intercepted Jap messages which heralded the coming attack. Gen. Marshall, the retired chief of staff, restricted their circulation to President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Lt. Gen. Gerow, chief of the war plans division; Adm. Stark, chief of naval operations; Col. R. S. Bratton of army intelligence, Marshall himself, and Miles. They were not communicated to the Hawaiian field commanders, Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short.

"It was not considered necessary that the commanding generals know the day to day diplomatic developments," said Gen. Miles, "but only information which might call for military action on their part."

Here is conclusive evidence that Mr. Roosevelt and the little circle of Washington insiders had decreed that no one except themselves should have access to the crucial information which was coming into their hands, unknown to the Japs and to our own field commanders. In reaching that decision they could not escape the responsibility that went with it. It was their duty, and theirs alone, to evaluate the intelligence they were getting, to come to proper decisions on the basis of it, to adopt a reasonable program to defend the country and its outposts against the hostile action that was explicit in the decoded messages, and, above all, to transmit to the responsible field commanders who would be compelled to meet the coming attack such information and orders as it was absolutely essential for them to have if they were to discharge their duties.

When Mr. Roosevelt and his close associates took upon themselves the responsibility of evaluating the Japanese code secrets they also took upon themselves complete responsibility in making strategic and tactical decisions to counter Japan's program. In doing so, they absolved Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short of this responsibility. The commanders were as much in the dark as the public as to what was going on. They depended upon Washington for guidance and they didn't get it.

What they got, as Gen. Miles testified, was a confused series of warnings from Washington—referred to by the army Pearl Harbor board of inquiry as "do-don't" messages.

Gen. Short's response shows how utterly misled he was by these baffling instructions. He instituted a third degree alert against sabotage because that is what he thought Washington was warning him against; and Washington, by its silence, led him to believe that it completely approved. As late as Dec. 4, after he had been warned of subversive propaganda, Short was suggesting to Washington that his troops could be kept from threatened disaffection by educational talks on the status of the soldier as a citizen, the ideals of the founders of the Republic, and the dangers of fascism. This, be it remembered, was the same day that Washington knew from the intercepted Jap "east winds rain" message that war had already been decreed against the United States without a formal declaration. No message was sent him to correct his misapprehension.

The evidence is complete that Mr. Roosevelt and his inner circle, having accepted full responsibility, failed either deliberately or, as Gen. Miles seems to put it, because of ineptitude, to discharge their duties. The defense also seems to advance the contention that not all of the Jap code messages intercepted before Dec. 7 were decoded by that date. The evidence, however, shows that the contents of all of the relevant messages dealing with hostilities and an attack on the fleet were known to the Roosevelt circle in time.

If others were still uncoded, the only explanation is that the White House group already had all the information it needed to know that the attack would come at Pearl Harbor at dawn on Dec. 7, and that it didn't want to have so much additional corroborating information as to preclude the pretense adopted following the attack that Pearl Harbor had come as an unbelievable surprise.

FOOD FOR GERMANY

Gen. Eisenhower has gone on record in favor of giving food to Germany this winter. He says that we must do something, also, to revive German industry, trade, and farming. In the long run, he believes, these steps will save money for the American taxpayer.

Presumably, what he has in mind is the familiar fact that Germany, for the better part of a century, has been Europe's principal workshop, from which it follows that if Germany's economy isn't revived the recovery of all of Europe will be delayed, if not prevented. Europe has always been by far the most important customer for American exports. A German recovery is, therefore, in our interest, as well as Europe's. Moreover, an impoverished and starving Germany will be in a continual state of unrest, requiring the presence of a large army of occupation, at great expense to the American taxpayers.

All that can be said against Gen. Eisenhower's declaration is that it has come much too late. Irreparable damage has been done. The decisions taken at Potsdam, with Mr. Truman's full approval, have gone into effect, with the economic and political consequences that we foresaw at the time.

Instead of making every effort to revive the coal and steel industries of the Ruhr, steps were taken to destroy and scatter them as loot. Instead of trying to stabilize Europe, forced migrations of 12,000,000 people were ordered. Instead of giving Germany a government that could function effectively in the emergency, an insane scheme was set up which can't do anything. The result is the expectable one of chaos, misery, and hopelessness.

VOICES AGAINST TYRANNY

The Central Conference of American Rabbis at a recent meeting in New York condemned administration support of colonial oppression. It asserted that this country should take its stand, not with the British, the Dutch, or the French imperialisms, but with the Burmese, the Annamites, the Indonesians, the Koreans, the Malayans, and the Indians seeking independence.

The statement of the rabbis and of the Jewish laymen they invited to their meeting is noteworthy in that Jews in many parts of the world have suffered such bitter experience in recent years that spokesmen of their religion might have been expected to confine their demands for justice to their co-religionists. The men who attended the conference, however, took a larger view. They cited the Judeo-Christian tradition that "human brotherhood must be unqualified," and that there is no distinction or degree of difference in oppression as among Koreans, Indonesians, Jews, Annamites, or any other group undergoing persecution. In denouncing racial discrimination, they said that their statement was "not a plea against anti-Semitism, but a plea for all the oppressed people of the world."

The declaration of the rabbis is in line with recent pronouncements by the Catholic bishops and the Lutheran leaders. We can hope that the articulate voices of so many religious groups will not be lost upon Washington.

BLACKLISTED

Elliott Roosevelt, the former hothouse brigadier, finds himself persona non grata in certain circles. At the behest of the bishop of his diocese, the Episcopal church at Hyde Park had to rescind his election to be a warden in place of his late father. This was because he was divorced. He has also been dropped from that hoity-toity catalog of snobbery, the New York Social Register, apparently because his current wife was an actress.

These are the formal actions to date and the taking of them was the privilege of the groups concerned. Without formal action, however, Elliott is persona non grata in a far wider circle—namely: that of the millions of Americans who believe that debts ought to be contracted honestly and honestly paid. His father shares equally in the disgrace, because his father prostituted the Presidency to advance the son's financial connivery.

MR. PEPYS' GREAT WEEK

1st Dec.—Have been banqueting in a large way since the last report on my goings and comings. Consorted with the Chicago Press Veterans in an annual reunion over the napkins, and forgathered with the wags and poets who contribute to my column, at their yearly round-up. Am calling this my biggest social week for 1945, and had so much fun I may turn into a public dinner fiend, always found close to the celebrities' table.

Made my "thank you" speech as the contributors' guest of honor without trembling of the knees, because I enjoyed the entertainment so much I forgot to worry about what to say. They are a pleasant and friendly group, and like a large and happy family at these get-togethers. Philip Maxwell, my colleague, who was master of ceremonies for the after-dinner show, said on going home; "My, what nice people!"

At the Press Veterans' dinner, merely sat and listened after partaking of a bountiful repast. Was fascinated by the speech of Carter H. Harrison, who gave inside information about his four years as publisher of the old Times, back in the 1890s. He called it his "swan song," by which he meant it was his last appearance as a banquet orator. There is no need to worry about him, for he had just returned from hunting in the far north, where he had killed his buck like a young Nimrod.

Certain parties who look on the gloomy side of things have been saying to me, "What are you going to do, now that the football season has closed?" Well, this afternoon I will nestle up to my jukebox to follow the Army-Navy game, and then I will go into T-formation practice for bucking the Christmas shopping lines.

TO A RETURNED SOLDIER

From storied lands and royal realms you come;
Where history first started, you have been;
Strange peoples you have known, strange cities seen,
And now you hail your native land, your home.
Pacific dawns have lured with magic spell,
The Seven Seas have shed their mystery.
You are a dauntless master of the sea;
The wonders of far countries you can tell.
You now return, weighed down with worldly lore;
Your eyes are keen; now will you look upon
Our smug complacency, ideals far gone,
Our greed for gold—and then our faith restore?
You come to us resplendent with brave deeds;
Now tell us where we lack, and what our needs.

"We Simply Must Have——"

"We simply must have some decorating done," I thought last spring. So I called the decorator. "If all goes well, I can get you in around November," he promised. "Start looking for paper at once."

I saw what he meant in the months to come. There haven't been any new patterns for years. Finally after frantic search I made a choice. It wasn't exactly what I wanted, but it would have to do. "Sorry," said the salesman. "Those patterns have been discontinued. You'd better make second and third choices." I saw what he meant, and in despair settled everything with the eenie, meanie, minie mo method.

Just when curtains, pictures, and precious old glass were packed away and the furniture stacked in the dining room, the phone rang. "My gallstones are acting up," said the decorator. "I'll be there as soon as they've stopped rolling." It took them a week to settle down.

The steam that left the old wallpaper hanging in strings did likewise to my new hairdo. And the fresh paint! The butter tasted of it. Finally, after a week of this, came the dawn. The house was spic and span, and clean and fresh.

Thankfully, we moved the furniture into place. And then, "What's wrong with this picture?" I asked myself. The furniture . . . I had known it was ageing a bit. "We simply must have some new furniture," I thought. But isn't this where I came in?

THE GLOOMY GASTROPOD

(A Brookfield Ballad)

Let's not dismiss with careless shrugs
The wondrous world of snails and slugs,
For in the harassed gastropod
We find one feature rather odd.
Note his proboscis (nose to you)
Points inward for a better view,
And so no matter what he smells
He finds a sameness that repels!
So if your feelings oft are hurt
You may be just an introvert,
And if you're shy and bruise to touch,
Perhaps you look within too much!

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

E. W. H. writes: "I volunteered for the enlisted reserve corps and received my physical examination in early May. On May 17 I was inducted and placed on inactive duty to be activated in June. On May 29 I suffered a retinal detachment in my right eye and was operated on by a civilian surgeon to prevent blindness. Later I was called to active duty and passed by a medical officer. My question is, do I have a service connected disability or is it considered to have occurred before I entered service? As I understand this condition, it is an absolute disqualification for military service. Is this true?"

Altho you were inducted prior to your injury, you were inactive and had not had any military service. The injury was not an incident to your service and, therefore, it would be hard to see how any rating board could consider it to have been service connected. Several years ago men with impaired vision were accepted for limited military service. In fact, some men were taken who had only one eye, but visual requirements for volunteers now demand eyes correctible to normal vision with glasses.

Mrs. A. C. L. writes: "My husband, a private first class in the 1st marine division in China, just has received the silver star. Is it true that this award is next in importance to the congressional medal? Can a service man who has received the silver star request discharge regardless of points?"

The silver star, awarded for gallantry, is the fifth ranking award. Marines who have received this award may not request discharge. They do get credit for five points toward discharge.

PAINFUL FATTY DEPOSITS

OBESITY has many variations. Some individuals are chunky all over. Others exhibit excess baggage in localized regions such as the face, trunk, or extremities. But there is one type which is unusual because the fatty accumulations are painful. This rare disorder is called "adiposis dolorosa" or "Dercum's disease," after the physician who gave us our first clear-cut description of the condition.

The onset, as a rule, is insidious altho occasionally it occurs suddenly. Tenderness appears over scattered areas of the body such as arms, legs, or shoulders but particularly the abdominal wall. The hands, feet, and face are seldom if ever affected. As discomfort increases in intensity, soft, movable, puffy swellings arise. After some days these enlargements vanish, leaving painful nodules. Gradually more lardlike tumors, which are reddish-blue in color, manifest themselves and these too leave hardened patches.

Associated with the adipose tissue is marked weakness and mental changes such as depression, irritability, or apathy. The distress which characterizes the disorder is probably of neuritic origin. The lymphatic system is often involved and vasomotor symptoms, such as abnormalities of perspiration, are not uncommon.

Women between the ages of 30 and 50 are the most frequent victims. This has led to the belief that the malady is related to glandular dysfunction. The thyroid, the pituitary, and the gonads have been blamed as have emotional shocks, injury, and infection. A neuropathic background is usually found which suggests that the autonomic [sympathetic] nervous system is out of kilter. Perhaps a combination of all these factors plays a part.

Treatment is not too satisfactory. Since the patient lacks strength, the diet cannot be greatly restricted but it would seem reasonable to assume that high protein menus are indicated. As fat metabolism is apparently upset, this element should be kept at a minimum.

Drugs to counteract weakness include prostigmine, glycine, and aminoacetic acid. Radiation of the pituitary has been tried with inconclusive results. Thyroid extract may reduce distress somewhat as well as the size of the overgrowths. For the relief of pain, which may be severe at times, many plans have been employed, such as surgical removal of the pendulous masses and the injection of anesthetizing preparations into the lumps. Probably the simplest method is the use of salicylates.

Fortunately, these hunks of blubber are always benign and life is not endangered. Furthermore, as the disorder progresses, tenderness recedes.

EXTENDING COLDS

Bronchi writes: Discussing colds, you say the average siege will disappear within a few days unless it spreads to the bronchial tubes. For years, every time I catch cold it always ends into my chest causing a violent cough which lasts for several weeks. Can you suggest anything that will clear up the infection sooner?

REPLY

Your best bet would be to build your resistance to such a point that you will not come down with a cold. This means good hygiene and the elimination of all foci of infection, especially in the nose and throat. Many individuals whose bronchial tubes have been damaged by repeated infections are forced to spend their winters in a mild, equable climate.

DISPLACED JAW

Mrs. H. writes: Recently I had a letter from my overseas son saying that during a conversation his jaw came out of joint. He could not close his mouth and he was taken to a hospital. The doctor gave him morphine and managed to correct the trouble. Is this unusual?

REPLY

Your son probably dislocated his jaw. Altho the mishap may occur during talking it is more common after a super yawn. In most instances, a special maneuver is demanded to bring the parts back into position.

KEEPING TIME

R. J. writes: Do the heart beat and the pulse synchronize?

REPLY

In general, yes, except when certain irregularities are present. In auricular fibrillation, some of the contractions do not get thru to the pulse. In these circumstances, the number of heart beats is greater than that observed at the wrist.

FAIRLY ACCURATE

F. G. writes: Is a positive rabbit test absolute proof of pregnancy?

REPLY

Yes, in 98 to 99 per cent of the cases.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Reciprocity

The American soldier [a pfc.] had been asked in a letter from an aunt what he thought of relief for the Europeans. He replied that he thought a lot about it, even tho in untouched Paris, where he is now, it is easy to forget the gaunt, pitiful French families he saw so much of last winter.

"You'll remember," he continued, "I wrote about Gustof and his mother and little girl, with whom we were billeted during the offensive. The last I saw of Gustof was on Jan. 1, the day of the big counter-offensive on the 7th army front. Censorship precluded my telling you of it then, for the drubbing we took that day was so bad even the Jerries didn't know how deeply they had pierced us. We were bombed and strafed all morning, and around noon our position was taken over by elements of one of our armored divisions that was being pushed back.

"I was cleaning my submachine gun in the living room after breakfast when I heard a plane making passes at the town. I went out and saw that it was one of our own P-47s. I stood there gaping at its acrobatics until it opened up on us with its 50 calibers.

"I raced back into the living room and tried to squeeze under a bed that stood about three inches off the floor, altho it wouldn't have stopped a .50 if our house had been hit. After it passed over and began to bomb on down the hill I tore for the shelter of the cellar.

"After the planes left—and where the Jerries got our P-47s I'll never know—we learned that the division was going into a disengaging action, so we pulled up stakes, much to the consternation of the townsfolk, who thought we were deserting them to the Boches. Gustof had been a partisan and was wanted by the Jerries, so he packed all he could carry and mounted his bicycle, after a tearful and heart-rending farewell. Mama and the baby then sat down to await their fate. We left them, the old lady rocking back and forth in sobs, tears streaming down her withered cheeks, the baby sleeping peacefully in her crib.

"A week later the town [Gotsenbruk] was in the front lines again, and before we recaptured it most of the civilians were either killed by the artillery exchange or deported by the Germans. Some boys that drove past later said our section of the town was a total wreck, so I guess maman won't worry any more about the wood we used to swipe from her for our fire.

"A month later another boy saw maman and the baby in a refugee camp about 100 miles away, and a buddy of mine spotted Gustof weeks later, so I imagine they were finally united and went back to the rubble of their home to scoop out a little rat hole in the cellar and try to exist as so many millions of Europeans are trying to do right now.

"After their many kindnesses to us last winter, and they were representative of most of the little French families we ran into, I like to think they are benefitting from the trickle of food and clothing the UNRRA people have been passing around, but from what I've seen, what has been done so far is just a drop in the bucket to what is needed. If we are to counteract the very bad impression the disgruntled American troops are making all over France today, we will have to show them how generous we can be.

"American stock in Europe is at its lowest ebb since 1492 and the situation doesn't seem to be improving. In those areas where our units are sweating out their place on a ship with nothing to occupy their time, lawlessness, drunkenness, and hostility are mounting. In some places in France, according to the Stars and Stripes, the old resistance groups are reforming—to protect the civilians from their liberators."

F. D. R. BEAT AMERICA, AT LEAST

Chicago, Nov. 27—Former Secretary Hull said, "But when you are talking to a desperado it does no harm to have a double barreled shotgun handy and to let him see the outline of it." But 3,000 Pearl Harbor dead testify that there is real harm, there is suicide, in pointing a double barreled shotgun at a desperado when the desperado knows that it is loaded with caps and not with shells. More definitely it is suicide when the party holding the gun knows it is loaded only with caps and not with shells.

Sumner Welles is right in saying that the navy was based on Pearl Harbor as an integral part of over-all policy and that you can't divorce the diplomatic field from the military field. But he is wrong in the application of the principle. F. D. R., in his poker game against the American people, played with marked cards and unlimited chips. He always beat them. But in the international poker game with the Japs at Pearl Harbor the Japs had marked the cards and had the most chips. Three thousand dead say so.

Carrying on with Welles: So closely married are diplomacy and the military that the diplomatic neck should not be stuck out so far that the military arm cannot reach it and protect it. In addition, the diplomatic neck should not get away from functioning only for the legal or constitutional body to which it is supposed to belong.

Pearl Harbor was the result of diplomacy that was not American. Also the diplomacy was not within the field of the army and navy to make it effective.

BRITISH BEGGARS AND GI BORROWERS

Chicago, Nov. 26—Since when must we citizens and taxpayers of the United States literally beg the British to accept our money on their terms, when our service men have to fight red tape and prove that they can make a go of it before securing a GI loan at the lender's rate? If those rates are too high to suit him that is just too bad. Or if the term of the loan is too short, tough luck.

Certainly it is high time to resort to drastic measures.

M. T. S. SLIPPING AGAIN?

Chicago, Nov. 27—What has happened to the food situation at the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium? Patients are again asking their relatives and friends to bring them in food, as this condition has fallen back to where it was before the food expert from the school board was sent out there. IMPROVEMENT AT M. T. S.

Chicago, Nov. 27—In view of the articles recently appearing in THE TRIBUNE relative to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, I believe you will be interested in my favorable opinion of the institution and the service it is performing for the public.

I was hospitalized for necessary surgery to correct a recurrent attack of empyema, the operation being performed by Dr. R. M. Davison, assisted by the surgical staff, which I commend very highly, not only for the efficient and conscientious manner in which they prepared for and performed this operation, but also for the excellent postoperative medical attention that was required. I would also compliment the nursing staff for their efficiency and willingness to serve the patients under their charge. The food was of excellent quality and ample proportion and I could find no cause for complaint.

It is my firm conviction that the care and attention I received was the equal of, if not superior to that available in any similar institution or hospital.

WASTED DOCTORS

Chicago, Nov. 28—Would some one please enlighten me as to why doctors still need 80 points for discharge while enlisted men need only 60 and line officers only 70? Is it true that the ASTP and V-12 students to whom the army and navy gave free medical and dental educations are being released? If so, why in the name of sense aren't they sent to Europe to relieve doctors who have been in the army 3½ years and overseas 18 months? There are general hospitals in Europe that have 32 doctors assigned to them and they have as few as 21 patients. Is that reasonable when we have such a shortage over here of doctors? The doctors feel that socialized medicine is being shoved on them and while overseas they cannot protest.

So far, no replacements have been sent to relieve these men. They want to come home. We want them home. Can't some one do something about it?

Two Winnetka Dances Added for Debutantes

BY JUDITH CASS

TWO Christmas time dances in Winnetka will add to the already extensive whirl planned for the debutantes and their beaux, and the fact that so many young men are at home, or expected shortly, from service posts, indicates that the season will be almost back to pre-war standards as far as stag lines are concerned. Mr. and Mrs. Ingo A. Esch of Winnetka have decided on a dance the night of Dec. 28 in the Winnetka Woman's club as a debut party for their daughter, Josephine.

Miss Esch, who spent a year at Vassar, is a junior at Northwestern university. She has a younger sister, Carla, who is a senior at the North Shore Country Day school.

The rambling, white painted Woman's club will be bright with lights on the night after Christmas when Mrs. Francis T. Wilson will entertain at a dance for her three older children—Miss Eleanor, Francis Jr., and John. The party will be a family reunion as well as a debut for Miss Wilson, who steadfastly refused any such gayety unless her brothers could be here to share in it. Lt. Wilson Jr. of the marine air corps expects to be discharged and at home for Christmas. His younger brother expects to have earned his wings in the marine air forces by that time, and to be at home then, too.

Engagement News

A small tea which Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Spencer Pribble gave at home in Evanston yesterday to introduce the bride of Mrs. Pribble's brother, Harry C. Kopf, to their friends, turned out to be a doubly gay occasion. Old friends of the family, upon arriving, found a bride-to-be and her fiance to be congratulated as well, for Mr. and Mrs. Pribble chose the occasion to announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Harriett Ann, to Lt. Comdr. Thomas Arnet Sinding of the naval reserve, son of Mrs. John W. Sinding and the late Mr. Sinding of Evanston.

Miss Pribble and Comdr. Sinding, who is on terminal leave following five and a half years' duty, will be married in January. Miss Pribble, a graduate of Wellesley college, is a member of the editorial staff of THE TRIBUNE. Her fiance attended Dartmouth college and received his commission with the first naval training class at Prairie State in New York City. He returned to this country from China early in November after service on the cruiser Alaska as assistant gunnery officer. Before that he had served on the cruiser Indianapolis, which was sunk some months after he left it. The Sinding family formerly lived in Kenilworth.

Mr. Kopf and the former Helen Hogue were married early in September and returned a few weeks ago from an extended wedding trip to Guatemala and Mexico. They are at home in Chicago.

On the Calendar

One of the most entertaining features of last year's Globe Trotters' ball, given by the woman's board of the Travelers Aid society, was the selection by a group of "G-men" of the prettiest and best dressed woman present, supposedly a feminine spy. The event will be repeated at the board's benefit Paris Rendezvous dinner-dance Dec. 15 in the Drake hotel, tho under more high toned circumstances. This time it will be three ambassadors, from among the members of the "diplomatic corps" present, who will seek the most beautiful and distingues woman present, in their opinion, and award her the honorary title of Marquise d'Orleans.

Members of the diplomatic corps, complete with red ribbons across the front of their shirts, will be husbands of board members, members of the senior board, and a few others. The names of the ambassadors will not be revealed, however, lest they succumb early in the evening to feminine wiles. The contest winner will appear in a gold sedan chair.

Two orchestras, a Parisian atmosphere definitely haute monde rather than Bohemian, entertainment, and games also are on the program, it was announced at a luncheon meeting Thursday in the Arts club. Mrs. John W. Clarke is general chairman of the benefit.

Other Events

Due to the limited number of persons which the Saddle and Cycle club can accommodate, only the first 250 couples who made reservations will be able to attend a gala dinner-dance which the central committee of Northwestern University Settlement will give there at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Among those who have reservations are President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university and Mrs. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. George Dryden, Mrs. Charles Kittle, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pierson. Mrs. Roger Faherty is chairman of the benefit, which is the first of its kind that the committee has undertaken.

The first of a series of chamber music evenings by the Philharmonic String Quartet will be given in the Cliff Dwellers clubrooms tonight following dinner. Désiré Defauw, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will comment on the music to be played. John Weicher, Franz Polesny, Milton Preves, and Dudley Powers play in the quartet.

Circle 29 of the Oak Park and River Forest Infant Welfare society will sponsor a children's play, "Rumpelstiltskin," at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Goodman Memorial theater. Working on the benefit are Mrs. Harold Beard, the circle's president; Mrs. Jack Wilson, Mrs. Warren Brown, Mrs. Robert Whalen, Mrs. William Laib, Miss Florence Jacobs, and Mrs. Henry Wolf.

Local officers of both the army and the navy will gather today in the lounge of the Armed Forces Officers' club at 130 N. Wells st. to hear the Army-Navy football game broadcast from Philadelphia and recorded on blackboards.

Because of the illness of its conductor, Ruth MacKay, the White Collar Girl column is being omitted temporarily.

2,000 Present as Couple Say Wedding Vows

BY NANNETTE M'CARTHY

"It was the biggest wedding I've ever seen in Old St. Mary's church, and I've been stationed here for 16 years," said a policeman who tried his best to maintain order among the half a hundred or more shiny limousines and numerous smaller cars which jammed S. Wabash av. and the surrounding side streets late yesterday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Nancy Lee Cochran and Edward A. Cudahy III.

Onlookers crowded the sidewalks at either side of the red and white canopy which extended from the church doors to the curb, eager to catch a glimpse of the radiant young bride as she entered the church on the arm of her father, John L. Cochran.

There were almost as many uninvited as invited guests among the more than 2,000 who witnessed the ceremony. Some workers from nearby offices even dashed over without coats to jostle at the doorways for a peek at the couple as they said their vows before the dark wood altar. It was decorated at either side by small bouquets of white snapdragons and carnations and backed by a candle-lighted curtain of glistening gold cloth. The Rev. Donald Temple officiated.

Instead of the traditional organ processional, the Paulist choir lifted full voices promptly at 4 o'clock, and the bridesmaids, gowned in lavender-blue moire and carrying old fashioned bouquets of pink roses and violets, started down the aisle. Their headdresses were flower trimmed half-hats of dusty pink velvet, tied at the side with lavender veiling.

Five generations of brides have worn the lovely rose point lace veil which belongs to Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins and which fell over the bride's beautiful white satin gown yesterday. Both the veil and the dress had been worn two years ago by her sister, the former Eleanor Cochran, when she became the bride of Lt. Louis Lee Hemingway Jr. A simple white prayer book tied with stephanotis was carried in the bride's hands.

Following the ceremony the wedding guests hurried to the Casino club, scene of the bride's debut, and of which her mother, Mrs. Cudahy Jr., is president, to wish the young couple happiness. The receiving line formed in the fountain room in front of an eight foot bank of evergreens from which dozens of red roses blossomed. Little bouquets of white snapdragons and carnations adorned the top of each of the tables which lined the walls of the ballroom. The same flowers were used to decorate the three tiered cake and the white candelabra which were laid out on a long lace covered table in the center of the ballroom. A string orchestra provided soft background music at one end of the oval room.

War-Helpful Nylon Faces Bright Future

BY EDITH WEIGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 30—This is the town where nylon was born. Still in its infancy, it's the wonder child of chemistry and is doing very well, thank you. Only a few months after its appearance it had created a new 12 million dollar industry.

Sidetracked from producing yarn for hosiery by war demands, the company manufactured yarn for parachutes, the cord for opening them, and tow ropes for gliders—ropes more than twice as strong as those used before and so elastic that they acted as shock absorbers, yet so glistening white and beautiful that they could well be imagined as drapery trimmings.

Larger ropes were made for ships and were more valuable than the old manila hawsers because they could stand abrasion, were mildew resistant, and could take all kinds of weather. Nylon nets went thru the war under the sea and were avoided by all kinds of marine life, including molluscs, so that when they were hauled up they were in almost as good condition as when laid down. Other types of nets came up heavily encrusted with sea matter, which had damaged them.

Nylon stockings? Not a single pair is manufactured by the huge company that has made them possible. Only the yarn is produced here. It is sent to hosiery mills all over the country, and the knitting of the stockings and the marketing of them is done by these factories.

We saw the manmade miracle of the spinning of the threads, and the machinery which does the work is as amazing as the nylon itself. It had to be invented, since nothing like the process had been attempted before.

From flakes that resemble uneven chips of white stone and have been derived from a colorless liquid which is processed literally out of the air and from water, coal, and other substances, a melt is achieved. This melt, or liquid, is whirled around in a machine called a spinerette and is forced out of it thru tiny holes in a small metal plate which shapes the yarn or thread. As the threads come out in long, vertical streams, looking like delicate white strands of cobweb, they are immediately cooled by cold air. They then pass thru another complicated mechanism which stretches them.

More than twice as strong as silk yarn and with far greater toughness and wearing qualities, nylon is then almost ready to be made into hosiery, but not quite. It has to go thru a process which gives it a twist and lubricates it so it can be handled by knitting machines, and this is called the "Thwoster."

Probably most women associate nylon only with stockings. It is being used, however, for many other purposes. Surgeons employ nylon thread for sutures. It has been made into sewing thread, strings for tennis rackets, shoe laces, fish lines, men's socks, neck scarfs, and cravats, to mention only a few.

Now, of course, the demand is primarily for women's hosiery, but when that demand has been filled nylon will be available for curtains and draperies, rugs and upholstery, yard goods such as velvets and chiffons and jersey, and bathing suits when combined with rubber.

The work of the experimental laboratory here had to be suspended during the war years. It is now starting to function again, and constant experiments will be made to determine new uses for nylon and to improve it in every way possible.

Skilled chemists staff this laboratory, and they work under varied conditions. In several small laboratories we took a sudden dive into the tropics, where the humidity is kept constant at 72 and the heat at 72 or 74 degrees.

Now that the war is over nylon is coming into use as a molding material. It can be molded under heat into articles of many shapes and of delicate structure. And it will hold its shape at relatively high temperatures.

In the next few years so many developments can be expected that nylon will appear in various forms in our homes as well as in our wardrobes. And stockings will be just one member of the large and growing nylon family.

Cynthia Howe and Lt. Brown to Wed Today

At 4:30 p. m. today in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park, Miss Cynthia Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Halsted Homer Howe of Highland Park, will become the bride of Lt. Joseph Warner Brown of the army air forces, son of Mrs. Harold L. Brown of Evanston. Only relatives and a few close friends will hear the Rev. Christoph Keller read the service, and a small reception will follow in the Howe home.

Miss Howe will be attended by Miss Patricia Trude, and Lt. Brown, who is on terminal leave, will have his brother, Capt. Robert Brown, also of the army air forces, as best man. Lt. Brown and his bride will live in Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Lois Eva Pace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Pace of River Forest, to Robert Edward Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barber of W. Lake st., will take place this evening in the Grace Lutheran church, River Forest, with a reception following in the Oak Park Arms hotel. The bride attended Northwestern university. Mr. Barber has returned after five years' duty in the Pacific with the navy. He and his bride will live in California.

In a ceremony at 11 a. m. today in the Church of Christ the King, Miss Helen Brady Klug, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Klug of Hamilton av., will become the bride of Maj. George C. Fanning Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fanning of Oakley av. A wedding breakfast for the immediate families will follow in the Windermere East hotel, where a reception will be held at 2 p. m. Maj. Fanning is on terminal leave from the army following a year of duty in Europe.

Needs of Youth Are Discussed by Clubwomen

BY IRENE STEYSKAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—Shirley Temple, her pert face framed in a shoulder length drift of red gold hair, joined a panel of other teen-agers here today at the General Federation of Women's Clubs' mid-year board meeting to discuss youth and its problems.

The young movie star, recently the bride of Sgt. John Agar, told the clubwomen in a speech, which, it was emphasized, she wrote herself, that "juvenile delinquency is the waste product of a faulty approach by the community to its youth's needs." Young people and children have done important war work, she reminded the club leaders, and are eager to accept "serious responsibility. Before her speech Shirley visited Mrs. Truman in the White House.

The day was given entirely to programs projecting the general federation's "youth conservation" plans launched last year by Mrs. La Fell Dickinson, the president. Judge Anna M. Kross of the Magistrate's court in New York, chairman of the federation's youth conservation committee, presided.

President Truman sent a personal message to Mrs. Dickinson in praise of the general federation's "affirmative" program for American youth. "The wayward boy or girl is the end product of shortcoming in the environment which produced that result," he wrote.

Among guest speakers was Gov. Kelly of Michigan, who organized in his state a youth guidance commission composed of the leaders of youth serving agencies. He suggested that it was sound economy, quite aside from its human aspect, to develop programs for the prevention of delinquency just as prevention measures were taken for health, to reduce traffic and industrial accidents, and to protect natural resources.

C. Scott Fletcher, director of the committee on economic development, warned that "too many misguided Americans have thought it possible to preserve our way of life by . . . frantically waving the flag of free enterprise and damning everything in general."

"That," he said, "is not going to get us anywhere. A program of action is essential so that each one of us may do something practical in our community to improve economic, social, and cultural life for all its citizens.

"Having accepted free enterprise as our economic way of life," Fletcher said, "we must discover its shortcomings and find ways to correct them. All of us — in government, labor, agriculture, and business—must work positively and aggressively to make our free enterprise system function with maximum effectiveness and thus raise the standards of living of people in all walks of life." He called for the organization of permanent community development committees.

Social advances for the good of children have not been comparable to the "remarkable" advances this country has made in industry and science, Judge Kross said. "We have failed to realize the full potentialities of normal youth except in time of war," she asserted. "Teen-age boys and girls who have the right kind of fun and constructive interests rarely get into trouble. With many of the young delinquents who come before my court, it isn't they who should be tried and punished, but society which has failed to give them what they need—swimming pools rather than pool rooms, youth centers instead of honky-tonks."

Those Warm Galoshes Are Back with Us

BY REA SEEGER

Sturdy galoshes, still somewhat bundlesome in outline, are back, in time for wintry weather. Since they have been missing from shelves for more than two years, the present showings are getting almost a fife and drum welcome. Nothing assures such cozy comfort as do these stadium boots and galoshes. Most of them are lined with sheep's wool, others have wool fabric linings of 100 per cent wool content, to make them nearly as warm as the real sheepskin.

These are frankly designed for comfort and ease, not swank or daintiness. So, even the woman with ordinary vanity about small sizes in footgear, can either pocket her pride and enjoy a winter free of frost bites or blandly ignore the outsize outlines and the tendency to clump and clank when walking. All the boots are high and fitted with zippers over the instep so they will look as neat and trim as possible and at the same time remain wind, snow, and slushproof no matter how deep the snow.

As a sop to the vanity of women, two colors are available for the exteriors, black and brown, both blending nicely with the inner cream color interiors. Thus coats and suits can be matched if you stick to these two excellent street shades for your winter wardrobe.

For further information call Rea Seeger, Superior 0200.

Thru the Looking Glass

On a recent little expedition to the loop we picked up a few bits of beauty news we thought exciting.

First: A couple of the shops have received small shipments of some French perfume we for one are thrilled to see again. The name is famous; the scents are beautiful. This was made and packaged in France and, while the price is understandably higher than it was in the days before the war, it is not exorbitant. We know dozens of women who'll yelp with delight when they know it's back, in three fragrances that were internationally famous in peace times.

Second: Looking about for inexpensive gift items, we were delighted to find some comb and brush sets that are exceptional values in one of the shops. There is one, a slender, sturdy hair brush of lucite, with nylon bristles, that's shaped like the professional brushes used in shops. With a comb to match, it makes a good gift, and a good looking one, and costs very little. The same lucite is used for a round backed brush, too. There is another one in ivory tinted plastic, also with a comb to match, that's a buy. Prices for these sets start at $1.50 and don't wander much beyond that figure. These would be slick gifts for the little girls and the teen-agers on your shopping list.

Third: The economically minded women who are handy with a needle should look up some of the fine, heavily scented sachet powders and whip off little, pretty fancies for their friends. For the trifling toe-of-the-stocking remembrance a little silken pillow or puff, lavishly sacheted, is a sweet gift.

Returning Veterans Need Understanding, Women's Deans Told

Returning veterans need reassurance and understanding rather than advice, Dr. Carl R. Rogers, professor of psychology at the University of Chicago, told members of the Illinois Association of Deans of Women last night. His talk on "Adjustment Counseling of College Students" was given at the second session of the association's silver anniversary conference in the La Salle hotel.

"The counselor should be a mirror of the attitudes the veteran is expressing," Dr. Rogers said. "He should not attempt to give advice, but should question and probe and give reassurance, helping the veteran to see his own problem."

The meeting will close today with an anniversary luncheon which will bring as speaker Mrs. Helen Schacter, consulting psychologist with the Veterans Rehabilitation center in Chicago. Movies on rehabilitation problems will be shown at 10 a. m.

At an election this morning, Miss Velora Buscher, dean of girls at the Wood River High school, will be unopposed candidate for vice president, and Miss Ruth Beck, dean of the Proviso Township High school, will be the only candidate for secretary. Miss Anna L. Keaton of Illinois State Normal university will continue as president for another year, and the treasurer, Miss Helen S. Moor of the Northern Illinois State Teachers college, also will continue in office.

"With Bated Breath" . . . . By Alice Campbell

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Alice Ormond Campbell)

INSTALMENT XXIV.

DECISION NECESSARY

It really did seem an insoluble riddle, Lady-Barkdale raced on, not the least weird feature being the total disappearance of the woman on the bus. What woman? Why, the strange woman who had shared Aggie's front seat!

"The 'mystery woman' they're calling her. All the other passengers have come forward, why doesn't she? Did she leave the bus when Aggie did? It's possible, in that crush and pitch darkness. . . . Something must account for Aggie's abrupt change of plan. Cheltenham was her old home. The sister who lived there died recently, but undoubtedly Aggie still had friends. One wonders if after all the shooting did take place at Elm Corners. Aggie may have accompanied this woman back in the Turrets direction, it's impossible to conceive why. Without shoes? Yes, it does sound quite, quite mad. But don't you see, the shoes and so on may have been put in the pond days after poor Aggie herself was murdered and hidden away underground. For if it was at Elm Corners . . . Stop! Are you entirely alone?"

"Practically," Avis answered. "What is it?" she asked, tensed.

"Only this: Can Erica drive a car?"

Erica! It was ridiculous, wild . . .

"H'm, I agree," Emily Barkdale mused. "Too impossible . . . But there is a member of your household who has no disability. S'sh—are you there? Another staggering bit of news has leaked out, and after all this time! It seems that this person knew Aggie. That when one confidently assumed he was safely cosseting his ailments at Bath——"

Sound of dislocation ended in a cut-off.

Cut off! It symbolized her condition. If it weren't for Lady Barkdale, news wouldn't percolate at all.

But, Erica had been left too long. As Avis entered the schoolroom she heard a slight scurry that did not come from Benjamin, nor could she believe that Olive had been tinkering with the tattered music outspread on the piano rack. Yet when she crossed on tiptoe to the bedroom Erica lay as before. It was her spasmodic breathing that gave her away. Her lids might be tightly closed, but tremors shook the bedclothes.

"Miss Erica!" Avis spoke softly, a torment of pity in her heart. She waited. "O, it's you," Erica murmured. "I'm quite all right, thank you, my bottle is still warm."

The shrunken form sat up. A hand cold as a lizard grazed Avis' wrist. A ghostly tap-tap drew Erica's swollen eyes nervously to the window. It was only the ivy, Avis soothed. Erica nodded.

"I—I—"

"Yes, I know, Miss Erica. Try to realize this: She didn't suffer. Can't have done. It was all over—like that."

"I know. I heard. No, it's not that. At least—"

The opened lips widened in a suffocated gasp. Some one was mounting the stair. Erica burrowed under her blankets. "I'm asleep. O, keep her away!"

And now Avis understood. Grief-stricken Erica might be, but her chief trouble was a new and paralyzing fear.

"It's only Robin." Avis calmed her, taking a quick peep thru the schoolroom door. "I'll just see what he wants." But Robin had stumped moodily on to the rear window behind the iron steps and didn't turn when she came toward him. "What's Erica been saying to you?" he muttered. "Nothing," she lied, "just mumbling a little in her sleep."

She thought he was about to tell her something, but some one was coming up behind, lingering tentatively at Erica's door, emerging round the bend of the wall: Olive. She was raising droll brows as she sauntered along to join them. "Our private opera box," she commented. Robin had winced. Queer, now one thought of it, that these two hardly exchanged a word. Olive's attitude toward Robin seemed that of easy going lack of interest; Robin, on rare occasions, had been rude.

Behind the hedges, midway the green wasteland, life had suddenly appeared in the form of two tweed garbed men, clambering up out of the second tunnel opening, dusting disgusted hands, and tramping stodgily away. This was the new lot, Olive informed, her old casualness restored. Scotland Yard, some one had told her. They'd been down there half the morning and they had a picket over by the path to keep back the audience.

Robin strode irritably down to his room, banging the door. Olive slid an arm around Avis' tensed shoulders. "You look a bit moldy, my poppet. I'll take on Erica. Why don't you dash out for some air?"

"Not now. Maybe after tea."

The strong fingers pummeled the high neck of her wool jumper. "What's this you're wearing next to your skin? Not the family jewels?"

"Jill's," Avis laughed, wriggling away. "She left it to be mended. I've got to mail it to her. Was that Erica?"

Now was her moment to look for a discreet place to stick this cursed gift before it got her landed in the soup. Once let Maud set eyes on it and she'd take it for granted the new companion was in Erica's pay.

"Miss Erica! Why you're dressed!"

Erica, blue with cold, was just shivering into her second stocking, close by the schoolroom fire! Wanly she declared she couldn't go on lying in her bed. "But I shan't come down. I—" Her eyes took on a scared vacancy. Timidly, imploring, they sought Avis's face. Erica was regretting her fear driven admission. Avis said briskly, "That's right, you keep in the warm." She found scissors and chopped off the cursed trail of ivy that beat against the bedroom pane, noticing the long, sheer drop from the turret into the depths of the ravine; released the rabbit so Erica could cuddle him in her lap.

Oscar Moravian was saying in sirupy tones, "May I come in?" He chided Erica gently for getting up, but sat down beside her, editing his remarks for Avis' benefit, and she suspected they were stalling for her to go. What was the thing Lady Barkdale had been about to tell her? Something about Moravian not coming here straight from Bath, and about his being acquainted with Aggie Trimble. An old connection or a new? The two by the fireside had fallen into silence. Ethel, below, was beating the lunch gong. Avis slipped back thru the bathroom to gain her own room and tidy her hair. She didn't quite close the communicating door, however.

"Yes," Mr. Moravian said quietly, "I am afraid you must now decide."

Chief Inspector Headcorn of New Scotland Yard, was quite used to being asked to hold unwanted babies. That this country case fell into the well known category was all apparent from the precis marked strictly confidential which had engrossed him during his westward train journey.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 30—Capt. Ernest Gann comes here to do the screen play of his novel, "Blaze of Noon," for Paramount. It's a story of the early days in aviation, and Fred MacMurray—what with all his screen flying experience—probably will get the lead. Seton Miller is the producer. . . . Reginald Owen has been borrowed from Metro to play the fuss-budgety role of Sir Henry Carmel in "Cluny Brown" for Twentieth Century-Fox. . . . With five of his pictures ready but unreleased, Brian Donlevy has plenty of fans who are wondering what's happened to him. Understand Brian isn't too happy about the situation, and will try his luck at free lancing when his contract ends at Paramount. . . . Faith Baldwin's new novel, "Woman on Her Way," will appear as a magazine serial before it hits the bookstalls. Studios have already started bidding for it. . . . Dona Drake gets the siren role in Claudette Colbert's new picture, "Thank God, I'll Take It from Here." They can start changing that title any day now. Can you imagine it on the marquees?

That Would Be Animation Plus

Walt Disney is dickering with Carmen Miranda to play in "Carnival," which will be another of those pictures featuring actors live and drawn—but not quartered. It'll have a Cuban background. . . . After I wrote that Johnny Weissmuller wanted to do some action pictures with his duds on, Producer Bill Pine called to say he thought it a good idea. He's cooking up a story now that'll co-star Johnny and Buster Crabbe with a western background. . . . Lucille Ball is turning down all contract offers and sticking to free lancing. . . . Joe Kirkwood Jr., son of the famous golfer, is being set for the lead in "Joe Palooka." To get his dukes in shape, he's been working out with Lou Nova and Jack Roper. . . . Twentieth Century has upped its offer to Edward Small for part of Dennis O'Keefe's contract.

It's a Good Idea, Yale

Andrea King tells me that Yale university has an office in every large town to aid its alumni returning from the service. Her lawyer husband, Nat Willis, is being placed by it. Speaking of Andrea, wonder why Arthur Rank hasn't made a bid for her? Born in France and having lived in London, she's one of our most cosmopolitan actresses. . . . Preston Sturges, the unpredictable, is plotting a musical picture for which he'll write the score as his next on the production schedule for California pictures, in which Howard Hughes has a big hunk of stock. Preston wants Betty Hutton to star in it. . . . Georgia Carroll is more ill than is generally believed. It probably will be three more weeks before she'll be strong enough to work.

A Friend in Need is a Friend . . .

When David Niven hits New York, he won't have to worry about the housing problem, because Raymond Massey, who's on the road with a play, is letting him have his place. . . . Sam Goldwyn, entertained at the Colony House by a national fan magazine, spent the bulk of the time extolling the virtues of Joan Fontaine. Could it be that he's trying to get her to do a picture for him? . . . Forrest Tucker has been signed for the lead opposite Jinx Falkenburg in "The Duchess of Broadway," which George Sherman will direct. . . . Now that he's out of the army, Ish Kabibble returns to Columbia on a two picture deal, which he'll do independent of Kay Kyser. Speaking of Kay, when he opened his broadcast to civilians for the first time in five years, 95 per cent of audience turned up in uniform.

Liver can be prepared in so many different ways that it may be included in the family menus once a week without becoming tiresome. It should be served at least that often because of its nutritive value. One serving of liver supplies more than our daily requirement for vitamin A and iron, pork liver being the best source.

Because of its delicate flavor, calves' liver usually is preferred, but with the proper cooking methods, beef, lamb, and pork liver all are good. Beef and pork liver are best when roasted, braised, or fried; veal and lamb usually are broiled, panbroiled, or fried.

Calves' liver is broiled because it is the most tender. Have the liver sliced fairly thin [⅛ to ¾ inch], brush well with melted butter and broil in a moderate oven, just long enough to change color—about three minutes to a side.

For frying, liver should be sliced fairly thin, rolled in seasoned flour, browned in a small amount of fat, and finished at a lowered temperature. Too often fried liver is tough and flavorless because it has been cooked too long at a high temperature. The frying takes not much longer than the browning process.

Before braising liver, soak it in cold, salted water for 30 minutes and peel off the outside skin. Whole livers combine nicely with vegetables for an easily prepared oven braised dinner. A three to four pound beef liver will require 2 to 2½ hours cooking time, while the same amount of meat sliced will be done in 1 to 1½ hours.

The larger pieces of liver can be roasted successfully. Cut a pocket in the thickest part of a two to three pound liver and fill it with a well seasoned dressing, place strips of bacon or salt pork over the top, and bake it for two hours in a 350 degree oven.

Try French fried liver and onions for a savory dish:

French Fried Liver and Onions
1 pound beef, veal, lamb, or pork liver
Flour, salt, pepper
Spanish onions
Lard for deep frying

Cut sliced liver [½ inch slices] into strips. Put flour, salt, and pepper together in a paper sack and shake liver strips in it. Slice onions, separate into rings, and dip into milk, then shake in sack to coat with flour and seasonings. Put onions in frying basket and fry at 350 degrees until crisp and brown. Drain on soft paper. Place liver strips in basket and fry until just browned. Serve liver and onion rings together. Keep onion rings warm in the oven while liver is being fried.

Liver Casserole
[Serves four to six]
1 pound sliced liver [beef or pork]
Boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups soup stock or bouillon
2 tablespoons chopped celery
½ cup sliced olives
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
2 hard cooked eggs
½ cup buttered crumbs

Drop liver into boiling water. Lower heat and simmer for 3 to 5 minutes. Cut in small pieces. Add flour to melted butter, blending well. Add stock or bouillon cubes dissolved in water and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add liver, celery, olives, seasonings, and chopped egg yolk and turn into greased casserole. Mix chopped egg whites and buttered crumbs and sprinkle over top. Bake uncovered, in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 20 to 30 minutes.

Sugar Stamp 38, in Book 4, expires Dec. 31.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Sour Cream Rolls
[Makes 4 dozen]
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 cups sour cream
3 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
8 cups flour [about]

Soften yeast in water. Scald cream in double boiler. Add sugar, salt, and baking soda, and cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and half of flour and beat well. Add remaining flour or enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured pastry cloth and knead until smooth and elastic. Cut dough into four portions. Roll each ball of dough into a circular shape, about 14 inches in diameter and ¼ inch thick. Cut each into 12 pie shaped pieces. Brush lightly with melted butter and roll up, beginning at wide end. Place on well greased baking sheet. Cover and set in a warm place. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, for 20 minutes.

College Club Will Have Twilight Musical Today

The second program in the Chicago College club's new series of monthly twilight musicals, set for 5:30 p. m. today, will bring as guest artist Miss Dora Allenin, concert pianist. Hostesses at dinner afterward will be Miss Sarah Bacon Tunnicliff and Mrs. Charles A. Weaver.

Winter Outfit

Broad shoulder lines, front plaits, and stitched down seams, add something new to this winter jumper ensemble. Style No. 3021 is designed for sizes 12 to 44. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 54 inch material to make the jumper; 2¼ yards of 39 inch material to make the blouse, which can be long or short sleeved.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The fall and winter fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Are potatoes edible if they have a green color directly under the skin?"

The green color below the skin indicates sunburn or lack of maturity. In either case the potatoes probably would have a bitter flavor, but no harmful effects would result from eating them. The best potatoes are firm, have shallow eyes, and have no cuts, decay, or green spots on the surface.

"I like to make candy, but most recipes call for a thermometer, giving no other way to know when the candy is cooked. Is there any way to judge the cooking time without a thermometer?"

A thermometer is essential in obtaining uniformly good results, but good candy can be made using the cold water test. Drop a teaspoonful of cooking candy into cold water and test for hardness. Fudge and creams are cooked to the soft ball stage [234-240 degrees], caramels to the firm ball stage [244-248 degrees], and taffies to the hard ball stage [250-265 degrees] or when ball is firm to the touch. Butterscotch and toffee are cooked to the crack stage [270-290 degrees] or when sirup hardens immediately and crackles when knocked against side of the glass. Clear hard candies are cooked to the hard crack stage [295-310 degrees]. Sirup will break with a snapping sound when tested for the last stage.

"How can I put crock-made sauerkraut in jars to keep it indefinitely?"

To can crock-made kraut, heat it to simmering, pack into hot sterilized jars, cover with hot kraut juice, and process in boiling water bath for 30 minutes for quarts, 25 minutes for pints.

Nurses' League Told Value of Standard Tests

Use of standardized licensing examinations for nurses in all states builds up a reliable means of evaluating the professional nurse and will result in making it easier for her to work in any state. These were advantages outlined yesterday by Miss Lila Given, supervisor of nursing education in Wisconsin, who discussed the state board test pools at the closing session of the 42d annual meeting of the Illinois State League of Nursing Education in the Knickerbocker hotel.

Examinations are coöperatively prepared by the state boards of nurse examiners, experts, and consultants, she said. So far, 13 machine scored tests have been developed, and 24 states have used them. There is no charge for these tests, which may be obtained from the National League of Nursing Education.

Continuing the discussion of the tests, Mrs. R. Louise McManus, chairman of the committee on measurement and educational guidance of the national league, said studies of the 24 states where the tests were used disclosed the wide variance existing in training schools. One state's best nurse might rank as the poorest in a neighboring state, she said.

Post-war plans for nurses include the establishment of a committee on research in the national organization, Miss Adelaide A. Mayo, executive secretary of the national league, stated. A director, who may be a statistician rather than a nurse, will be appointed shortly, she disclosed, and the first survey undertaken will be a census of all nurses in the country, both professional and practical. She said that work would take 18 months. Another survey will be a comparative study of nursing and other fields for women. The committee will be a clearing house for all studies.

Results of Thursday's election were announced showing that Miss Elizabeth Odell, director of the Evanston hospital school of nursing, was reëlected vice president, and Miss Nellie X. Hawkinson, head of the department of nursing education at the University of Chicago, was reëlected secretary. Miss Alice Morse, director of the school at Grant hospital, was chosen secretary, and Mrs. Chester Cook was elected to represent lay members. She is chairman of the central council for nursing education.

Illinae Club's Benefit Today to Help Fund for Christmas Party

Proceeds from a bridge party to be given at 2 p. m. today by the Chicago Illinae club in the Illini center of the La Salle hotel will go toward financing the club's annual Christmas party in the children's wards of the University of Illinois Research and Educational hospitals. Guests at the benefit will hear Dr. Fremont A. Chandler, director of the university's department of orthopedic surgery, tell of the work being done for crippled children in the hospitals. Assisting Mrs. William Collins, benefit chairman, with arrangements are Mrs. F. W. Kraft, president of the Illinae club; Mrs. Edward Harrigan, Mrs. A. R. Watkins, Mrs. William MacFarland, Mrs. Elmer Engel, Miss Alice Hausler, Mrs. Tom Morrow, Mrs. Sumner Somerfield, Mrs. Lawrence Thompson, and Miss Frances Wiseheart. The children's party has been set for Dec. 15.

Chekhov Play to Be Given at International House

The International House dramatic group will present Anton Chekhov's one act play, "The Anniversary," at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow in the residence on the University of Chicago campus. The performance is free and open to the public.

Stage Notes

"Spring in Brazil," booked into the Erlanger Jan. 7, is reported being withdrawn for revision after next week's engagement in Baltimore, with plans to resume the tour during the holidays. There is a rumor that Milton Berle may withdraw from the show. . . . The Theater Guild has announced that its first play next season will be Eugene O'Neill's "The Ice Man Cometh," with Eddie Dowling as director and leading actor. . . . Open season on playwrights continues, with New York critics disappointed in John Van Druten's "The Mermaids Singing" and the dramatization of "Strange Fruit." However, Variety's tryout report on Elmer Rice's "Dream Girl" is "a thoroly enjoyable comedy."

Wise Parents Do Not Force Child Training

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Don't rush your children.

They'll do it when they're ready. Like plants, children have their own time for developing, and their own rate of speed. And if, instead of anticipating this time, we would follow in its wake, most of the difficulties with children which many mothers experience, both in behavior and in acquiring skills and control, would not be ours.

There is this matter of habit training. Suppose your baby isn't trained at the age that some book says he should be? Many a mother who has never read a book on child training and who hasn't the time to try to train her baby while he is too young for it anyway, finds that when she finally gets around to doing so, he has reached an age that makes this problem no problem at all, but a natural and a simple thing to correct.

As for eating and feeding, some mothers think that if their child has not developed independence at a certain date dire things will happen,—that the baby won't learn independence, skill, or the right attitude. But many a child, when the time comes for him to learn, does so easily and naturally, because he is ready to do so.

Other mothers get jittery if their baby doesn't start to talk as early as other babies do. But suddenly these silent babies start to talk in, not words, but whole phrases. That is, of course, unusual, but it proves that each child has its own and individual time both for learning and for speed of learning. And if we tend to lag behind rather than anticipate and force this time, we will find that the child learns more easily and more quickly.

Solid Advice: Win Friends by Being One

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

You may be a lucky character with a wardrobe like a cover girl, a family who lets you have enough spending money to make you the belle of the drugstore and provide five new albums of Cugat and Crosby recordings, but no matter what you have and no matter how much of it—you still need friends to enjoy life with you. And especially high school life! You know the old saying—"three's a crowd." Well, the more friends you have in your crowd, the more fun there's in it for you.

on the SOLID side

So here are five easy rules to follow to make friends and keep them:

Learn to smile easily and often. You know how good it makes you feel if some one greets you in the hall with a smile and a bright "hello"—well, why not try that friendship approach on some one else? If a friendly greeting makes a friend out of you, it will make a friend for you out of some one else!

Did some one forget to ask you to the party when a gang of the girls got together for a huddle last Friday night? And did you go into a sulk about it? Of course not. You simply rationalized yourself out of it, realizing that the girls were only casual friends; they would have asked you if they had thought about it, and besides you haven't asked them to have fun with you recently. Try to be a good sport about things that hurt your feelings and they won't hurt you at all!

Once you've made a friend, you keep her. No cat-chatter, no gossip, no fault-finding behind her back. Loyalty is your middle name!

If the boys in the crowd want to talk about football, you know what Notre Dame did against Navy this year. If your gal pals want to talk about records, you have a comment to offer about Jimmy Dorsey. You're the kind of a gal who's fun to talk to, some one with something on her mind.

Last Friday night a gang got together to go bowling. You'd never bowled before, but you tried. Next week is the big football dance—you're not exactly the partner who would bring happiness to Fred Astaire but at least you're willing to walk around and enjoy the music. If there's fun to be had, you want part of it. A gal who has fun, is fun.

Atom Bomb Scientist, Alumnus of Loyola, to Speak Tomorrow

Practical applications of atomic energy and plutonium will be discussed by Dr. John P. Tordella, atomic bomb scientist, at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Loyola university gymnasium, 6525 Sheridan rd. A 1941 alumnus of Loyola, Dr. Tordella was invited by the Loyola University Chemistry club to make the talk during a Chicago stopover while en route to the east coast from the Hanford Engineering Works, atom bomb experimental station at Richland, Wash. Dr. Tordella, who was instrumental in the first production of plutonium, new element used in atomic bombs, went to work a year ago in the Washington state atom bomb establishment. His talk tomorrow will be based on material brought to public attention in the Smythe report. The program is free to the public.

Warner Baxter in Busy Role as Crime Doctor

"THE CRIME DOCTOR'S WARNING"

Produced by Columbia, directed by William Castle, featuring Warner Baxter, John Litel, Dusty Anderson, Coulter Irwin, Miles Mander, John Abbott, Edward Ciannelli, Alma Kruger, J. M. Kerrigan, and Franco Corsaro. Presented at McVicker's.

By Mae Tinée

I don't know where the warning mentioned in the title comes in, but I do know that Warner Baxter, as the crime doctor, is the busiest man you ever saw. He's also an expert lock-picker and second-story man and, altho he rarely works at his regular profession, seems to have plenty of money—$200 means nothing to him when in pursuit of a criminal.

The film is full of dark men in dark overcoats and turned down fedoras, creeping around killing artists' models. There also is a frustrated artist, several sessions of hypnotism, a possessive mama, a sullen silhouette cutter, a case of what the doctor calls "transient amnesia," and, incidentally of course, the police, who trail meekly in the busy doctor's wake, arresting or freeing suspects at his bidding.

Edward Ciannelli and J. M. Kerrigan provide some interesting work in character roles, Warner Baxter is less smug than many such movie dicks, and the film is only occasionally ridiculous.

I guessed the identity of the guilty party, and I'm sure you will, too, in spite of a good many pointless red herrings, long before it reaches its fantastic conclusion. I've seen better mysteries, but I've also seen a lot worse.

Britain Lifts War Ban on Sale of Nail Polish

LONDON, Nov. 30 [Reuters] — British women will receive a Christmas present from the board of trade—the lifting of the ban on the manufacture and sale of nail polish and polish remover. The manufacture of these items ceased in 1941, and thruout the war cosmetic dealers and beauticians were forbidden to sell any of their large stocks. Manufacturers said today that released stocks would be available by Christmas and that new varieties would be on sale shortly thereafter.

Piano Contest Winner Shows Skill in Recital

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Still another good pianist showed up for a Kimball hall debut last night. This was Arline Markussen, and her presence on the stage was the result of winning the young artists contest of the Society of American Musicians.

There is no way of knowing what Miss Markussen's vanquished rivals were like, but there can be little argument over her qualifications for public appearance. She is a cool-headed young musician, with sure fingers that behave on the keyboard exactly as she wills them to. There is no straining or effort to her performance; it comes off to a calculated nicety, but this does not imply lack of warmth or feeling, of which there was plentiful evidence.

She opened with Mozart's Fantasia in C minor, and while it was not always the crisp Mozart of classical tradition, yet it was in discreet taste and brought forward at once one of the pianist's most favorable assets, a tone that is rounded and mellow, whether at the extremes of loudness or in the most tenuous of pianissimi. The modern pseudo-classicism of three of the Interludes and Fugues of Hindemith's "Ludus Tonalis" followed, and one could find only admiration for the skill with which the pianist pursued these devious tonal wanderings, and for the musical qualities she discovered in them.

Schumann's 35 minute Sonata in F-sharp minor was a test of both the performer's and the audience's endurance. Had Miss Markussen had the courage and the foresight to eliminate some of the piece's limitless redundancies and to retain only those episodes of real and tender beauty, which she played so affectionately and appealingly, she would have reaped a success commensurate with the effort she put into her task.

Debussy's "Pour le Piano" suite brought this reporter's attendance to an end.

SOLDIER KILLED AND SIX HURT IN BUS-AUTO CRASH

Carrier Driver Arrested by Highway Police

A soldier was killed and six other persons were injured last night in a collision of a Santa Fe Trailways bus and an automobile at La Grange and Joliet rds., south of La Grange.

The soldier, Joseph Davis, 18, of 11037 Avenue L, driver of the automobile, died while being removed to MacNeal Memorial hospital in Berwyn, where the injured were taken. The injured included Delbert Roberts, 18, of 10249 Ewing av.; Joseph Lucchette, 20, 3523 E. 95th st., and Elaine Cheruski, 18, of 8711 Essex av., who were passengers in Davis' car.

Carter Wilcoxen, 38, of Canton, Fulton county, the bus driver, was arrested by Bedford Park county highway police. He said a brake rod on the bus broke as he was attempting to stop at a traffic light. Three bus passengers were injured. They are Mrs. Harold Austrand, 51, Minneapolis, Minn., and Etta Goodwin, 43, of 4415 Calumet av., and Ruth Brown, 3201 W. 139th st., Robbins, both Negroes.

Second Death in Crash

Joan Holger, 16, of 485 Poplar av., Kankakee, died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital, Kankakee, of injuries suffered Wednesday when the car in which she was riding with five companions to a school basketball game collided head-on with another car near Kankakee. Her death was the second resulting from the accident. Ralph G. Orton of Morocco, Ind., driver of the other car, who was alone, was injured seriously.

John Carlson, 88, of 10541 S. Lawndale av., was killed yesterday when he was struck by a truck in Southwest highway near Harlem av. in Palos township. Alber Kern, 36, of Plainfield, the driver, told police that Carlson stepped into his path and that he was unable to avoid hitting him.

Ignatz Padvarskis, 57, of 5120 S. Central av., a packing house employe, was killed when he was run over by a truck at Western and Archer avs. Milton Brown, 33, of 3848 Congress st., the truck driver, was held by Brighton Park police pending an inquest today.

Woman Dies of Injuries

Mrs. Margaret Uzzo, 56, of 541 Oak st., died yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital of injuries suffered Thanksgiving day when the car in which she was riding collided with another car at Dayton and Willow sts. The driver of the other car was George Rampp, 2117 Fletcher st. Mrs. Uzzo was being driven by her son, Gus.

John Studeny, 62, of Union Pier, Mich., died in St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, after being struck by an automobile while he was crossing U. S. Highway 12 in Union Pier. The driver was Berger Nelson, 38, of 1730 Mead av., Chicago.

Coroner Brodie reported that automobile deaths for November totaled 49, bringing the total for the 11 months of the year to 521, compared with 496 deaths for the first 11 months last year. For November last year 53 persons were killed by automobiles.

32 LIVES LOST AS RAIN, SNOW HIT NORTHEAST

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

A pre-winter gale moved out to sea yesterday after lashing northeastern states with rain, sleet, and snow for two days and causing the death of at least 32 persons.

The New England coast and upstate New York were hit hardest by the storm, which upset transportation and communication facilities and caused considerable property damage. Seventeen persons were reported dead in New York, 11 in New England, and four in New Jersey.

Snow varied in depth from three inches in New York City to 30 inches at Bangor, Me. Railroads reported trains as much as an hour late. Air lines in New England canceled all northbound trips.

11,000 VETERANS OF IWO, SAIPAN SAIL THIS MONTH

SASEBO, Japan, Nov. 30 (AP)—Veterans of the Iwo, Saipan, and Tinian invasions are going home at last, in the largest single transfer of men in marine corps history.

Headquarters is processing 17,000 men and when the job is completed 11,000 marines will be ready for the homeward trip with the 5th marine division, which will be inactivated at Pendleton, Cal., where it was commissioned in January, 1944.

High-pointers from the 2d marine division, based at Nagasaki, and from the 5th amphibious corps at Sasebo will return with the 5th division. Low-pointers of the 5th division will be left in Japan. Tentative loading dates are Dec. 9 and Dec. 15.

NAVY EXPLAINS HOW SENATOR'S SON GOT BACK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The navy said today that Seaman First Class Paul I. Stewart, 18 year old son of Sen. Stewart [D., Tenn.], had been returned "unintentionally" from the Pacific with a low discharge point score.

Stewart had only 18 discharge points to his credit, and ordinarily naval personnel are not returned to the United States for duty with less than 38 points.

The navy said that orders had gone out to a base in Hawaii to transfer a group of men to Norfolk, Va., for duty in connection with servicing of the fleet. Stewart happened to be stationed at the base in question, the navy said, and was inadvertently included in the detachment for Norfolk. He was "not returned intentionally," the navy asserted. Sen. Stewart said, "It's news to me. I never requested this transfer."

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Today's the day! The day when 144 of the albest tenpin sharpshooters in the nation go to the line over the 12 handsomely groomed drives of the Auditorium service men's center. The occasion, of course, is the fifth annual All-Star tournament, which this morning, at 9 o'clock, goes into a nine day stand under the sponsorship of Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America.

Most bowling tournaments are conducted on the basis of total pins. The All-Star event, in which the national match game title will be defended by the personable Buddy Bomar, blends both total pins and match play. Bomar and the four men who pursued him thru last December's thrilling victory will engage in a special $1,000 match of their own.

Record Field of 144

This quintet includes, in addition to Buddy, Joe Wilman, the recently discharged soldier who was runner-up to Bomar last year; Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., master of the field for two years; Joe Sinke, the mailman, and Paul Krumske, the slender and gritty Chicagoan who took away Day's title two weeks before last year's tourney in a special challenge match.

The first five days of the tournament, continuing thru next Wednesday, will bring into action the entire 144 entrants, largest field in the five year career of the All-Star show, which has established itself as the real world series of bowling.

The field, enlisted from 69 cities in 23 states, constitutes the widest geographical cast the event has known. It gathered in the service men's center at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to discuss final interpretation of the competitive rules for the meet.

Match Play Opens Thursday

Bomar won't have a chance to defend his championship until Thursday, when the four-day match play round robin gets under way. On that quartet of sessions, he will join with Wilman, Day, Sinke, and Krumske in 16 four-game blocks against the other 11 men in the field.

These 11 will be determined via a total pin duel. They will work in six 24 man squads today, tomorrow, Monday, and Tuesday, rolling two men to the alley on a six game basis. The 43 high men for the 24 game route will roll 12 games in Wednesday's semi-finals. The high 11 men for the 36 game total pin distance will then join the five seeded finalists in the match game finalists.

The seeded quintet—Bomar, Wilman, Day, Sinke, and Krumske—will join the rest of the field in their 36 game total-pin argument. They'll try and tumble all the pins they can in a special $1,000 match of their own. The squad leaders, first and second, for the first four days, will collect special prizes of $100 and $50 each.

Chicago prep football's biggest show, the annual All-City title battle between the champions of parochial and public high school leagues, will finish the 1945 season today as Fenwick meets Tilden Tech in the 12th game of the charity series since it first was sponsored by Mayor Kelly.

An attendance of almost 80,000 is forecast for Soldiers' field if favorable weather prevails around 1:30 p. m., kick-off time. Last year 65,000 saw Tilden beat Weber, 25 to 20, in the championship contest, while the all-time high was registered in 1937, when a crowd estimated at more than 110,000 witnessed the game in which Bill De Correvont paced Austin to a 26 to 0 triumph over Leo.

They've Been There Before

Fenwick, which won the Catholic league south section title by defeating St. George, 18 to 6, in a playoff, and played a scoreless tie with St. Ignatius to become co-champion of the league, is making its second appearance in the game. In 1936, the Friars played a 19 to 19 tie with Austin.

In recent years Tilden has been an almost permanent fixture in the prep final, today marking the fourth time in five years that the Blue Devils have represented the City league. Tilden also played in an interleague game in 1928 and, counting the victory registered then, has split even with its parochial school rivals. In 1941, Leo walloped Tilden, 46 to 13, and repeated the achievement in 1942, 27 to 14.

Five Teams Interested

The public schools have the lead in victories in the series, winning six as against three defeats and two ties, altho all Catholic league triumphs have come in the last five seasons.

Fenwick and Tilden always are good gate attractions in any title game, but the attendance should spurt today because three other schools have working interests in the outcome. Sharing the Fenwick bench will be the St. Ignatius team, Catholic league co-champion. A flip of a coin kept the Wolves from the big game, but St. Ignatius will share all glories the Friars collect from this contest.

Squad members from Schurz and Austin High schools, which combined with Tilden to make the City league title race a triple dead heat, will be assembled behind the Blue Devils. A triumph by the City league representative will create a three way split of the Chicago prep crown. A tie today, of course, would make it necessary to cut the city championship pie in five pieces.

Added Attractions

The designers of the lake front stadium omitted one item which might be used today, that being a marquee on which to bill four veteran backs who are pre-game choices to play leading rôles. These are Tilden's Bill Gay and Mike Swistowicz, and the Fenwick tandem of Roger [Moose] Brown and Dick Martin.

Publicitors have sent notice that the presentation actually will start at 1 o'clock, when bands from De La Salle band, with the remaining three minutes split thus: Veterans' program, presentation of trophies to Fenwick and St. Ignatius, and slight warmup by each eleven.

STARS ON FIELD—AND ON SIDELINES

Three Tilden players who'll be in there fighting in spirit only enjoy visit with two of more active buddies. Group includes (left to right) Ed Dembek, Emil Ciechanowicz, Tom Kernan, John Ruddy, and Chuck Feigl. Ed and Emil have broken legs while Tom is nursing broken collar bone. They had fanning bee yesterday in Emil's home, 5448 Eastview av., and the three casualties hope to be on Tilden bench this afternoon.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 30—Army and Navy, the nation's No. 1 and No. 2 football teams, respectively, were bedded down in moist and breezy Philadelphia tonight waiting for the 46th game of their ceremonious series at Municipal stadium tomorrow.

This first meeting of America's two service schools in the atomic age has a right to be exactly what it is—the biggest game of the year viewed by the largest crowd. There will be 102,000 banked around the gridiron, the only throng of the season which will exceed in numbers the 92,753 who saw the 12th annual All-Star contest at Chicago's Soldiers' field last August.

All the Trimmings

It will be, as always, a grand and stirring show. The gathering will include many of the top ranking figures of Uncle Sam's naval, military and governmental ranks. There will be the pre-game parade of the world's best trained men, the midshipmen of Annapolis and the cadets of West Point. It will be a sports battle of profound sincerity. It is unlikely, however, it will be an encounter between evenly matched teams.

Navy backers may talk as they wish about this being the kind of game in which you can throw out past performances and start from scratch. As a rule it is. But Army is expected to win this one in much the same fashion it has its last 17 games in 1944 and 1945, playing its own game and calling its shots.

As a rule, Army and Navy are a fairly even match, but barring an amazing reversal of form, these teams aren't. Your correspondent in midseason saw Notre Dame hold Navy to a 6 to 6 tie after pushing the Middies all over Cleveland stadium. A week later he saw the same Notre Dame team chased out of Yankee stadium by the Army in a 48 to 0 rout.

Here Are the Figures

A week before it met Notre Dame Navy squeezed out a one touchdown victory over Pennsylvania, 14 to 6. Army two weeks ago crushed Penn, 61 to 0. It takes a lot of talk about Navy spirit and Navy stars to offset those figures. In case you like arithmetic, here's a record of Army's 1945 accomplishments:

Army, 33; A. A. F. of Louisville, 0.
Army, 54; Wake Forest, 0.
Army, 38; Michigan, 7.
Army, 55; Melville F. T., 13.
Army, 48; Duke, 13.
Army, 54; Villanova, 0.
Army, 48; Notre Dame, 0.
Army, 61; Pennsylvania., 0.

Now let's have a look at Navy's 1945 season:

Navy, 49; Villanova, 0.
Navy, 21; Duke, 0.
Navy, 28; Penn State, 0.
Navy, 20; Georgia Tech., 6.
Navy, 14; Pennsylvania, 6.
Navy, 6, Notre Dame, 6.
Navy, 33; Michigan, 7.
Navy, 36; Wisconsin, 7.

Navy's head coach, Swede Hagberg, and Navy's perennial line coach, Rip Miller, talked to sports writers tonight with a studied optimism.

Whistling Up Their Courage?

But Navy's gridiron leaders aren't fooled, however earnestly they try to bolster their morale by stating that Clyde Scott, who ran back an intercepted pass against Notre Dame for a touchdown, is as fast as Army's Glenn Davis. They say that Tony Minisi will crowd West Point's Doc Blanchard out of the Sunday morning headlines. They predict Navy's line will be the toughest wall of flesh Army has encountered this fall. But their forecasts are delivered in a hushed tone, as in a cathedral or a funeral parlor.

The student bodies at the academies will not arrive until shortly before time for the pre-game ceremonies. Philadelphia's 36 hour rain ended this morning and the weather is cooling. The sky still was overcast.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 30—Maurice [Clipper] Smith, who for several years before he entered the marine corps was head football coach at near-by Villanova college, has a five year contract in his new position at the University of San Francisco. . . . Rival coaches in the Bay district will be Jimmy Phelan of St. Mary's, Marchie Schwartz of Stanford, and Larry Mullins of Santa Clara, all of whom, like Smith, are Notre Dame alumni. . . . "Can you imagine the competition when that gang of Irishmen get together?" Clipper muses. . . . Charley Jacobs of the nationally known brother firm of sports arena concessionaires, signed to take over the concessions at Comiskey park without ever having seen the park, agreeing to invest $100,000 in building new facilities at the Chicago plant. . . . When he first saw the premises on Nov. 18 he expressed himself so well pleased with the prospects that he authorized the expenditure of $147,000. . . . Lt. William Sullivan, public relations officer for the athletic department at the naval academy, will handle press box arrangements for the last time as a naval officer tomorrow at the Army game. . . . He expects to be in the employ of the Boston Braves baseball organization before another season rolls around. . . . Lester Patrick, president of the New York Rangers, who for many years has been one of the outstanding figures in the hockey world, speaks French as fluently as he does English, which is very fluently, altho he is not a French-Canadian.

When Elroy [Crazy Legs] Hirsch, former Wisconsin football star who now plays with the El Toro Marines, saw John L. Keeshin in Denver last Sunday at the marine's game with Fort Warren he greeted him with "Hello, Boss." . . . Whatever became of the fellows who said Keeshin was talking thru his hat when he announced he had signed the Badger ace to play for the Chicago team of the All-America conference? . . . Don Laser, Northwestern's star freshman quarter back, won the national junior ice skating championship in 1943. . . . In 1940, at the age of 12, he won the national A. A. U. midget skating championship. . . . The Chicago All-Star football profits, which will be divided equally between the Army Air Force Aid society and the Chicago service men's centers, will be a new high for the 12 year old series. . . . The exact figures will be announced in a few days. . . . General Manager Harry Thayer of the Philadelphia Eagles predicts that his team will represent the National Football league in the 1946 All-Star game. . . . All they have to do to attain the goal is outstrip the Washington Redskins in the eastern division race and then whip the Cleveland Rams for the title.

Old Faithful

How faithful you have been, my friend,
Thruout the recent years of war,
You took me where my heart desired
Each time I opened up your door.
It did not matter . . . not at all . . .
I could not give you very much,
With shortages of this and that
You still responded to my touch.
And every time that we went out
You made a good appearance, too,
Despite the fact thru endless months
You had so little that was new.
For service which you rendered me
Then you, indeed, deserve a star;
Who is this friend of whom I write?
The answer is . . . my CAR.

Football at the Great Lakes Naval Training center comes to an end this afternoon with the fifth game of the series with Notre Dame which covers two world wars. Twenty-three thousand sailors will see the final at the center where two years ago the Bluejackets blasted Notre Dame's perfect record with a last minute touchdown pass.

No rivalry has had a turnover in personnel comparable to the Notre Dame-Great Lakes series. Each fall for four years the Bluejackets have mustered a new squad. Notre Dame, with advantage of a V-12 program, retained some players each year, but inexperience has been a handicap, as at all universities.

Among the few veterans are four Notre Dame regulars who today are playing their last game. They are Elmer Angsman, right half; Pete Berezney, right tackle; Frank Ruggerio, who became the No. 1 Irish full back this fall, and Capt. Frank Dancewicz, stellar field general, defensive player, and forward passer.

Three members of Notre Dame's 1944 squad are listed in the enemy's camp today. They are Marty Wendell, who was slated for the Irish full back spot until transferred to Great Lakes; George Terlep, monogram winner at half back last season, and Bill O'Connor, who played end at Notre Dame as a freshman.

Great Lakes scarcely figures to upset Notre Dame unless the Irish become too complacent, but the Bluejackets, after a slow start, now have won five consecutive games. Previously their best showing was a scoreless tie with Wisconsin in the second game of the season.

Ralph Foster to Lead Cards Against Bears

BY EDWARD PRELL

Ralph Foster, the Cardinals' rookie tackle from Oklahoma A. & M. yesterday was named captain for tomorrow's game with the Bears in Comiskey park, which will wind up Chicago's 1945 professional football season.

This signal honor was conferred on the 232 pound Sooner as a reward for his stellar play in a Cardinal season which has had few bright spots. The selection was made by Coach Phil Handler.

In honoring Foster, the Cardinal coach also lauded the play of Bob Zimny, a Chicagoan, who starred at Indiana university. Zimny also is playing his first year in the National Football league, and like Foster, is a tackle. Both will start in tomorrow's game.

Figures Chances at Least Even

"Foster is fast, aggressive, a fine blocker, and is excellent in rushing the passer," was Handler's tribute. "He is a fine all-around tackle. As for Zimny, I believe he is the lightest tackle in the league at 205 pounds. Like Foster, he has speed, aggressiveness, and is a terrific blocker."

Thus launched on a talking spree, the Cardinal coach observed that he believed his team has at least a 50-50 chance against the resurgent Bears.

"Our offense will go against the Bears, I am sure," Phil declared. "The odds were against us last October when we whipped them, 16 to 7, and we have the ability to do it again."

May Spring Surprises

Handler said the Cards will spring some new formations on the Bears, but did not go into detail. Against the Rams two weeks ago the southsiders used both T formation and double wing with equally good results. Phil believes his two star pass catchers, Eddie Rucinski and Billy Dewell, can match any two of the Bears' receivers.

The Bears yesterday breathed more fresh air on the lake front near Lawrence av., in their final long workout of the season. For the first time since he returned to civilian life, Owner-Coach George Halas showed more than spectator interest in his players.

COLLEGE STARS LOSE, 63 TO 55

The Fort Wayne, Ind., Zollners, professional champions, whipped the College All-Stars, 63 to 55, in the annual All-Star basketball game before 20,000 in Chicago Stadium last night.

With John Pelkington, Fort Wayne center, outplaying Bob Kurland, the professionals took an 18 to 11 lead at the end of the first period. The All-Stars, however, rallied in the second quarter to tie the score, 24 to 24, and again at 31 points, but Pelkington and Bud Jeanette moved Fort Wayne ahead, 41 to 33, at half time.

The All-Stars pulled within four points in the third period, but again Fort Wayne asserted its superiority by taking a 54 to 42 advantage at the conclusion of the third quarter.

In a preliminary game Wright Field defeated the Great Lakes Bluejackets, 64 to 51. Lineups:

INVENT BOWLING GADGET MAKING PIN BOYS PASSE

Groton, Conn., Nov. 30 (AP)—The Electric Boat company, a submarine building firm, announced today that one of its employes had invented a machine to eliminate the need for bowling pin boys.

The gadget, a complicated, electrically operated device created by Kenneth C. Sherman of New London, has reached the final test stage, said the company.

The bowler himself operates it with two push buttons, one of which lowers a table with a rack of 10 pins which it sets in place.

If the bowler's first ball leaves one or more pins lying on the alley he pushes button No. 2, which lowers the table to pick up the pins still standing upright. Then another piece of apparatus, which can reach as far as 15 feet up the alley, whisks the dead wood into the backpit, and the table replaces the pins not hit by the first ball.

THIS IS IT!

Today's the day the world series of bowling opens in the Auditorium Service Men's Center. It's the fifth annual All-Star National individual match game championship event, assembling the 144 top flight bowlers of the ctunry. Tickets are on sale daily starting at 9 a. m. in the Service Men's Center, Congress st. and Wabash av.

Prices:

College basketball swings into the sports spotlight today with seven Western conference quintets—Illinois, Indiana, Purdue, Chicago, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota — and Michigan State opening the 1945-'46 season. Michigan, Marquette, and De Paul already have been in action.

Illinois will play this afternoon against Wright Air field. The Illini five will be composed of one sophomore veteran, Guard Jack Burmaster of Elgin, and four freshmen — George Leedy, guard from Chicago's Kelvyn High school; Hall Craig and Bob Doster, forwards from Decatur, and Bob Menke of Elgin, center.

The Wright team is studded with stars. Bruce Hale of Santa Clara, who established a new scoring record in a professional tournament last season, teams at forward with Dyke Eddleman, Illinois freshman of 1943. Center is John Mahnken, a standout while at Georgetown, and the guards are Al Negratti of Seaton Hall and Chris Hansen, a star at Bradley college, Peoria.

Iowa Stars Ailing

Sickness and injury will prevent Coach Pops Harrison from starting his best five when Iowa engages Augustana tonight. Herb Wilkinson, star guard on last year's Big Nine championship team, and Dave Danner, high scoring veteran forward, both have been sidelined by influenza and will see only brief action. Ned Postels, regular guard last season, will miss the game because of a sprained ankle.

Veterans Dick Ives and Murray Weir, both forwards last year, will carry most of the burden for Iowa tonight.

Wisconsin Tests New Team

Wisconsin, without a single regular from last year, will meet Carroll college in Madison tonight. Coach Harold E. (Bud) Foster, however, has three veterans on the starting five. Bob Cook, a 1943 reserve recently discharged from service, and Gene Mathews at forward, and Guard Kurt Grimm, the latter two reserves last season, will team up with Center Wally Niemuth and Guard Bob Smith for the Badgers.

Hopes for athletic success at Chicago are promising this season despite the fact the Maroons, returning to Big Ten competition, have not had a winning year since 1930. The Maroons open tonight against Illinois Tech in the U. of C. fieldhouse. Four former letter winners are in the group of seven around whom Nels Norgren has built the team.

Most promising among the ex-service men are Armond Lillian, 1942 letterman, and Johnny Sharp, who won his C last year. Other lettermen are Dred DeGraw, leading 1945 scorer, and Center George Rabey.

Spartans Meet Wolverines

Michigan States opens its 45th basketball season tonight at Michigan. Spartan Coach Ben Van Alstyne has 10 lettermen from which to pick a starting combination. Among the 10 are Dudley Jones war veteran who scored 25 points as State whipped Michigan, 57 to 34, in the two schools' last basketball meeting Feb. 11, 1942. Other State veterans are Sam Fortino, Robin Roberts, 6 foot 7 inch Bill Krall, John Cawood, Ollie White, Pat Pettler, Dan Pjesky, Joe Beyer, and Joe Krakora.

The Wolverines, who defeated Central Michigan college, 68 to 45, in the season opener two weeks ago, won't boast as many lettermen but should be able to put up an interesting fight.

Purdue Has Many Veterans

Ward Lambert, in his 29th season as Purdue coach, will send the Boilermakers into action at Lafayette tonight against an Indiana State quintet that averaged 55.7 points a game last year.

Purdue has a combination of mature experience and youthful enthusiasm. Six major lettermen, five holdovers from last year's fourth place Big Ten combination plus Floyd (Rudy) Lawson, 1942 guard recently discharged from the army air forces, will provide the steadying influence. Holdover major lettermen include Capt. Myrwin (Red) Anderson, forward who led the Boilermakers in conference scoring; Paul Hoffman, forward and center; Dean Trump, center; Charles Haag, veteran guard, and John Hinga, guard.

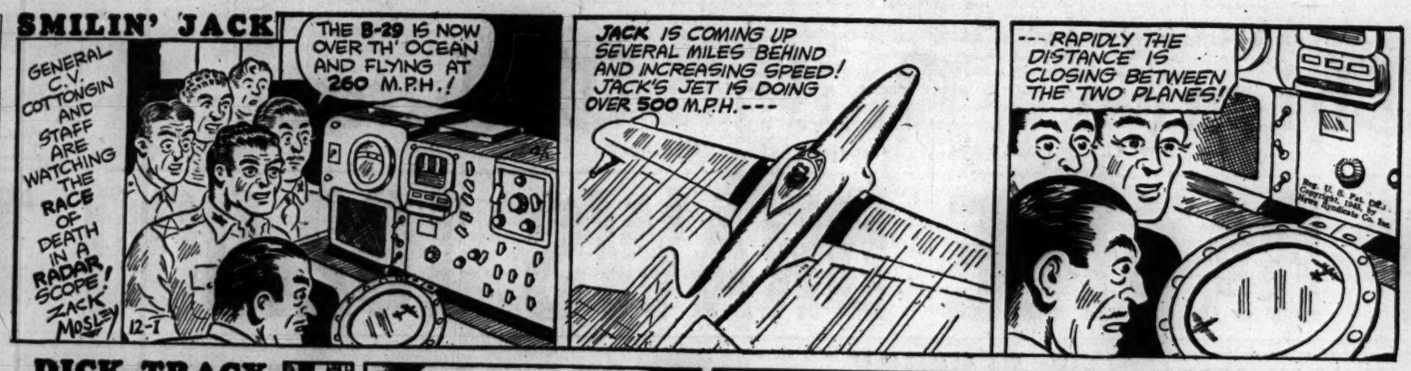
SEEKS 2 ARMY STARS FOR EAST, WEST CONTEST

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—William M. Coffman, managing director of the Shrine's East-West football game in San Francisco, said today he would meet with Col. Biff Jones of the United States Military academy in Philadelphia Sunday to discuss the possibilities of having Glenn Davis and Felix Blanchard play with the East team Jan. 1.

Notre Dame's Frank Dancewicz and Elmer Angsman, both backs; Penn Tackle George Savitsky, and Nick Sacrinty, Wake Forest half back, today accepted invitations to play on the East squad.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Tony Pellone beat Patsy Giovanelli [10].
At New Orleans, La. — Freddie Dawson beat Eddie Hudson.



Hawks Start Series Tonight with Toronto

The Chicago Blackhawks yesterday departed for Toronto where they will meet the Maple Leafs tonight in the first of two games. The second contest will be played in Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Frank McCool, star goalie of the Leafs last season, has rejoined the squad and his addition may give Toronto a defensive edge in the two game series. The Leafs have suffered in this department, 51 goals being made against the team in 13 games.

Manager Johnny Gottselig of the Hawks announced after yesterday's workout in the Chicago Arena that Joe Cooper would be paired at defense with John Mariucci and will open against the Leafs.

BIG SIX APPROVES MISSOURI GAME IN COTTON BOWL

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 30 (AP)—The Big Six conference faculty representatives have approved the University of Missouri's acceptance of an invitation to play the University of Texas in the Cotton bowl at Dallas, Tex., on New Year's day, Prof. Sam B. Shirky, chairman of Missouri's committee on intercollegiate athletics, announced today.

The Cotton bowl will be Missouri's third post-season game. The Tigers lost to Georgia Tech, 21 to 7, in the 1940 Orange bowl, and were nosed out by Fordham, 2 to 0, in the 1942 Sugar bowl.

Don Faurot, who came back to the university as director of athletics two weeks ago and who will resume head coaching duties next spring, said Chauncey Simpson would have complete charge of the Tigers in the Cotton bowl.

ILLINOIS GETS $4,339,820 FROM 6 RACING TRACKS

The state of Illinois received $4,339,820 as its share of mutuel proceeds from six horse racing tracks in Illinois during the 1945 season, the Illinois Racing commission announced yesterday.

Maj. Ednyfed H. Williams, chairman of the commission, reported a record mutuel handle and an increase ir attendance. The 1945 handle was reported at $168,060,010 and the attendance was 2,456,926.

Charity and war relief agencies netted $1,072,976 as their share of the 1945 program. The six meetings were sponsored by Washington Park, Arlington Park, Hawthorne, Sportsmans' Park, Lincoln Fields, and Fairmount. All except Fairmount are in the Chicago area.

Horse Racing Starts Today in Florida

Miami, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP)—Twice blacked out by the war, Florida's 120 day winter racing season will get under way tomorrow with some of the nation's top thoroughbreds featuring a nine race program at Gulfstream Park, 14 miles north of Miami. More than 2,400 horses and 86 jockeys are on hand for the winter's sport.

Hialeah to Follow

After Gulfstream's 40 day meeting, ending Jan. 16, Hialeah Park will run thru March 4, followed by Tropical Park thru April 16.

With the 1945-'46 tourist season already booming, turf experts predicted the biggest rush to Gulfstream's turnstiles and pari-mutuel windows since an inaugural crowd broke down the fences and surged over the infield in 1938.

In a pinch, the track will accommodate 25,000, and for the first time the management has glowing hopes of coming out in the black.

Hard hit by the war, with its travel bans and restrictions on pleasure driving, Gulfstream has had only 23 days of racing since it was founded—three days in 1938 before it went into bankruptcy and 20 days last year before the war barriers went down again.

Leading Jockeys Compete

For tomorrow's opening, the track will have one train, three bus lines, and wide open highways.

Among the top jockeys will be Ted Atkinson, the 1944 national champion; Billy Nichols, the leading apprentice in Chicago; Bobby Martin, leader at Pimlico; M. A. Buxton, leader at Garden State Park; the veteran Jimmy Stout, Ira Hanford, and 51 year old Earl Pool, who is making a belated comeback.

PICK LT. EWBANK AS BASKET COACH AT GREAT LAKES

Lt. Wilbur C. Ewbank, former basketball coach at Miami university, Oxford, O., yesterday was named basketball coach at Great Lakes. Lt. Ewbank took charge of the sailors when they opened their season against Wright field in the Stadium last night. Seaman Mel Riebe, former Cleveland pro star who's been handling the team, will remain as Lt. Ewbank's assistant.

Lt. Ewbank played on the Miami basketball, football, and baseball teams from 1925 thru 1928. He was on the coaching staff at Miami for 13 years before entering the navy three years ago. His home is in Richmond, Ind.

1,000 BOYS, GIRLS HERE TO PARADE PRIZED STOCK

Champs Will Seek More Awards at Show

BY BEN MARKLAND

More than 1,000 American farm youths, ranging from 10 year old boys and girls to college students, are in Chicago today to exhibit their prize live stock in the fourth annual Chicago Market Fat Stock show, which opens in the stock yards this morning and closes Thursday afternoon.

All day yesterday and thru the night, trucks rolled into the yards with cattle, sheep, and swine that the farm youngsters have fed, bedded, and groomed for months in preparation for the show. Many of the young owners rode with their Herefords, Berkshires, and Southdowns in trucks and box cars that arrived from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, as well as eight other states and Canada.

1,451 Enter 5,488 Animals

The interest of farm youths in stock competition is evidenced by the entry list. A total of 1,451 entrants have listed 5,488 animals for competition, and 983 of the exhibitors are in the junior classification, for persons under 21.

In addition, six midwest colleges have entered cattle, sheep, and swine in the open competition, and most of the exhibitors of this stock are below voting age. Four hundred and two farmers will exhibit stock in open competition, and 66 men are sending car lots for group competition.

Steer Championship Top Honor

Last year it was Ben Greve, 18, Bryant, Ia., who showed a Hereford to the grand championship and then auctioned the steer for $5.655. In 1942 and 1943 the winning exhibitor was T. Richard Lacy Jr., 19, of Kansas, Edgar county, also showing Herefords. He won both the junior and grand championship.

Greve and Lacy arrived with new Herefords for the show.

Five Exhibitors 10 Years Old

Agricultural colleges in competition include the University of Illinois, Iowa State, Oklahoma A. and M., the University of Wisconsin, University of Kentucky, and Purdue university.

The youngest exhibitors will be four 10 year old boys and a girl of the same age. Four are Illinoisans: Beverly Harms, Watseka; Carlyle Greathouse, Hindsboro; James Hart, Lee, and Allen Ziller, Elwood. From Pandora, O., comes Byron Dean Steiner.

Judge Disqualifies Self in F. McCormick Case

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 30 (AP)—Judge Leonard O. Ryan has disqualified himself to hear the latest Probate court petitions of Fowler McCormick, Chicago industrialist, in the legal fight over the guardianship of two children adopted in 1939 by McCormick's sister, Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard of Middletown, Conn. Ryan designated Judge William F. Mangan of the New Britain-Berlin Probate court district to hear the petitions here on January 7. McCormick asks that he or "some other suitable person" be named guardian of the children, Edith Rockefeller Hubbard, 12, and Elisha Dyer Hubbard, 8.

CHURCH TO SEEK AID FOR EUROPE IN MASS APPEAL

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Appeals for participation by Chicago's million Roman Catholics in "Food for the War-Stricken," campaign will be made by pastors at all masses tomorrow morning. The national campaign, set up by the hierarchy of the United States under auspices of the war relief service of the National Catholic Welfare conference, will come to a climax Sunday, Dec. 9, and the week following, when the canned goods gifts will be brought to the country's 14,500 churches.

Archbishop Stritch named the Rev. William A. O'Connor as chairman of the Chicago campaign, with headquarters at the Catholic charities, 126 N. Des Plaines st. It was announced by the New World, official archdiocesan journal, that the campaign will be "the most ambitious one-week drive ever undertaken under private auspices in this country."

Drive Is Exclusively Catholic

Father O'Connor explained that the present campaign differs from the previous ones for clothing and food conducted by the war relief services of the welfare conference since it will be totally and exclusively the work of the Catholic church, and that distribution abroad will be thru the church's own channels.

"This does not mean that distribution of food will be limited to Catholics," Father O'Connor explained. "It will be given to suffering war victims without regard to nationality, color, creed, or political belief. The campaign is a manifestation of practical Christianity."

Father O'Connor explained that the campaign is not for cash with which to purchase food, but for personal donations—gifts which fall within the Christmas season of giving, tho any parish society may give cash to the pastor who may purchase the canned goods.

Needs Are Listed

With death rates of children in some European countries risen to 400 per cent of pre-war levels, there is need for evaporated, condensed, and powered milk, milk formula for infants, chocolate milk powder, and chopped fruits or vegetables, Father O'Connor said. For adults, all types of canned foods are needed.

The Catholic Salvage bureau will pick up, label, and package for shipment donations received in the archdiocese.

LAKE COUNTY'S OLDEST WOMAN IS 103 TODAY

Mrs. Julia Chase of Zion, Lake county's oldest woman, will be 103 today. She'll spend the anniversary in bed—she was injured in a fall on Nov. 18, 1944—but will have a party just the same. A cake arrived yesterday from a granddaughter, Mrs. Frank Williams of Hancock, Mich.

Three daughters will be present: Mrs. Samuel Williams, 70, of 2900 Eschol av., Zion, with whom Mrs. Chase lives; Mrs. Mabel Walker, 66, who also lives there, and Mrs. George Zeller, 60, of West Concord, Minn., who is visiting her. Mrs. Chase also is looking forward to a call from Michael L. Minter, general overseer of the Christian Catholic church of Zion.

Mrs. Chase has 100 living descendants: Six children, 28 grandchildren, 65 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

HENRY B. WARD, RETIRED U. OF I. ZOOLOGIST, DIES

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 30 (Special).—Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward, 80, professor of zoology emeritus at the University of Illinois, died today. He became a member of the University of Illinois faculty in 1909 and served as head of the zoology department from 1909 until his retirement in 1933.

He was credited with being the founder of the science of parasitology, and was an authority on salmon and the conservation of natural resources. He was a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. From 1928-'30 he was president of the Izaak Walton League of America.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Glenwood C. Tanton, Cazenovia, Ill., and Miss Charlotte B. Ward, Nashville, Tenn.

PSYCHIC PHENOMENA
By William Norris, F. R. C.

Is there a faculty within us other than the five senses through which we can receive knowledge?
Is there a method by which this faculty can be awakened?
Will the awakening of this faculty result in a more happy and abundant life?
Come and hear the answer to these questions. Bring a friend.

BAPTISTS SET TO OPEN DRIVE FOR 14 MILLIONS

Tomorrow will be the "Sunday of Sacrifice" for the 7,000 congregations of the Northern Baptist convention. It will mark the opening of the World Mission crusade to raise 14 million dollars for post-war reconstruction and rehabilitation, according to James L. Kraft of Chicago, one of the eight national co-chairmen.

Ten million dollars will be for capital investments in new mission buildings and equipment needed for missionary and educational progress, both domestic and foreign, Kraft said. Four million dollars will be for emergency needs over a two year period, he added.

Heading the campaign are the Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, St. Louis, Mo., and the Rev. Dr. Luther Wesley Smith, New York City.

NOVAK—Jack Novak Jr., Dec. 1, 1944.
Time speeds on, one year has passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow, cast
Within our home, all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place no one can fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in heaven we'll meet again.
LOVING WIFE, CHILDREN, MOTHER, DAD, AND SISTERS.

REH—Gustave H. Reh. In loving memory of our dear husband and dad, who passed away Dec. 1, 1943.

PEAK DEMAND PREDICTED FOR TRAVEL BY RAIL

Pelley Tells Factors in December Load

December travel demands will be the largest in railroad history and many civilians may be left behind on station platforms, J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said yesterday.

In December, a peak month even in normal times, the railroads face the job of transporting home more than 1 million veterans and providing facilities for customary holiday travelers and homeward bound college students, Pelley said.

He made his prediction at a press conference after the association's annual meeting in the Blackstone hotel. The association reelected all its officers and elected as a new director Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad. He succeeds C. E. Denney, president of the Northern Pacific.

Long Journeys Required

"During December 530,000 veterans are expected to arrive on the Pacific coast and 490,000 on the Atlantic," said Pelley. "Nearly nine-tenths of the men arriving on the Pacific coast require long journeys to reach their homes. As far as possible sleeping cars are provided for these long journeys, but it is not always possible even with nearly three-fourths of all the sleeping car space in the country assigned to this service.

"In addition to sleeping cars, more and more coaches are being withdrawn from regular train service for troop movements. Just today the western railroads alone took steps to withdraw another 368 coaches for that purpose. Equipment from all over the United States is sent west empty to expedite the troop service, but despite all efforts there are now 40,000 men on the Pacific coast awaiting transportation east."

Car Lack Slows Movement

Pelley said movements from Los Angeles are practically on schedule, but those from Seattle are two days behind and are three or four days behind in San Francisco. This barrier probably will be "broken in the next 10 days," he said.

Troop movements by rail have been retarded by the delay in the delivery of 1,200 special troop sleepers ordered last spring. These cars are being manufactured by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, but are not going into service for lack of bedding equipment on order from Simmons company, Kenosha, Wis.

Beginning Monday about 15 cars containing cots will be released daily. More than 350 are complete except for bedding equipment.

Altho travel conditions are unlikely to improve until February or March the railroads are not contemplating invoking passenger travel priorities or seeking to change the 450 mile minimum for civilian sleeper trips, Pelley said.

Prices of Hogs Slump; Output of Pork Rises

A strike vote by workers in the stock yards, coupled with another heavy run of hogs, yesterday sent prices down mostly 15 to 25 cents a hundred pounds to the lowest level since the middle of last December. The break in the last three days has been the biggest since late October, 1944. Some of the heaviest butcher kinds, 350 to 500 pounds, closed only 50 to 75 cents above the $13 government support price.

The early $14.25 top was paid sparingly for selected 190 to 210 pound spring pigs, but generally prices were $14.15 or below, and some of the 200 to 250 pounders were offered at $14 on final rounds. The average price dipped 20 cents to $14.05, lowest since last Dec. 16.

Many Stay Off Job

Altho the yards the first five days of this week received 151,200 head, the largest number of hogs since February, 1944, butchers and cutters in many packing plants left easily to cast their strike vote. They did not return to work, which caused buyers to reduce their buying drastically. Officials estimated 9,000 hogs were unsold at the close. In addition, packers had 30,000 to 40,000 live hogs when workers left their jobs to go to the polls. All packers plan to slaughter hogs today, and some hope to operate their killing floors a full day Sunday.

[The American Meat institute yesterday said that pork production in November increased 85 per cent from the October volume. Lard output rose 81 per cent.]

Cattle Trade Affected

Markets for other meat animals also were affected by the semi-holiday declared by workers. Producers took cuts of 25 cents or more in many classes of cattle. Only prime steers held steady at the $18 ceiling. Unevenly lower prices prevailed for most heifers, beef cows, canners, and cutters.

All classes of sheep and lambs sold fully 25 cents lower, with some sales off 50 to 60 cents. The $15 top, down 25 cents from Thursday, showed 50 cents loss in two days.

RECORD COFFEE CONSUMPTION IN 1946 PREDICTED

Coffee consumption in the United States will reach the highest level in history in 1946, authorities predicted yesterday at the National Coffee association convention in the Edgewater Beach hotel. The upward trend in the last five years promises to continue as a result of new coffee markets opened in the war.

George Gordon Paton, commodity research authority, told delegates that civilian consumption in this country next year will total 22 million bags, 4½ million above present levels. Lt. Col. A. T. McGuckian of the subsistence division of the office of the quartermaster general, supported this prediction. He said that thru training programs in the care and preparation of coffee, instituted by the army and aided by the cooperation of the coffee industries of the Americas, 10 million veterans of World War II. are returning to their homes with an appreciation for coffee and the wish to drink it.

VOTE AUTHORITY FOR STRIKES IN PACKING PLANTS

Members of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers of America in the Chicago area yesterday voted, 17,938 to 889, to authorize a strike to enforce their demand of a 25 cent increase in hourly wages from the four largest packing companies. About 75,000 other packers' employes voted thruout the nation.

Robert R. Rissman, chief field examiner of the national labor relations board in Chicago, said 19,053 of 22,637 eligible voters cast ballots in the Chicago area. Employes of 19 Chicago plants, three in Milwaukee, Wis., and one each in Elkhart, Gary, and East Chicago, Ind., voted.

Union officials said that an affirmative vote would not mean an immediate strike, because negotiations still were in progress with Armour & Co., Cudahy Packing company, Wilson & Co., and Swift & Co.

CONGRESS VOTES REPEAL OF RAIL RATE DISCOUNT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The house passed and sent to the White House today a bill to repeal the 50 per cent discount in railroad rates the government receives on the movement of goods and troops.

Several western railroads granted the 50 per cent rate reduction to the government about 50 years ago in exchange for grants of federal lands. The practice was subsequently made uniform thru the country.

Under the measure a return to full rates would not be mandatory. New rates would be set by the interstate commerce commission after discussions between the carriers and the government.

BANK LOAN FOR PLANT

I understand that Micromatic Hone corporation obtained a million dollar bank loan to pay for fixed assets. Is such use of bank credit customary?—K. N.

With the increasing number of "term loans" maturing serially up to 10 years or so, bank credit in the last decade has been made available for semi-permanent uses. Formerly, there were few exceptions to the rule that in theory at least commercial bank credit was intended to provide mainly for temporary working capital needs, often of a seasonal character.

Now corporations frequently borrow from banks for the purpose of retiring funded debt or even preferred stock, with maturities scheduled over a period of years. The direct use of bank credit to pay for permanent physical facilities is merely an extension of this method of financing.

Micromatic Hone said the loan was obtained to finance the purchase of a Defense Plant corporation factory last September and other facilities. The loan, secured by a mortgage, matures quarterly during eight years. The company's net income in each of the last three fiscal years ended July 31, has exceeded $300,000, and in 1945 was $1.56 a common share, subject to renegotiation. Earlier the profit had ranged from $3,002 in 1938 to $258,099 in 1941. The company's honing equipment is used by metal working industries. Outstanding are 189,846 common shares and 16,099 50 cent cumulative convertible preferred shares.

FARM INCOME CREATES VAST BUYING POWER

Big Demands Piled Up in War

Prices Move Higher

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP)—The department of agriculture said today the general level of farm product prices advanced between mid-October and mid-November from 199 to 205 per cent of the 1909-'14 average. This was 1 per cent below the war time peak reached last June and July. All groups of products advanced except fruit.

The farmer has more money than ever before and farm buying power "will absorb everything that can be made available for an indefinite period," the Corn Belt Farm Dailies said yesterday.

The government has estimated 1945 farm income at 25 billion 200 million dollars. This includes nonfarm cash income. The 1946 total was predicted at 22 billion 400 millions, with government payments reduced 100 million to a 600 million level. Income from products next year is expected to include 7 billion 800 million from crops sold and 10 billion 300 million from live stock and live stock products.

[A 1946 farm program providing for near war time levels of food and farm commodity production to meet an "almost unlimited need" was recommended to farmers yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. He suggested an over-all crop goal of 356,244,000 acres compared with this year's indicated planting of 350,588,000.]

Requirements Are Broad

"There is not a farm that does not need something that has been unavailable during the last few years," the Farm Dailies said.

"Farms need new buildings and repairs to old, new equipment, farm machinery of all kinds, radios, refrigerators, deep freeze units, washing machines, fencing, automobiles by the tens of thousands, and last but not least, restoration of soil fertility sold off in big crops."

Farm prosperity must be maintained by legal guarantee thru 1948, the review said. The government's agreement to maintain prices at no lower than 90 per cent of parity on all commodities for which it asked increased production in the war will not expire for two years after the January following the formal declaration of the war's end.

Committed to Price Support

"The meaning of this guarantee is that the United States is committed to keeping farm prices above minimum levels," it said.

"The guarantee probably will be made good, in a broad sense, provided there is not a general price depression in the period designated. But it is guessed that the cost may run to 2 billion dollars a year and that is an item that will not pass unnoticed. Production of foods has expanded and unless consumption keeps pace, including some presumed export movement on one basis or another, it is not going to be too easy to keep this contract that the government has made with the farmers of this country."

People and Events

James S. Perkins, chief of the personnel development section at Western Electric company's Hawthorne works in Chicago, last night received the Gilbreth medal for "noteworthy contribution in the field of motion, skill, and fatigue studies" at the annual dinner of the Society for the Advancement of Management in New York City. Perkins reviewed, evaluated and edited 250,000 feet of motion picture films taken by Dr. Frank Gilbreth, a pioneer in the work, between 1905 and 1924 to record many of his experiments. The Taylor key award for "exceptional aid in furthering the science of management during 1945" was presented to Henry P. Dutton, dean of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

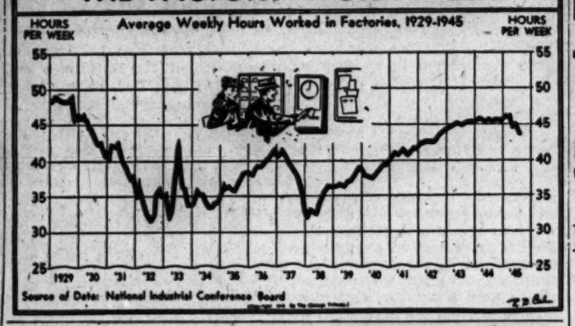
THE FACTORY WORK WEEK



Labor Parley Ends; Nothing Accomplished

ber, had refused to serve on the wage committee.

"He [Murray] was on strike and maintained his strike thruout the conference," Green said. He added the CIO chief had earlier told the executive committee that he had no desire to inject the wage issue into the conference.

For management, Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, immediately offered another wage resolution which recommended that the conference "not consider national wage policy or inject the question of prices."

Mosher declared that labor had gotten the "cart before the horse" and must "get production first, not an inflated national income by the marking up of prices."

"Go and Get It"

"If you want collective bargaining," he asserted, speaking directly to the labor delegates at the table, "go and get it. You won't get anything by collective demands."

All three of the wage proposals were defeated by voice vote.

In his remarks, Murray angrily declared that it could not be said that "Mr. Murray is attempting to pull his chestnuts out of the fire for the United Automobile Workers," referring to the General Motors strike.

"This would be a wholly incorrect and reprehensible point of view," he declared, in view of the fact his proposal for higher wages was introduced on Nov. 7, two days after the conference began.

Green declared that, since the wage issue had been injected, there was "more than one champion of high wages in America."

A "Naive" Assumption

"The organizations for which I am speaking now will carry on an unrelenting fight for higher wages," he added.

Mosher told the labor delegates that it was "naive to assume that industry can assume increases in cost on top of the enormous increase already assumed, without prices going up."

"How can I collectively bargain for my company when I can't get an increase in prices?" he demanded.

The three subcommittees unable to agree on resolutions, and which submitted split recommendations to the general sessions, were those on collective bargaining, management's right to manage, and jurisdictional disputes.

The Principal "Accomplishments"

Principal accomplishments of the 25 day meeting, as assessed by officials and delegates, were these:

1. Labor and management met, on a national basis, around the same conference table. Both agreed that:

2. A continuation of joint meetings might eventually establish closer understanding and expedite settlement of industrial disputes.

3. During initial bargaining for contracts labor and management should avoid strikes or lockouts, "until all other peaceful procedures," including voluntary arbitration, have been exhausted.

4. In grievances which arise under existing contracts, effective grievance procedure, including final and binding arbitration, should be substituted for strikes or lockouts.

5. The federal conciliation service should be strengthened and expanded.

6. There should be no discrimination because of race, color, creed, or sex in dealings between company and union.

Where They Disagreed

The principal points of disagreement were these:

1. Wages.

2. Fact-finding or other important new machinery for settling or preventing industrial disputes.

3. Equal responsibility under law for labor and management.

4. Specification and classification of functions and responsibilities of management.

5. Unionization of foremen.

6. Deferment of right to strike pending exhaustion of orderly procedures.

AUTOMATIC WARNING LIGHTS DEVELOPED TO INCREASE RAIL SAFETY

Improved red warning lights turned on automatically at both ends of a train in an emergency were demonstrated yesterday before Chicago railroad executives by L. L. White, operating vice president of the North Western railway. The road has just installed a set of the lights on its Twin Cities "400" and will so equip all its mainline passenger and frate locomotives, replacing similar lights oscillating in a figure 8, but turned on by hand.

The purpose of the lights is to protect trains making emergency stops from rear-end collisions or, in the event of a derailment, from being side-swiped by trains on the other track. In the automatic operation the lights switch on when the braking system air pressure falls sharply, as in emergency. application of the brakes or a break in an air hose connection.

The new lights are the fourth warning signals of this type. In 1936 the North Western installed an oscillating white light on the locomotive. In July, 1944, the red light was adopted. The third development was the hand operated red light for the rear of a train. The new lights were developed by the Mars Signal Light company, Chicago, in cooperation with the North Western. Executives of other roads who watched the demonstration indicated they planned similar installations.

CHICAGO GETS 64 CONVENTIONS FOR DECEMBER

Chicago will entertain 64 conventions during December, Dell Rhea, executive vice president of the Chicago convention bureau, said yesterday. Nearly all the larger groups are scheduled for the three weeks before Christmas.

Meetings include the country's county agricultural agents, the American Farm Bureau federation, and several live stock and allied groups that before the war coördinated their gatherings with the annual International Live Stock show. The Republican national committee will meet in the Stevens hotel Dec. 7 and 8.

BIG SYNTHETIC RUBBER PLANT ORDERED SHUT

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 30 (AP)—The Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation announced it had been instructed by the Reconstruction Finance corporation office of rubber reserve to suspend operations at its Institute, W. Va., butadiene and styrene plant. The company said it will be closed "as soon as is consistent with an orderly plant shutdown."

The unit, the largest in the world, was put in operation in January, 1942, the first plant opened in the synthetic rubber program.

KELLOGG PAYS $250 MONTH FOR EMPLOYE IDEAS

Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company employes' ideas for improving and increasing production are rewarded with prizes totaling $250 a month, J. G. Kellogg, president, said yesterday. A top prize of $150 out of the first monthly total went to Frank Serro, 47, 1911 W. 23d st., assistant foreman in the apparatus assembly division. Serro developed an improved method for removing burrs from switchboard parts, doubling production.

Profit of Nash Falls ½ Million in Fiscal Year

Nash-Kelvinator corporation net earnings fell more than ½ million dollars in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, a preliminary report by the automobile and refrigerator manufacturer showed yesterday. George W. Mason, president, attributed the decrease to war contract cutbacks and cancellations and the costs of initial reconversion.

Net income was placed at $2,492,639, or 58 cents a share, compared with $3,065,290, or 71 cents a share, in the preceding fiscal year. Sales decreased to $183,050,533 from $274,436,333.

Plans to Spend 10 Million

Mason said the reconversion and expansion program calls for expenditures of more than 10 million dollars for machinery, equipment, and new facilities.

"During the early days of the current fiscal year much was accomplished in preparation for resumption of peace time manufacturing," he said, "but production has been seriously affected by parts and materials shortages resulting largely from labor difficulties in supplier plants."

Gypsum, Air Line Profits Up

United States Gypsum company reported net income in the third quarter of 1945 was $1,193,199, or 88 cents a share, against $1,023,408, or 74 cents a share, a year earlier. Profit in the first nine months was $3,549,416, or $2.62 a share, compared with $3,193,674, or $2.32 a share.

American Airlines earnings in the first three quarters totaled $4,059,843, or $3.15 a share, compared with $3,991,688, or $3.09 a share, a year earlier.

REPORT BRITISH, U. S. AGREED ON FINANCIAL PACT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 [Special]—Anglo-American negotiators tonight were reported in tentative agreement on nearly all major aspects of a financial and commercial agreement with a final decision expected in a few days after the expected arrival tomorrow of Edward Bridges, permanent secretary of the treasury and ranking British civil servant.

Bridges was believed to have been summoned after a conference late yesterday between British Ambassador Halifax and Secretary of State Byrnes, who had held a decisive White House conference with President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury Vinson. Both sides said only a few details appeared in dispute.

The British negotiators were said to have become virtually incommunicado, and Bridges was believed prepared to supervise drafting a final agreement on signing in behalf of the British cabinet, to which he is secretary.

KAISER REPAYS RFC; PRIVATE LOANS HINTED

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 30 (AP)—Henry Kaiser today announced payment of the 28 million dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation loan on his Permanente, Cal., magnesium plant and three allied chemical and silicon plants. He indicated this was accomplished thru a private loan.

The war time ship builder said the plants already were producing some 25 industrial items, many for the building industry, and were ready to expand peace time operations. Kaiser said the magnesium plant would resume production "as soon as pending processes could be perfected, and contemplated arrangements made for manufacture of end products." He said these may be buses, trucks, and trailers.

GRAINS UNEVEN; RYE RALLIES ON SHORT COVERING

Rye futures closed mixed, oats firm, and wheat weak yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Rye prices broke 2⅝ to 2¾ cents a bushel in the early trading on selling attributed to uncertainty over the effective date of rye price ceilings and tenders of 465,000 bushels of cash rye on December contracts. The market rallied on short covering and the old crop months closed unchanged to ⅜ lower. New crop futures were unchanged to ⅜ higher.

Trade in wheat was small and futures closed unchanged to ⅛ lower. Thirty thousand bushels were tendered on December wheat contracts. Short covering helped oats to close unchanged to ⅜ higher after breaking early on large tenders on December contracts. About 470,000 bushels of oats were offered in Chicago and 2,214,000 bushels at Minneapolis. Barley was ⅛ to ⅜ higher and corn was unchanged at the ceiling.

STOCKS BOUND, LED BY STEELS, MOTORS, RAILS

Advance Is Broad; Some Set Peaks

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Led by motors, steels, rails, and a wide assortment of specialties, the stock market made a substantial advance today that put many favorites at peaks for several years.

Gains ranged from fractions to 2 points generally with scattered issues up 3 to 5. Transfers totaled 1,820,000 shares compared with 1,750,000 yesterday.

Favorable dividend declarations and earnings reports buoyed sentiment. Pressure of idle cash seeking inflation hedges again provided a bullish influence. Stock splitups, actual and rumored, resulted in several broad rises.

Large Gains Registered

Largest advances included General Steel Castings preferred, up 5½ at 125½; Eastern Air Lines, 5 at 119; Hiram Walker, 4¼ at 92; United Air Lines, 3⅝ at 56½. J. C. Penney, 3½ at 151½, and Warner Brothers, 3 at 32½.

Ahead 1 to 2 or more were General Motors, Chrysler, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, Paramount, National Distillers, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Pan American Airways, Cerro de Pasco, International Nickel, and Johns-Manville.

On the Curb, Dennison Manufacturing preferred rose 27½ points to 148 on sales of 410 shares. The common was up 2⅝. Mead Johnson, on a projected 10 for 1 split, finished with a 22 point gain at 290.

RAIL BONDS MOUNT

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—Some rail bonds advanced fractions to about 3 points today and industrials and utilities were higher on average.

Higher carriers included Chicago and Alton 3s, up 2⅜ at 54⅜; Rio Grande 5s of 1978, up 1¼ at 63½; Lehigh Valley 4½s, up 1½ at 88½; New Haven 3½ of 1954, up 1 at 67½; Peoria and Eastern income 4s, up 4 at 76.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE

Price gains dominated in turnover of 67,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Admiral, up ⅞ to a 1945 peak of 16½; Peabody Coal, up ⅝, and Automatic Washer, up ⅛. Asbestos Manufacturing fell ⅛. Nine other 1945 peaks were reached, including Spiegel, up 2½.

TELEPHONE TOLL RATES WILL BE REDUCED FEB. 1

New York, Nov. 30 (AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph company today announced rate reductions for interstate services aggregating more than 20 million dollars yearly and effective next Feb. 1, under agreement with the federal communications commission.

About 17½ millions of the reduction are in long distance telephone rates, principally for distances between 340 and 2,140 miles. Rates for teletypewriter exchange service for distances of more than 350 miles will be cut about 1 million. Approximately $1,700,000 will be whittled from private line phone, teletypewriter, and telephotograph rates.

Walter S. Gifford, president, said the reductions were possible thru discontinuance of accruals to the company's employment stabilization fund—made since the latter part of 1943 to take care of maintenance expenses which would have been incurred during war years had it not been for scarce man power and materials.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION

Continental Gas & Electric Corporation

Gold Debentures, 5% Series "A", due February 1, 1958

To the Holders and Registered Owners of Gold Debentures, 5% Series "A", due February 1, 1958, of Continental Gas & Electric Corporation, a Delaware corporation, issued under Debenture Agreement dated as of February 1, 1928, between said Corporation and The Cleveland Trust Company, Trustee:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to the provisions of the above-mentioned debentures and Debenture Agreement, Continental Gas & Electric Corporation has elected to redeem and pay off on February 1, 1946, all of the Gold Debentures, 5% Series "A", due February 1, 1958, of said Corporation, issued and now outstanding under said Debenture Agreement. On February 1, 1946, there will become and be due and payable upon each of said debentures at the principal office of The Cleveland Trust Company, Euclid Avenue and East Ninth Street, Cleveland 1, Ohio, or, at the election of the holder or registered owner thereof, at the office of Bankers Trust Company, Corporate Trust Department, 16 Wall Street, New York 15, New York, the principal amount thereof and accrued interest thereon to February 1, 1946, plus a premium of 1½% of such principal amount.

Upon surrender of said debentures at either of the abovementioned offices with, in the case of coupon debentures, all interest coupons maturing after February 1, 1946, said debentures will be paid and redeemed at the aforesaid redemption price. Interest coupons due February 1, 1946, may accompany said debentures when surrendered for payment or may be detached and presented for payment in the usual manner. Requisite Federal ownership certificates must accompany all February 1, 1946, coupons. Registered debentures without coupons and coupon debentures registered as to principal must be accompanied by properly executed instruments of assignment and powers of attorney.

From and after February 1, 1946, interest on said debentures will cease to accrue and coupons for interest pertaining thereto and maturing subsequent to that date will be void.

CONTINENTAL GAS & ELECTRIC CORPORATION
By WILLIAM G. WOOLFOLK, Chairman.
FRANK L. CONRAD, President.

Dated: December 1, 1945.

PREPAYMENT OF FULL REDEMPTION PRICE

The above-mentioned debentures will be accepted and paid at the full redemption price, including interest to February 1, 1946, upon surrender thereof on or after December 1, 1945, at the places of payment specified in the foregoing notice of redemption. The interest coupons maturing February 1, 1946, may accompany debentures surrendered before that date or may be detached and presented for payment in the usual manner. Requisite Federal ownership certificates must accompany all February 1, 1946, coupons.

MEDICAL CENTER LAND BUYING BY STATE PROPOSED

Post-War Board Approves Park and U. of I. Housing

The Illinois post-war planning commission, at a meeting in the Bismarck hotel yesterday recommended the spending by the state of more than two million dollars for land buying and improvements on public projects.

Among the major items approved were: $641,000 for purchase of property for the medical center on the west side of Chicago; $130,000 for the buying of lake front land between Waukegan and Zion, to be converted into a park, and $127,000 to set up 275 dwelling units on the University of Illinois campus, at Urbana.

The commission action goes to Gov. Green for approval, for the law requires the commission to advise him in such matters.

Only a Start on Medical Center

David Brill, secretary of the medical center commission, said that the $641,000 would be only a start toward acquisition of the land needed—possibly only 7 or 8 per cent of the total needed. The present, he added, was a good time to buy because much of the property wanted is delinquent in taxes which could be compromised by a quasi-public organization such as the center.

Eventually the center will cover 305 acres in 2,200 parcels bounded by Ashland and Oakley blvds., Congress st., and Roosevelt rd.

The state already owns much of the lake front south of Zion and proposes to buy more than a mile and a half more north of Waukegan. George B. McKibbin, commission plan director, and his aids said they had options, at reasonable prices, on some of the 600 acres wanted.

Houses Ready in 60 Days

The houses for university students were obtained from the federal government. They are pre-fabricated and were shipped to Charlestown, Ind., as homes for war workers, but never were set up. They are expected to alleviate in some small measure what McKibben called "terrible congestion" in living quarters at the university. It is hoped to have the houses erected within 60 days.

The commission also voted $200,000 for improvement in the Little Calumet river and $90,000 for the Algonquin dam in the Fox river. It delayed action on a proposal that $20,000 be spent from the commission's own funds to survey the recreation value of the whole Fox river valley. Some members objected to setting a precedent in spnding its appropriations for special projects.

130 Millions on Hand

The state has about 130 millions of surplus funds, piled up by excess of sales taxes over needs, and this is the money the commission proposed spending.

A tabulation furnished by the staff showed that $1,243,000 had been allocated to counties and other taxing units to be used in planning of improvements in the post-war era. Chicago's share alone was reported as more than a million. This planning money from the state must be matched by the taxing bodies.

FINDS HUSBAND HANGED

Arvin Fink, 39, of 3303 N. Sacramento av., a shoemaker, was found hanged in his bedroom yesterday. His wife, Katherine, and their son, Curtis, 10, discovered the tragedy when they returned from shopping.

TELLS HEROISM OF FIRST YANK KILLED ON LAND

In the middle of Christmas afternoon four years ago Lt. Louis C. Schultz, 22, of 347 N. Linden av., Highland Park, died as he knelt over a smoking mortar atop a small hill outside Calauag, Luzon, in the Philippine Islands. His death is believed to have been the first of any American soldier in ground fighting against the Japanese.

The story of Lt. Schultz's death was told yesterday for the first time by Maj. Franklin O. Anders, 32, of Racine, Wis., one of the young officer's closest friends.

In Gardiner General hospital, where he has been a patient since his return to the United States recently after nearly four years in Japanese prison camps, Maj. Anders told of questioning countless Filipino soldiers and the single American officer who participated in that first battle in an effort to piece together an account of his friend's last days.

Weakened by Prison Experience

Maj. Anders, who was injured during the fighting on Bataan shortly before his capture, survived the Bataan Death March, but neglect of his injury and prison camp diseases left him in a weakened condition.

Altho he was not with Lt. Schultz at the time of his death, Maj. Anders said he believed he finally has assembled the facts of the tragedy. This is the story as told by Maj. Anders:

In August, 1940, Lt. Schultz was ordered to active duty as an infantry lieutenant. Less than a year later, he was aboard a transport headed for the Philippine islands.

Lt. Schultz soon became one of the most popular young officers in his regiment and was assigned to train 650 Filipino volunteers into a fighting unit.

Barely had the training, with obsolete equipment, been started when the Japanese struck. Lt. Schultz and his untrained soldiers were ordered to defend the eastern beaches of southern Luzon.

On Dec. 18 Lt. Schultz's unit made contact with Japanese troops that had landed at Legaspi in the first invasion of the war. Retreating slowly before the stronger Jap forces, Lt. Schultz finally stationed his small group on a hilltop near Calauag. During the first night there they discovered they had been surrounded by other Jap troops landed to the north.

For four days Lt. Schultz, his Filipino troops, and the other American officer, now Maj. Matthew Dobrinic of Taylor Spring, Montgomery county, Ill., held out.

Schultz and Squad Remain

Thruout Christmas eve the fighting continued and early Christmas day Maj. Dobrinic and the remaining Filipino soldiers broke into small groups in an attempt to escape to the hills. Lt. Schultz and five or six Filipino scouts remained behind to delay the advancing Japanese.

He was never seen alive again. Guerrilla bands later found his body lying on his mortar with dead Japanese 50 yards in front.

"He could have lived," Maj. Anders said, "but he preferred to die so that several hundred men might have a better chance to live."

Memorial services for Lt. Schultz will be held Saturday, Dec. 8, at 3 p. m. in Highland Park Presbyterian church.

NAVY CONSIDERS AIDING ARMORY BY USE OF PIER

Use of part of Navy pier to accommodate an unprecedented number of sailors being sent to Chicago's receiving station at the naval armory because of the navy's stepped up discharge program is under consideration by officials of the 9th naval district, it was learned yesterday.

Comdr. N. E. Weaver, commanding officer of the armory, situated at the foot of Randolph st., said the influx has taxed facilities and resulted in much inconvenience to the sailors. The armory with accommodations for 1,000 men, is sometimes compelled to care for twice that number. The result, he said, is cramped quarters and in many instances serving of food which has been become chilled.

To relieve the situation, Comdr. Weaver said men are processed thru the station as rapidly as possible. Chicagoans sent to the station are given the privilege of living at home, he said. The station is a temporary one for sailors en route to other bases or about to be discharged.
